S U M M E R F U N !

Dear Mom and Dad,

Hi! It's little old me again. I miss you all so much. It's so hot and sticky up here in Wisconsin, 107° weather! Aggh!! I've met many people from all over, so it's been kind of fun. I just got a letter from Alex Yepiz. He says he's been "having a great time cruising with the homeboys and dancing at the clubs." I wish I were there. Yearbook camp is so hard. We are making layouts night and day. Jon Hood also wrote. He recently went to Great America with a couple of friends. He said he "had lots of fun." Yvette Alfaro has been doing crazy things with her friends, but won't tell me what they were. Well, there're only 2 days left. Pretty soon I can be home and having fun too.

Love,

Theresa

P.S. Save me from this heat!!

WHAT IS NOT FUN? Being grounded is not fun! When asked what they would do on a Friday night when there's a big party, students said they would:

1. Try to talk it over with parents. 34%
2. Complain and stay home. 25%
3. Tell parents off and leave. 17%
4. Sneak out of the house. 15%
5. Stay home. 10%

Renee Manning and Kelly Pierce anticipate a fast, refreshing log ride at Great America.

Sad Theresa Romero who misses her boyfriend is comforted by secure Sara Sanchez at yearbook camp.

It was a cool summer for the gang of close friends: Sara Langellier, Jane Ebenroth, Ann Burke, Heather Campbell, Kristen Myers, Geoff Spurny, Rich Bosh, Chuck Uplegger, and Tony Johnson.

“ When junior, Sara Rupp was asked what she liked best about the summer, she said, “I hadn't experienced complete mental breakdown ... yet”.

Picnicers Gretchen Austgen, Krissy Pierce, Jenny Rose, and Kris Wright share some fun on one of the last few days of summer.

Steve Deason is drenched from a wet ride on Whitewater Rampage at Great America.

Food Poll

At the beginning of the year, Challenge took a poll of the most popular restaurants in West Chicago. The results were as follows:

1) McDonald's	38%
2) Burger King	17%
3) Pal Joey's	17%
4) Other	12%
5) Pizza Hut	11%
6) Wendy's	5%

py House, Burger King, La Esperanza, The Sandpiper, White Hat, McDonalds, Turner Junction, Pal Joey's, Jon Chen Chop Suey, Kentucky Fried Chicken, The Yellow Submarine, Rosati's Pizza, Tasty Freeze, Campagna's Pizza, Dominick's and Domino's Pizza are all places to eat in West Chicago. That's a lot of small restaurants for a small town like ours. Because of that, they effect us in more than just one way.

Ruby Dominguez, Esmerlda Caballero, Marisela Nunez, Idalia Alvarado, Ruby Cielo, and Luz Maria Nunez all sit in the cafeteria enjoying their lunches.

The most obvious way is in our appetite. Whenever we are hungry there is no trouble getting food, whether it be breakfast, lunch, or dinner. West Chicago is the melting pot of restaurants. We have every type of ethnic food here.

These restaurants also provide jobs for many of our peers. If it were not for these jobs, many people would not have weekend money or be able to go shopping!

Walking out of the lunch line, Craig Emery gets ready to eat his pretzel, oatmeal cookie, and drink his two chocolate milks ... all for $1.05.

Chris Trevino said during second lunch,
 "I like pizza bread because it doesn't rest real heavy in my stomach."

“ Jane Ebenroth
“During second lunch, someone entertained us by singing ‘Mary had a little lamb’ for the whole lunch.” **”

Alice Tinnes, Rita Boorsma, Rosemary Steuer, Nancy Hahn, Lucy Haugh, Audrey Smith, Kay Engel, and Vicky McGregory are the ladies who make our lunch time possible. They serve us the meals that they made. Then they clean up after us. Thank you ladies!

Anxious to eat his lunch, Tom Fox leaves the lunch line with a tray full!

Jill Swan looks over a menu at Pizza Hut for the volleyball party.

Clothes! Clothes! Clothes!

Making a fashion statement has become more and more important to students. In order to find out where they shop, a poll was taken in December. The results are reported below:

Females chose the Limited Express as their number one choice, followed by Carson Pirie Scott and Marshall Fields. Some unusual choices were thrift shops and Blue Skies.

Males chose K-mart as their number one choice, followed by Chess King and almost tied for third, The Gap and Skate Shack. Some unusual choices were the Salvation Army, Kids'R'Us, and Musicland. But the most unusual was Harod's in London.

New wave seems to be a growing fashion, especially for Brian Fritz, Jason Macek, Danella Herman, and Christy D'Aquila.

Leather is very popular. Sara Sanchez takes a minute to show her jacket.

"What's happenin'?" Vashon Hayes thinks he looks cool with his shades.

The draped scarf is the contemporary look that Barb Vlach has chosen.

For males, the cardigan over turtleneck style looks sharp as Jeremy Mayhorn shows.

Coy Ruth Flores models the modern look which includes black as a dominant color and a close-fitting look.

Jody Piper dresses for himself but prefers a preppy look when impressing girls.

When asked what fashion was the most comfortable he replied, "The sporty look 'cuz I'm a sporty guy."

White is his favorite color because it matches with everything.

Fashion is an expression of one's individuality, something — that is seen among the Wildcats of West Chicago Community High.

Females seem to enjoy shopping more than the males. Many of the stores' income relies on the females. Some favorite stores are The Limited, Limited Express, Ups 'N' Downs, Marshall Field's, Madigans, and Contempo Casuals. The hottest labels worn are Outback Red, Esprit, Guess, and Limited Express.

The number of stores available for males are much more limited. Some of the favorite stores are Chess King, The Gap, K-mart, Skate Shack, and Marshall Fields. The hottest labels are Bugleboy, Unionbay, Levis, and Guess.

The fall school year began with earth tone colors. Blacks, browns, mustard yellows, greens, etc.

Some popular trends were:

leather jackets, Louis Vetton purses, pants rolled up in a tight cuff around the ankles, Drakkar cologne, Guess watches, and friendship bracelets.

Magazines allow us to see the season's fashions — what's in and what's not. The most popular were Elle, IN Fashion, Mademoiselle, GQ, and International Males.

Senior, Theresa Romero, prefers "guys with a modern look. Black should be used as a dominant dress color along with a hip hairstyle." Junior, John Pohodich looks for much less. He would be happy with girls "in short tight skirts and half shirts."

The majority of the students believe in keeping up with the "in" fashions. The variety of fashion available allows each individual to choose his best look. But on the other hand, there are those who are creative enough to form their own unique style.

Penny loafers, a loose shirt, and baggy pants make a preppy look for David Smith.

During the Homecoming Parade Court Finalists, Jason Slusser, Shelia McMullen, Allen Jordan and Mary Gonzales, wave to the crowd.

Preparing for their future marriages, bride Jennie Ostrowski and father Gary Mitchell walk down the aisle at the Home Economics Night Mock Wedding.

WILDCATS

Always At Play

As freshmen they come to WCCHS, home of the Wildcats, as young inexperienced Kits. They learn the ropes from their upperclassmates; then they become sophomores. Sophomores' favorite line: "We don't have any more excuses, we are not freshmen," said Annette Pavone. Juniors, happy to be upperclassmen, call incoming freshmen "Rhiney's." "Hey!! We are Seniors we don't need excuses," said Liz Barry. Then the disease of "Senioritis" hits. They get antsy, can't wait 'till graduation, and that's all they talk about.

During Event Night, juniors John Winterhalder, Jeff Malay and Greg Lemkau encourage classmate Steve Klingberg to chug-a-lug in the apple cider contest.

Wildcats are made up of fun. They can find a variety of things to do. Mainly the life of a Wildcat is made up of fun 'cause "Wildcats are always at play."

Part of the Wildcat's social life takes place in the cafeteria. Kristen Myers, Brian Radkiewicz and Kelly Pierce pose for a picture during lunch.

Freshmen pick up quickly on the Wildcat's life style as they cheer together at the Homecoming Bonfire.

When asked to list the necessities of a good weekend, Kevin Chriske stated, "parties, work, and sleep — in that order," as Sara Langellier sat by in agreement.

Sophomores, known for fooling around in the hallways, torment each other: Kathy Echevarria, Eddie Pagan, Eddie Gonzales, Pat Quane and Shelby Dean.

Homecoming Memories

"It was a nightmare! I had to pick up my date in forty-five minutes, and I had no pants! What will I do? Then it hit me, ZAYRE!! it's cheap and it's close. It took me twenty minutes to get there and back. That's when I remembered I hadn't even tried them on yet, and when I did they were too long. Now there were only a few minutes left, so I grabbed the stapler and up they went. After that I was only five lousy minutes late." This story told by senior, Jerry Madsen, was one of many that night. The theme was Hollywood Dream. The seniors had voted for thirty boy and girl finalists. The student body had voted for six couples on the court, and the king and queen had been crowned. Senior Ann Perno said, "I had an awesome time because of who I was with," as she sat with boyfriend and King, Robin Martin. Sophomore Shelby Dean liked "popping the balloons at the dance." Sophomore Charvey Snell, who obviously had fun, said there was an "entertaining atmosphere with quality music. There were not any wallflowers; people were moving and talking." Senior Kelly Pierce "thought the D.J. was a good idea" and that "the dance set up gave us more dancing room." Many sorts of styles of dancing were seen: slam, romantic, groove, slow, and beat were a few.

Dinner reservations were important for the night also. Senior Stan Kramer said, "Mill Race Inn was a blast! I went with all of my friends and we had a good time." Stan had a good experience with his reservations, but others like Jeff Showalter were not so lucky, "My dinner reservations were late," he stated flatly.

For most of the students, the good outweighed the bad and their memories of this evening in a Hollywood Dream were good ones.

Slam Dancing is back judging from the looks of Brian Fritz and C.J. Bruser.

Randy Ruzanski and Carrie Severtson dance the night away.

Homecoming Royalty, Queen Tracey Brockman and King Robin Martin, reign over the Homecoming Parade.

Collette Dispensa and Dave Sirovatka dance with romance.

Dancing to the beat is what Ed Zamora likes the best.

These thirty students were Homecoming Finalists as chosen by the Senior class:
Front: Bette Purnell, Ann Burke, Heather Campbell, Traci Knutson, April Martin, Stacy Heideman, Roxane Rose, Mary Gonzales, Theresa Romero, Ann Perno, Tracey Brockman, Shelia McMullen,

After being blindfolded, Geoff "Buddah" Spurney is surprised to find that his cheerleader dream girl's kiss was from his mother.

Senior Andy Smith predicts a victory for his teammate, Theresa Romero, in the tricycle race.

Juniors, Brian Roy, Steve Klingberg, Michele Rittorno and Margie Shim, take third place in the sundae eating contest at Event Night.

Masked with the ingredients of chocolate pie, seniors C.J. Bruser, Kristen Myers, Sara Sanchez and Tom Brothers eat their way to victory.

SENIORS

To celebrate Homecoming Week, student council held Event Night, Wednesday, October 5, and Homecoming Competitions, Thursday, October 6. Each class competed for the most points gained by the end of the week.

Event Night consisted of contests such as chubby bunny, apple cider chugging, jello, cheerio, and sundae eating.

Jennifer Kramer, participant in the jello eating competition, explains, "All I could think of was — God don't let me puke! — It was so slimy it was sick, but it was a blast!"

Before all the competitions students rallied their Wildcat pride with a pep assembly featuring "The Ice Krew Rappers," James "Kid Nice" Steward and Lavell

SWEEP

"Dr. Dice" Tyler.

"Many people said they were going home after school. So to get everybody excited, I wrote the 1988 Homecoming Rap. The best part of the rap was 'We're coming on home to celebrate for the precious little queen and her walking mate'," replied Steward.

At the assembly the cheerleaders surprised some football players with a kiss judging game. The players were told that the kissers were dream girl cheerleaders or pom poms, but actually they were their mothers. Football players included Steve Deason, Tyrone Parks, Tom Perry, Brian

FIRST!

Radkiewicz, Dave Sirovatka, Geoff Spurney, Mike Waterhouse and Chuck Winkler. Other football players had their bedroom stuffed animals or hobbies exposed to the school by the cheerleaders.

Homecoming Competitions consisted of the egg toss and tug-of-war, won by the sophomores; pie eating, tricycle race, float competition and window painting, won by the seniors.

Throughout the fiestas, seniors won first, juniors took second, sophomores stole third, and freshmen settled for last.

We're a West Chicago band, ROCK a different way, we like to be different not clichè. Darren Mende and Matt Moran dare to be different.

Rob Rivan, freshman, intensely focuses his attention on the only thing that matters — the egg he is bound to catch. His effort wins first place for the freshmen class.

Students circle the bonfire chanting Wildcat cheers and expressing their Wildcat pride.

First place winner, Art Pierce, the upside-down man.

Feeling the fun of the dance, Frances Klee and Anna Martin dress as mimes.

Halloween Dance

West Chicago's creepiest costumes showed up at the Halloween Dance on October 29th in the school cafeteria. Prizes were awarded to Brian Stieglitz for most creative, Michele Lubinski for scariest, and Art Pierce, the upside down man, for funniest. Each winner received a prize of a top 40 single. It was a small crowd of close to seventy-five monsters and goblins dancing to mixes like "Push It" by Salt and Pepa.

First place winner, Art Pierce, enthusiastically told us, "My idea was given to me by my brother because a guy he knew went from bar to bar with this kind of costume and won first place in every one of them. He won 10,000 dollars! I figured I'd try my luck."

Provocatively waiting to dance, Don Zabelin shows us his best Marilyn Monroe.

The freaks come out at night: Chris Wicklund, Peggy Osterman, Andrea Miller, Linda Malec, and Stig Pedersen.

Dressed for the times, Pete Simpson wears a toga.

Clowning around, Amy Brigowatz acts as Harpo Marks.

Cheri Karns, Geoff Spury, Samantha Pulice, Rich Bosh and Trixie Kiehn walk to music in a routine called "Uptown Girls."

Bridesmaid Tara Brooks and Groomsman Jeff Krawczykowski enter the auditorium and lead the way down the aisle.

Shannon McKenzie and Dolly Blacklidge express their excitement as they sit on the clowns' baseball bench waiting their turn at bat in a baseball skit.

Groom Ismael Rios and bride Jennie Ostrowski pause after presenting flowers to their mothers.

Bride Gretchen Matthews and groom Lashann Hollins pose as they wait to go on stage after presenting flowers to their mothers.

Wildcats Strut Their Stuff

"For better or worse, for richer or poorer." These were some of the vows exchanged on Nov. 12th, between Ismael Rios and Jennie Ostrowski, Gretchen Matthews and Lashann Hollins during the Mock Wedding at Home Economics Night. In addition to a wedding ceremony, the audience was entertained with a fashion show prepared and performed by the clothing classes. The In-Touch Clowns joined in for some fun by stepping on stage and acting out their baseball skit. Lazaro Delgado was a surprise performer playing "La Bamba" and his own original composition. Mrs. Koslowski and Carlos Gomez also had a special dance in honor of Mrs. Koslowski's parents.

Carlos Gomez dips Home Economics Night Coordinator Patti Kozlowski during a special performance of dancing to various types of music.

"Thank God it's Friday!" Tom Joyce doesn't need to say that with the expression on his face.

We Need More Than A Weekend

A typical Friday night . . .

"Hey what's up? What are we doing tonight?"

"I don't know. Nobody is having a party. What did you want to do?"

"Well, I'll call Tom and get back to you. Okay?"

"No, let's go to his place and we'll figure something out from there. Just tell your mom we'll be back when the time is right."

Blah, blah, blah. I'm sure everyone hears this one every Friday night — except we never figure out what to do.

We drive around West Chicago for an hour and a half and waste a tank of gas. We either go home, see a movie at Wheaton or Ogden or go out to eat at Pal Joey's, Dunkin Donuts or Denny's. Considering how many times we drive through the parking lot of McDonald's looking for some action, we should eat at McDonald's all night!

Or do we work so much that our social life becomes our customers and co-workers. Once every great while we get to go out with our friends, if they haven't left already.

But we can't forget to bop until we drop by hanging out at discos. Whether it be house music, new wave, reggae, or plain old rock'n'roll, we all seem to enjoy big crowds, stuffy rooms and people dancing in our space. Something about it makes it exciting and creative.

Is it Saturday already? . . .

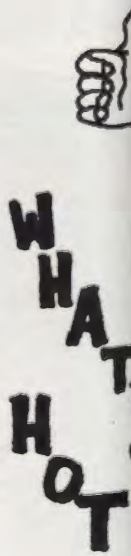

Saturday is hectic. We either babysit, work, do chores, or try to ditch Mom by hiding out in front of the Saturday morning cartoons on television. But for shoppers, Saturday morning means "hit the stores, it's sale time."

Sunday morning! "Don't I have a research paper due tomorrow?"

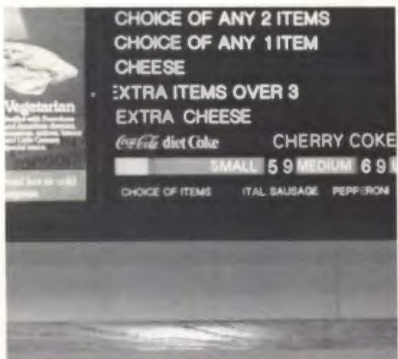

Sunday morning . . . The sound of it makes you want to take your afternoon nap. Papers are due tomorrow, and we all wait until 7:00 p.m. to start. But we all seem to suddenly take interest in the Sunday Night Movie. By this time it is 10:00 p.m. and we have nothing done or started. But it may mean another sleepless night because you sit and reminisce about the weekend. Suddenly you turn over and it's 1:00 a.m.

By Monday morning it hits us and we hope the school has burned down, the electricity has gone out, the snow has buried our house or Mom is in a good mood and will call in for us. Nope, we're going to school! "Where is Friday when you need it?"

By Sara Sanchez

Tell me, Rick Hudmon, at Little Caesar's do you really make two pizzas for the price of one? There must be an answer behind that smile.

Carlos "Kool Kut" Gomez times his next mix at a weekend dance.

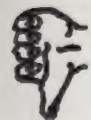

WHAT'S NOT

Idalia Alvarado, Myra Alfaro, and Ana Alfaro tie up their weekend by going to Sunday mass at St. Mary's.

Marnie Preuss, Sarah Bant, Alicia Garceau, Malia Leck, Tanya Brooks, Jennifer Vaverk, Laura Bozidarevic, Karina Bite, and Jessica Bridge have a slumber party on New Year's Eve.

WHAT THE GIRLS SAY!

TURNABOUT

"What will I wear? Have you gotten your dress? Who are you going with? Who should I ask? Where are we going to eat? Where am I gonna get the money to pay for this?" These are all very usual questions faced by the girls about two weeks before Turnabout.

Turnabout was April 22, Saturday, from 8:00 - 11:00 p.m. in the cafeteria. Tickets were $6 before and $8 at the door.

Some girls had surprises planned. Heather Campbell and Jane Ebenroth managed to keep their secret for weeks before the big night. Heather mentioned, "Half the fun of the dance is the excitement before it. Keeping everything a secret makes the whole dance more fun. Besides it drives them crazy!!" Even though their night was very usual, "it was a surprise to make Kevin Beardsley and Brian Roy a delicious Italian dinner, escort them to the dance, and then perhaps head downtown to finish off the evening," Heather stated.

Others had their nights carefully planned out in detail. Ann Burke said, "We went as far as making a list, numbers one through twelve, of the things we (Kelly and I) were going to do that day and night."

Questions about what to wear and where to go were common. Theresa Romero said that she was wearing "a tight black dress with an open back. I'm wearing this sexy dress 'cause I am going with Marcus." Liz Barry, April Martin, Ann Perno and their dates were all going to the Back Door Restaurant.

Before the dance, Sara Langellier predicted, "We are going to have fun." This prediction came true for the students — over 200 — who attended this dance, all receiving masks as they arrived at this Ballroom Masquerade. Mrs. Olsen even had a good time although she "had to wear earplugs as usual."

Heather Jardis and Liz Weibler talk over whether or not they should go out and dance.

WHAT? THE GUYS SAY:

Ken Leissering (87) and Jenny Christian-sen dance in their own world together.

Chad Hansen begins to dance.

Romance was all around: Glen Tepe (88) and April Martin share the moment of their dance.

In the days before Turnabout guys were waiting for the perfect girl to ask them to the dance. The guys were all looking forward to different things that the girls had planned. Jerry Madsen said, "I'm looking forward to it cuz I haven't been to a dance since Homecoming. I have high expectations set." Others like Mark Hall expected it "to be a spiritually stimulating experience."

Four guys wanted to "eat Mexican so they can impress their dates with a wonderful smell at the dance." Most didn't know or were unsure of the whereabouts of dinner because the girls wouldn't tell them. Brian Roy stated, "I wish I could tell ya what my expectations are, but it seems I'm in for a surprise. Is that good or bad? Well, form your own opinion! It is coming from the minds of Heather Campbell and Jane Ebenroth . . . Watch Out!!" Mark Hall wondered about his plans, "I really don't know." then he screamed, "My girlfriend won't tell me!!!!!!"

Some fortunate guys did know what their plans were exactly, like Dave Sirovatka who said with a smile on his face, "a little dinner, a little dancing, and a carriage ride!"

All in all the expectations of this dance, according to George Rapinchuk, were to have fun "while letting the girls pay for everything!" Fun it was . . . this Ballroom Masquerade.

Kevin Beardsley, Jeff Showalter, Brian Roy and John Winterhalder "party it up" at the dance.

Having a good time is what Prom is all about. John Schlenker and Julie McDole did have a good time, as we can see on their faces, before they go to watch the slide show.

Randa Bascharon and Kevin Beardsley beam after being crowned King and Queen of their Junior Prom, elected by their classmates.

Prom Court: Jeff Showalter, Colette Dispensa, Matt Hopkins, Queen Randa Bascharon, King Kevin Beardsley, Rachel La-Cour, Steve Klingberg, Margaret Shim, John Winterhalder, Jamie Christopher.

Amazed that four other girls at Prom wore dresses exactly like hers, Esmerilda Cabalero finishes dinner with her date, Sergio Campos. Her favorite time of the evening was when everyone was dancing to the mixes.

Gary Mitchell, Vanessa Nichols, Scott Risch, Missy Barrientos, Ann Burke and Shawn Noonan all share the dance together after eating dinner at the same table and before going to Ed's Restaurant in Chicago.

Prom promises Faithfulness

It was an occasion at which everyone promised to be "Faithful" for one night. Prom was held late in the year, June 2nd, and at Brookwood Country Club in Addison, with a buffet dinner. Brian Roy did not mind the $40 per couple charge, "My dad never went to his Prom and now he regrets it. I'm glad I am going, it is worth every penny."

The king and queen were introduced after a little dancing to a disc jockey and a slide show of the junior and senior classes. Last year's Prom Queen Traci Knutson and Geoff Spurney introduced the king and queen, elected by the junior class, after a little mind play with the court. Knutson had the court line up as she and Spurney chose dance partners. Left standing after a long, painful process Randa Bascharon and Kevin Beardsley were crowned.

The Prom ended at 11:30 p.m. with the distribution of memory books in the Prom colors (gray and pink) and candle champagne glass favors.

With roast beef, cheese, fruit and rolls on their plates, Kevin Chriske and Jane Ebenroth anticipate dinner while they wait for the other couples to be seated at their table.

New Members Initiated

NHS Membership Expands

Fifty-two seniors, outstanding in leadership, scholarship, and service, were initiated into West Chicago Community High's chapter of National Honor Society on November 17th. After a welcoming speech to students and parents by Dr. Alan Jones, guest speaker Dr. Thomas Fischer spoke about Socrates and stated that seniors are at the base of the mountain and now they must climb. During senior year they must apply themselves. Dr. Jones and Mr. John Highland conducted the initiation ceremony which was followed by a reception for new NHS members, parents and faculty.

In order to become certified Seniors recite vows after Dr. Jones.

Delighted in being inducted to NHS, Ann Crockett receives her award from Dr. Jones.

April Martin is very interested in learning what NHS is all about.

Celebrating induction to NHS are Roxane Rose, Jenny Powers, and Tara Brooks.

John Barstad, Trevett Blum, Scot Brian listen to Dr. Fischer's encouraging speech about the future.

They Did It Themselves!

"Honors Night serves to honor students who do worthwhile work that people really don't know about," stated honoree Kurt Duvall who, when asked who helped him to do so well in high school, said what most other self-motivated achievers would have said, "Nobody else — it was myself."

Baccalaureate Honors Convocation was held on Thursday evening, June 8, in Weyrauch Auditorium. After the Processional March by the orchestra, National Anthem and Invocation by the Reverend Guy Vaccaro, Concert Choir sang "Friends." Superintendent Dr. Richard Kamm introduced National Merit Award winners. Principal Dr. Alan Jones introduced Illinois State Scholars after which Sara Langellier and Jill Swan announced students who had won scholarships. Dr. Jones presented other awards including Academic Merit and Perfect Attendance Awards. Laura McPeters introduced National Honor Society Members. After teachers presented departmental and club awards, Exchange Student Advisor Marjorie Rhodes introduced exchange students who made farewell speeches.

How did he do it? With a feeling of genuine awe in the audience, Joey Rios receives his four-year perfect attendance award from Principal Dr. Alan Jones who praised such students "for making the extra effort on borderline days."

Seated on the stage of the Weyrauch Auditorium, Bette Purnell, Tony Webb, Brooke Winquist, Heather Campbell and Matt Szesny read along as they listen to Concert Choir sing "Friends."

In a touching moment, Dr. Jones congratulates Mussie Woldegabir on winning a Bilingual Achievement Award and on the great efforts he made as a transfer student from Ethiopia.

After 12 Years We Finally Made It!

The highlight of four years of study began solemnly for 278 seniors as they marched into crowded Bishop Gym at 2:00 p.m. on June 11th for Community High School's 84th Annual Commencement while the band played "Pomp and Circumstance." After the National Anthem, co-valedictorian Sara Langellier introduced the Reverend John Sebahar who offered the Invocation, and class president Traci Knutson announced the class gift, a trophy case for the commons. Principal Dr. Alan Jones introduced co-valedictorians Sara Langellier and Jill Swan, students with 4.0 grade averages for all four years, and salutatorian Laura McPheters. Swan then introduced the speaker, Math Department Chairman Lee Yunker, who explained how each person's life has "windows." He told the class about his early life on a farm, how he shed tears as a young child over math assignments, but then went on to win dozens of awards in physics and mathematics. He ended by encouraging the graduates "to bloom where they are planted" and wished them well in developing "their windows of opportunity."

Superintendent Dr. Richard Kamm presented the Class of 1989 to the board of Education. As Athletic Director Ronald Hansen announced the name of each graduate, seniors came to the stage to receive their diplomas from Board President Lawrence C. Hapgood and Principal Jones.

After cheers for all the graduates and the dignified recessional, Evan Barsky proudly receives his diploma cover from Dr. Jones and will later receive his real diploma after he turns in his cap and gown.

"March for Tomorrow," the graduates tried to evaluate what the experience had meant to them. April Martin said, "I felt relieved and good about myself — proud." Some thought that they would cry, but Ann Perno and Shelley Lockett were happy. Perno stated, "It was wierd — I didn't even think about crying!! I'm never going to see half of these people again, but it is a good feeling to never have to go back to high school again!!" Lockett said, "Honors Night was sadder than graduation! At Honors Night we are supposed to be happy, but that choir song, 'Friends,' really did it to me. Graduation was festive and happy — it is supposed to be the exact opposite."

Co-valedictorian Jill Swan gives her speech introducing speaker Lee Yunker who talked to the seniors about "windows."

Preparing for the graduation ceremony, Shelia McMullen asks others how she looks before she enters the gym which was packed to capacity.

Chris Behling, Andy Behrens, Raymond Bell, John Belli, Jenny Bement, Stephen Bennethum, Ken Benson, and Erin Berry stand during the Invocation.

Mike Quinn, Rick Ayres, Danny Woods, Mark Nowack, Mark Davis, and Rick Ruzanski aren't a bit impressed with the thought that they will be graduating in only a few minutes as they sit around in the cafeteria reminiscing of the night before and the years too!

PEOPLE

On the first day of school, Chris Malouf, Sybil Ruiz, Mandy Kossnar, Fiona Quane and Beth Owens meet in freshman hall.

Before Homecoming Coronation, Matt Pierce figures out where to sit.

Shawn Noonan gives Tracey Brockman a piggy-back ride on North Avenue beach in Chicago.

Identical twins, Lisa and Nancy Pollastrini, show us how much they really do look alike.

WILDCATS

“When senior Jim Hurlburt was asked what the best part of his high school years was he responded. “The friends I’ve made, the grades I got, and of course getting out of here!”

Since 1910 Wildcats have been standing strong, believing in their school and in each other. Although the school had expanded greatly both in the size of the building and in the number of students, we have remained the same Wildcats, with a great deal of Wildcat Pride.

Terre Jo Doggett, Jamie Christopher, Candi Sabol and Lisa Giblin can’t wait to compete in the Event Night Balloon Dance.

The Wildcats all turn together to watch homecoming finalists enter the gym.

Sticky but happy, Ben Seaver and Ami Patrick smile after competing in the Sundae Eating Contest.

Wildcat Pride had a different meaning for each student. Freshman Jeanine Goodman stated, “Wildcat Pride is believing in the Wildcats and always cheering them on, no matter what hardships we face.” Sophomore Melanie Christian said, “Wildcat Pride is rooting for the Cats no matter what happens. Whether we lose or not, Wildcats will always be #1.” Senior Jim Sheppard said, “Wildcat Pride is something special each one of us holds for our team and each other.”

Out of 1,359 students, 93.1 percent came to school on an average school day — one of the highest attendance rates in Illinois high schools.

Seniors Can't Wait To Graduate

It's Senior year and by now we have done everything. Everything except graduate. All you underclassmen will have to excuse us for being so rude; you will all understand someday.

Twelfth grade isn't like the last year of grade school.

Don't misunderstand- it's been great, but some of us were seriously looking forward to getting our diplomas sometime around the first semester of Sophomore year.

Seniors laugh and cheer as they all watch while other senior football players get their surprise kisses from their mothers during a Homecoming pep assembly.

Is it just me, or do weekend's get shorter as we get older?

Juniors

The life of a junior was a tough one for most Wildcats. They were preparing to be the head-honchos — how to party, where to go and what to do when you figure it out. The juniors set high dreams and crazy goals. Brian Roy was the one that stated, "If I could be anywhere in the world, I'd want to be in Naperville — it's Sooo Great!!" Now how much do we, the Wildcats, hate that? ... Kill the Ville!!

When a group of students was asked what their favorite movie was, most responded: "Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure ... DUDE!! Har-Har!" They are just that ... Crazy! George Rapinchuk likes to be a little different. He stated that "Bugs Bunny" was his fav. cartoon going against the most popular "Flintstones," but he agreed when he found out that the "Far Side" was the most liked comic strip.

According to John Pohodich, the juniors got the best laughs of Homecoming during the "Chubby Bunny Contest," and Jenny Blake believes it was the "Tug-of-War Contest." Sports were a craze for the juniors; according to Dave Smith, "Volleyball is the best!!" Their fav. Foods ranged from plain cheese pizza and Augustino's Italian Sub to a more extravagant meal of Red Lobster's Seafood and of course our school's own "Ribbette" according to Roy. The juniors had music favorites of Winger, Guns-n-Roses, Van-Halen, New Kids on the Block and Madonna. For Todd Evans and most others, "This year was definitely more 'excellent' than 'bogus' ... definitely ... yea, ... definitely."

Wildcat Pride . . . You Must Believe

By: C

People say that we can't compete in the Dupage Valley Conference and I don't subscribe to that philosophy. We can compete if we believe in ourselves but that feeling must come from within because no one is going to give it to us. Another problem is that it can't just come from a small bunch of people, everyone must believe in our ability. It all starts with Wildcat Pride.

The last year brought us many memories. Varsity girls' volleyball and basketball team brought regional plaques to the school. Likewise, the boys' basketball team came very close to capturing the first DVC basketball title in the school's history. This is a good start but it is not good enough. We should never accept what we have accomplished. Instead we should push on and then when we achieve another goal, push on yet further.

What is Wildcat Pride? Everyone has his or her own definition, and it means different things to different people. All I can offer is my definition of Wildcat Pride. Everytime I take the field I think about Wildcat Pride. I think that this might be the last game I ever play. Wildcat Pride means a lot to me. I take it personally when someone talks bad about the school or when we lose a game; it makes me work harder in practice because I am sick and tired of hearing that we can't win or when we do win that it was just a fluke. I expect to win and so should we all. I may be friends with kids from other schools but when I am competing against them I hate them. I want to win at all costs.

Next year is the last year for my classmates and me at the school. It is our last chance to leave our mark on the school. After this year all that will be left is memories, and underclassmen don't think that your turn won't come soon. Don't let the chance slide by, it will never be over for us in our hearts, but gone with the blink of an eye. We are ready to make a move away from being in the cellar to being a contender but we must all come together as one. We can't afford to have separations on our teams whether they are academic or athletic. We aren't blessed with 2,500 students at our school, but we are blessed with a lot of people who care. If you have never been involved in a club or sport, I challenge you to tryout for one. But remember one thing, everything has a price, and to be the best takes work, sweat and tears. The question I ask is, "Are you willing to do what it takes to become a champion?" I think everyone at the school does; now all you need to do is believe in yourself. It is time for West Chicago to go the last mile, be a part of it. Yet, it all starts with people who believe and people who believe must have Wildcat Pride.

Sophomores

No longer "Rhineys," Sophomores shed the burdens of being Freshmen. They had great times partyin' on Saturday nights and listening to their music. Sharon Volpe's favorites were "Ragdoll," "Pour Some Sugar On Me" and "Welcome to the Jungle." Favorite groups were Def Leppard, G-N-R, Corey Hart, UB40 and VanHalen.

Sophomores' favorite foods were pizza and steak — the favorite drink was Barq's Rootbeer. Although Annette Pavone thought the "Snake Dance" was the greatest event of Homecoming, others like Erika Noble and Jenny Goulding thought it was the Homecoming Dance itself. Mike Haugh, who didn't like Homecoming, said, "I'd rather be on a cruise in the Bahamas."

The best thing that happened to Melody Bensen was being Most Improved in Varsity Basketball. Greg Stuart's best thing was "getting in fights with guys named Jon." Others said friends were the best that happened to them.

Brian Jarmy summed up the Sophomore experience as "bazzarr and excellent."

Enthusiastic Kristy Spielman gets ready for P.E.

The first day of school was not an easy one for freshmen who had to struggle through the halls, trying to find their classes and meeting new teachers. Some freshmen dreaded this day. Michelle May said, "Knowing that summer was over made it hard to get up that morning."

Being a freshman is difficult also because upperclassmen look down on you: they'll call you a "rhiney". Vicki Wehrs stated, "Being a freshman is like being one of the little people."

Somehow freshmen live through all this abuse, confusion and torture.

Competition Arises . . . And Who Will Win?

Teachers, like students, were very competitive. The most talked-about and "heated" competition was a bicycle riding contest between Steve Arnold and George Strecker: the winner would ride to school on the greater number of days.

With 250 students entering their classrooms and monitoring the contest's progress, it was no wonder that rumors filled the air and contrasting stories circulated. "The contest only lasted until Christmas break. I won!!" stated Arnold who then added, "The question is will I win the second half of the contest?" Strecker said, "The bet is still on. This is the fourth year for it. Last year I won 112 days to Arnold's 110 days."

Strecker seemed to be pretty sure that he could pull it off again because "two years prior to this Arnold was so far behind it was embarrassing. He doesn't seem to understand the school year goes from August to June." As of April 4, 1989, Arnold stated, "I'm four days behind as of right now." While Strecker said, "This year's current score is STRECKER: 78 to ARNOLD: 74." We all know now that Strecker is winning, but will Arnold catch up?

Other teachers ride also with different motives and reasons. Dan Johnson stated that he rides to "train for triathlons" and he "tries to ride 100 miles per week when the weather permits." Most of the training has been "on a stationary bike or in the evenings." He believes that others can "walk, jog, swim, or bike. Anything that gets them off of the couch!!" Roger Lincoln said he rides because "the exercise improves my ability to think more clearly. I also like the fresh air and overall good feeling that I have about myself." Johnson and Lincoln have not been as involved in riding their bikes for competition as Arnold and Strecker have, but with "weather permitting" they ride as often as they can.

When it was heard that Dave Sayner rode to school occasionally, an anonymous source said, "The little wimp rode for the first time today, April 20th!" This source is a natural pro and has "averaged 1500 to 1600 miles a year riding to school, and over that same span of time I have averaged about 4000 miles a year total." This same source teaches what he preaches because he is no wimp: Strecker has been riding for eight years and is very competitive. In order to compete Sayner needs to be a little more competitive. Who will Strecker compete against next year besides Arnold? He is already telling people the way to ride from their homes in an easy route, instead of Arnold's rugged terrain of a path that goes through a field and then turns into limestone. Arnold and Strecker probably will get almost everyone to ride, why not? It is good exercise, and what harm could it do . . . except make more competition?

Coaches and advisers did their duty plus a little extra, but why? Was it just for fun or because they felt an obligation to their school? Here coaches and advisers tell their stories, the sources of their inspirations and why they did what they did.

Bob Owens has been coaching for 20 years and was "inspired by coaches I had in junior high and high school." He played football at NIU for four years. LaVora Singleton has been coaching for 16 years and said, "There is a different relationship between a coach and an athlete than between a teacher and a student." She coached "to get to understand them better." Bob Hein has been coaching for 25 years and remembers this embarrassing moment: "I was in a hurry getting dressed to go to a wrestling meet, I ended up with a different shoe on each foot, and I did not realize it until I was out in public." Wayne Kosek was inspired by the usual "reward of seeing students improve and do well," but also said he was inspired by "competing against other coaches." John Highland, who has been coaching for 12 years, "never stopped to figure" how many hours he spends on coaching, whereas Dan Johnson says he spends "up to 30 hours a week during peak times" because he likes "seeing West Chicago become a power." When Bruce Donash was asked what inspired him to coach he said, "I think who inspired me is more appropriate — answer, my father who coached me in baseball as well as other coaches I had throughout my high school and college careers." Donash also stated, "I cannot recall any moment when I have been embarrassed because my players and coaches and I have always worked as hard as we can." Donash liked Coaching because he wanted "the opportunity to give back some of what I have been given, meet new people and grow as an individual." Kim Edwards said, "I like working with the girls and seeing all of their hard work pay off." Tim Courtney just responded, "I love the sports." That is why he coached — probably a major reason for all coaches.

Advisers were inspired, but also inspiring. Patty Arnold said she advised math club "to encourage as many students as I can to do well in math" as well as "to have fun!" Gail Arnoff said, "I wanted to do an above and beyond job for a good cause — prevention of drug and alcohol abuse." Don Zabelin said he wanted "to be the best in Illinois, and we have made it in the 1988-89 school year!" He states, "I have been fortunate in attracting wanted to get to know more students and I love going to the proms!" She said, "I support the senior class any way I can." Dorothy Virant said, "I love to see a project go from planning to accomplishment. And I like to see students take charge. I like to let students take the lead, to be as unobtrusive as possible." Marge Rhodes just likes being with her foreign exchange students and is "presently hosting number 14." Most advisers though, were like Sally Olsen. They just liked to be able to lean back once in a while and say "You know best!"

many of West Chicago's finest students over the years. I am willing to try harder than most, and that is why our FBLA chapter is the best in Illinois!" Tammy Fritz said, "My enthusiasm and creativity are my differentiating characteristics from other advisers." That definitely made her an individual. Bob Hein said he had fun "being involved in pep assemblies, Homecoming Parade, SADD and Student Council activities." They are his idea of having a good time. Carol Sweder said she was inspired because "I

After 31 years of teaching at We-Go, Charles Cowden has decided to retire. Some of his favorite memories of We-Go were "The day my children started high school, the day they graduated and perhaps in the afternoon in 1974 when our football team won the State Championship." Cowden started teaching because "I enjoyed the subject matter, and I thought it would be interesting to help other young people get involved in mechanical activity," and in the fall of 1958 he started his teaching career here at We-Go. Good luck in your future retired lives —

"It has been inspiring to see and hear from a great number of students that I have inspired in my class in the past years that have become professional artists and those that have become just good citizens in their respective communities. To these people: 'I salute you!' This has been what being a teacher is all about." This is what art teacher Willard Beebe thought as he looked back on the past 26 years that he has taught at We-Go. Beebe had this to say about why he is retiring this year, "There are any number of reasons; however, I was eligible for early retirement, so I decided to take it. Also there have been only six years of my life that I haven't started school in August or September — it's time for a change." Beebe also said that in his spare time, "I would like to start a

ACADEMICS

Studying in the halls is a common thing for the Wildcats. Sophomores T.J. Weigand, Mike Haugh, Scott Stafford and Greg Stuart all hurry to study for a quiz next hour.

On the first day of school, freshmen Mike Perez, Mike Fitzpatrick and Kenny Yanke try to figure out where their first hour classes are.

Required courses are not easy. Senior Mark Hall shows us how he feels about his Calculus class.

Senior Ed Zamora concentrates in his elective class, mechanical drawing.

Our high school years were a time to enjoy ourselves and be a bit crazy, but we also had to take time to realize the importance of academics. With 1,359 students and a staff of 130, Wildcats worked on required and elective courses. The ratio of students to professional staff was thirteen to one.

District 94 set a graduation requirement of twenty credits for the class of '89. The years that follow must increase this by one-half credit. Class requirements were also needed such as: English, 3 credits; social studies, 2 1/2 credits; math, 2 credits; science, 1 credit; physical education, 4 credits; any combination of art, music, foreign language or vocational education, 1 credit; and electives, 6 credits.

An alternative to an elective class, providing 2 1/2 credits per year, was DAVEA, a DuPage County cooperative providing thirty specialized vocational and technical programs from which high school juniors and seniors could choose.

Wildcat seniors who met all requirements were able to graduate. About forty-two percent planned to go to college and took college preparatory courses. Twenty-two percent took general education courses, and thirty-five percent pursued vocational education.

Juniors and seniors who took ACT tests had these average scores: English 19.3; math, 20.9; social studies, 20.1; natural sciences, 23.4; and composite 21.1.

We tried to take school seriously; a time comes when you must grow up and set a time aside for fun and letting loose, then another time for business like school work.

Ana Maria Alfaro, Felix Villa, and Mariano Ballines, practice a group sentence sequencing activity in their ESL II class.

WHEN KURT DUVALL WAS ASKED WHAT HIS FAVORITE REQUIRED COURSE WAS HE RESPONDED:

“ Medieval and European History was my favorite - that was the best!! Mr. Zimmerman made it very interesting, especially when we talked about the castles and stuff!! It was GREAT!! ”

Are required courses that exciting? Tony Johnson demonstrates how to take five.

Mr. Kosek gives helpful advice to Jenny Fuchs during English class.

Student participation is a must in English classes. Dave Brown stresses "peace" and Bernice Armundson writes down an assignment.

Idalia Alvarado, Ray Steele, George Prehn, Karen Schuster, and Michelle Devine, listen to a joke during class.

Are Required Courses That Important?

Yes! Required courses really are that important. To get into a four year college, you must take four years of English, three years of math, two and a half years of social studies, two years of science and two years of foreign language or fine arts. Students can meet these requirements because of our seven hour day. In order for seniors to graduate they need twenty credits this year and twenty and one half thereafter.

The Illinois Board of Education and local districts determine these requirements. And due to the new requirements, electives are being changed: next year home maintenance will replace industrial arts. College bound students appreciate the school requirements because they realize that they are necessary for college; other students agree with them because they know that the courses will help to prepare them for their future lives.

Work Pays Off

PAYDAY! The sweet sound of payday rings through our ears, but for others it may mean no pay but "great work experience." Programs like Inter-Related Occupations, Cooperative Work Training and DAVEA help students begin their careers right after high school graduation. Students learn entry level skills in the work field.

IRO and CWT provide experiences for students to work as bankers, accountants, child care workers, auto-mechanics, legal secretaries and dental assistants. Students attend school for half a day and work the other half. These work programs consist of juniors and seniors who may take no more than five credits per year. They need to submit two references and a drivers license because transportation is not provided. Depending on their skills students are put into either IRO and CWT. CWT serves the basic skills program. IRO serves college bound students of whom about half go on to college. As for improvements Mrs. Streicher stated, "IRO is planning to add more entrepreneurship and economics. I am also happy to see the quality of the students and the jobs come a long way."

DAVEA is a vocational school where students receive two and a half credits for the year. Students prepare themselves for entry level positions in fields like cosmetology, photography, auto-mechanics and computer programming. They attend a learning lab where they go through their goals and work independently. Their records are then sent to their employer.

Music Wins Big

Band and Orchestra, together with Choir, won third place in Illinois High School Association Class A State Music Contest.

Orchestra presented Fall, Christmas, Winter and Senior Honors Concerts and played at Baccalaureate/Honors Night. They provided "Strolling Strings" at a fall Rotary Club luncheon and, in December, attended a Chicago Symphony Orchestra performance at Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

Orchestra received first place at IHSA Organizational Contest. In IHSA Solo and Ensemble Contest, Andrea Miller and Teresa Johnson won first place in Violin Duet, and String Choir also won first. Andrea Miller won National School Orchestra Award. Amy Warrington, Tammy Clark, Elizabeth Gemand, Kim Smith and Mary Suhr were chosen to play in the Fox Valley Music Festival.

Band performed a short concert at Northern Illinois University and were critiqued by Steve Squirels, NIU Band Director. Band members took a trip to hear the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in Orchestra Hall; they went to NIU's Wind and Percussion Festival where they attended master classes and other concerts. Trumpet trio (Dave Schneider, Clay Turner and Brian Ohins) and flute duet (Esmeralda Fernandez and Charity Lux) received superior ratings in IHSA Solo and Ensemble Contest. Lisa Hohbein won the John Philip Sousa Award for outstanding senior musician and was selected for Illinois Music Educators Association District VII High School Honors Band. Janelle Austin, Dawn Dlouhy, Lisa Hohbein, A.K. Green, Martin Israel, Chrissy Pichman and Pete Simpson received Senior Music Awards.

Choirs sang the sweet tune of glory by participating among Level A schools, doing their part to help the Music Department win third place at the State Music Contest on March 4th and April 8th. They were judged on expression, tone quality, tune and breathing. Solo and ensemble groups and Madrigal singers performed on March 22nd. Orchestra, Band, Concert Choir and Swing Choir competed on April 8th.

Choirs planned and performed Christmas vespers, fall, Honors Night and Commencement con-

Choir director, Ronald Benner, explained what it is like to see his students perform professionally, "I feel great; it makes you feel you've accomplished something and had an influence on that person. It is one of the neatest feelings."

Wildcats Show Their Hidden Talents

Wildcats developed special skills in dance production, P.E., foreign language and industrial arts.

A semester class, dance composition, which gave students experience in jazz, ballet and modern dance techniques, was added to the P.E. department. Another dance class, dance production, optional for juniors and seniors who must tryout for it, produced a dance show January 19th and 22nd.

Students in foreign language classes participated in National German, French and Spanish contests. Wildcat students hosted German exchange students March 17-April 8, and French students April 27-May 13. A new German teacher, Ursula Baker, joined the faculty.

Home maintenance class was planned to replace woods and metals for next year. Students were furnished with new equipment, Computer Assisted Drafting and airbrushes, in drawing classes.

Mike Waterhouse pioneers the new airbrush techniques in architectural drawing. It is a pen that shoots out air and paint like a spray can, and it is used for rendering drawings.

Carlo Herrero and Amy Szwajkowski work on etchings in an art class.

These classes brought out and developed Wildcat skills of physical fitness, dancing, drawing and language ability, adding to our Wildcat Pride and preparing us for the future.

Just Do It ... Study!

Since the Learning Resource Center was a place to study, noise-makers received various warnings from LRC Aide Charlotte Barsema. During the last few weeks of school her frequent remark was, "I don't want to see you till September!" Studying was made easier in the LRC by the addition of Newsbank, an indexed microfiche system with articles from regional newspapers. An expanded inter-library loan program, which provided books from the DuPage Library System, allowed students to use many more materials for research than were owned by the school. The LRC also had computers, tape recorders, VCR's, tapes, markers, magazines, newspapers, stencils and calculators as well as books.

During unscheduled hours students like Kelly Lee studied in the LRC: "I do my homework so that I don't have to bring it home, and I converse." John Prusko said, "I like to use one of the computers. My favorite game is 'Where in the World is Carmen San Diego?'"

Some of the students in the LRC like Sally Hohbein were waiting for their turn behind the wheel of Drivers' Education. While waiting, Hohbein commented, "I liked Drivers' Ed. I just didn't like it when they all said, 'Don't kill anybody.' Cute, eh?" Jody Schwab, waiting with Hohbein said, "I almost didn't get my license, so I felt great when I got it. It was funny when everyone said, 'Oh no — you drive now! I don't wanna get in the car!'" Most driving students usually found their way to the LRC because, as Kim Hayes said, "Mom and Dad always say I have to have my grades up in order to keep my car."

Bilingual students, all 261 of them, studied most classes in Spanish the first year. During the second and third years, they gradually had more and more classes in English. In addition to their usual teachers, they had new teacher Linda Fuller to help them. And as Principal Dr. Alan Jones explained, "The bilingual emphasis now is on cooperative learning and peer tutors."

All in all, the LRC was a great place to study or relax during unscheduled time: it all depended on what kind of mood everyone was in and how much studying was necessary.

“ I was embarrassed the first time I had to drive in a car with a big yellow 'Student Driver' above it.

Shane Steele uses one of the many resources available in the LRC—a tape player — as he relaxes comfortably while listening to one of his tapes.

The floor is sometimes a more comfortable place to study. Bilingual student, Guillermo Carlos works on a math worksheet in that position comfortably.

Freshmen like to study in the LRC: Shelisa Phillips uses her time wisely as she uses the tall table to do her work on.

FBLA, Scholastic Bowl, VICA and Math Club competed. Thespians put on three plays. Foreign language clubs hosted students from foreign lands and learned about new art, music and food. Bridge, Chrysalis and Challenge spent endless hours of hard work to meet deadlines to communicate their thoughts and knowledge to their peers. The good attitude clubs SADD, In-Touch, Peer Listening and Pep Club helped Wildcats with problems. Whether it be drinking, parents or winning the football game, these clubs all helped to get the spirits raised. All had very enthusiastic members that achieved goals and made us proud.

Student Productions

Student dramatists put on three plays in Weyrauch Auditorium. In all, over 150 students from all grades participated.

"Ten Little Indians," directed by Ralph Zaffino, was performed on November 3rd, 4th and 5th. The mystery in this play was how ten people disappeared one by one from Indian Island, Michigan.

"The Miracle Worker," the true story of Helen Keller and her teacher Annie Sullivan, was performed February 16th, 17th and 18th. Director Mary Hafertepe remembered, "This was one of our best plays; the cast worked very well together." Dave Vish, acting in his first play, thought it was an accomplishment to be chosen and that the two-hour per day practices for the weeks before the play "helped him overcome fear in front of other people." He thinks the experience will help him give speeches in his English classes.

Dragons, deformed goblins, terrible trolls and all sorts of magic provided a fantastic experience for playgoers on May 11th, 12th and 13th as students performed "The Hobbit" under the direction of Ralph Zaffino.

Behind the scenes of every performance was a hardworking crew of students who prepared publicity, built scenery, arranged sets and props, worked lights, provided make-up and served as ushers.

Afraid of being made into Hobbit stew, Bilbo Baggins (Diane Madden) tries to convince trolls Jennie McCann-Wilke, Lisa Riegert and Chris Seper that he (she) is a hobbit not a rabbit.

Could this be a proposal? With Lisa Childs, Matt Moran and others, mysteries abound in the suspenseful scenes of "Ten Little Indians."

Insisting that obstinate Helen Keller (Peg Osterman) wear her napkin at the table, Annie Sullivan (Andrea Miller) establishes the basic discipline necessary for teaching in "The Miracle Worker." Family members Amy Schultze, Jess Nelson and Lori Schuermann look on.

Frightened and confused by the strictness of her new teacher, Helen Keller (Peg Osterman) retreats to the familiar permissiveness her mother (Lori Schuermann) provides in "The Miracle Worker."

Future Leaders

School organizations such as Student Council, Scholastic Bowl, Math Club and VICA helped students prepare for leadership and competition in their future lives.

Student Council became more involved in raising money for charities both within and outside the school since they felt one of their purposes was to help others. In October they sponsored Homecoming Events and Homecoming Dance. In November they sponsored mock Presidential Elections and then began a can recycling program which continued through the year. They organized blood drives in November and March. In December they had a computer-Cupid fundraiser and sponsored a Christmas party at West Chicago Terrace where they painted windows, made cookies and hung garlands for nursing home residents. In January they organized a Cystic Fibrosis Bowl-a-Thon and a Jaws pool party. During March and April they had a Glendard North exchange, Turnabout Dance and a trip to art galleries. In May they sponsored an AIDS Awareness Week.

Scholastic Bowl Team, practicing every week for a mental sport requiring quickness and cooperation, had enough students for a JV team. In addition to their regular schedule of meets, they competed in a tournament at Maine East High School.

Math Club competed for fun but also found that their participation helped them build their math skills. They took a field trip to Glenbrook South High School to see a presentation on Fractal Geometry and then went to Itasca to a presentation on women in mathematics and engineering. Jill Swan and Chad Landis received third place in the DuPage Valley Math Conference in the junior-senior two person team competition.

Vocational and Industrial Club of America students competed in the Illinois VICA State Contest held in Springfield: Jennifer Bonsack (commercial sewing); Shannon Casey (second place essay and fourth place dental assisting); Sharise Carlson (fourth place commercial sewing); Chris Dillner (third place full service auto); Christa Dugan (job interviewing); Debbie Leonard (finalist job interviewing); Michelle Perry (second place dental assisting); Michael Sachse (extemporaneous speaking).

The Communicators

Students on newspaper, yearbook, and literary magazine staffs attended conferences, won honors, and worked hard to communicate and meet deadlines. Challenge staff members attended a summer yearbook camp — Kettle Moraine Press Association Yearbook Workshop at University of Wisconsin at Whitewater where Kelly Pierce won honors division first place for creative layout. The staff also competed at KEMPA in September; in April John Prusko, Kelly Pierce and Jeanine Goodman competed in the Eastern Illinois High School Press Association On-Site Contest at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. The staff also attended Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Association Conference in Dekalb. They worked hard to meet publisher deadlines and made major changes in layout style. Chrysalis, a literary magazine containing original artwork and poetry, was written and produced by students. Bridge staff won honors and had articles published in national publications. Deanna Duval and Michele Rittorno wrote a story on runaways (from a story idea developed by Julie Mastro) which was reprinted in the Youth News Service Newsletter. Andy Behrens won 3rd place for a feature story, "Welcome to Wag's, Home of the Heathen's," reprinted by Suburban Press Club of Chicago. The staff also went to University of Illinois and to the NISPA Conference in Dekalb. The staff attended National Journalism Education Association Convention in Washington D.C. where Karen Getlinger won a 2nd place award; she later went on to NJEA Write-Off contest in Anaheim, California, where she won first place in advertising design.

The German Club, Spanish Club, Bilingual Club and French Club allow students to get involved, to understand and experience different cultures and to apply the languages learned in their classes.

German Club went to Chicago to see "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" at the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse. The German Club truck won the Miscellaneous entry for the Homecoming Parade.

Spanish Club is set up to enable members to experience the Hispanic culture (Spanish and Latin American). They went to a Mexican dinner and a movie to experience some of the culture. They also participated in Christmas caroling with the French and German Clubs. The club also visited a Mexican neighborhood in Chicago and went to a restaurant called "Emilios." Some members participated in the National Spanish Exam.

French Club had a fondue party and learned how to make crepes for Mardi Gras in a cooking class. They also participated in French folk dancing at Fermilab.

Bilingual Club had a brunch at a Mexican restaurant, took a train to Chicago and went shopping. They also had lunch and dinner in Chicago and took a Spring outing to Wisconsin Dells.

When Linna Lin was asked why she joined the French Club she said, "I thought it would be very interesting and it would be something new. I wanted to learn more about France and its culture; that's mostly why I joined."

Good Attitudes

Pep Club emphasized promotion of spirit throughout the school, and its members sponsored several spirit activities such as class competition during assemblies, including the "kissing" game for varsity football players at the Homecoming Assembly. The club was also in charge of the election and coronation of Homecoming King and Queen and providing flowers for parents at Senior Night. Their primary activities were decorating athletes' lockers and giving them treats on game days to help them get into the spirit of the game.

In their third year, In-Touch Clown Team expanded its group and activities. It doubled its membership and added to its costumes and props.

Members participated in Home Economics Night, the Railroad Days Parade, Carol Stream Fourth of July Parade, and FBLA's Variety Show. In addition to giving a positive note to audiences, there is a serious message behind the skits. The group traveled to six elementary schools and put on skits to teach the children not to abuse alcohol and drugs.

SADD sponsored many activities to get across their message, "Friends don't let friends drive drunk." SADD displayed a wrecked car at Homecoming. They also made announcements, posters, and display cases warning about drinking and driving. They observed the DUI roadblock on November 25, 1988.

Showing off their pep pal posters are Tracey Brockman and April Martin.

When Bette Purnell was asked why she made-up her face like this she said, "People don't get into Homecoming, and I did this because people are afraid to do crazy things these days, so I went a little crazy."

Decorating lockers and expressing spirit for the team are the main functions of Pep Club. A loyal Pep Club member, Shelia McMullen, decorates her pep pal's locker.

Surprise! During Homecoming, Pep Club got mothers of football players to give their blind-folded sons a good luck kiss, while they thought they were being kissed by cheerleaders or poms. Tyrone Parks and his mother demonstrate this.

Rick Montalvo runs cross country during a Conference meet. Later he went on to place 46th in State.

West Chicago was a common name often feared in the DuPage Valley Conference. Every team made our school proud as they tried their best to defend their Wildcat name. Girls' Volleyball and Basketball teams brought home plaques for winning Regionals. Girls' Swimming sent four girls to state; Boys' Diving sent one and Cross Country sent one. Football beat Glenbard South, and Boys' Soccer upset Streamwood in Regionals. Cheerleaders had a Varsity squad that received a superior ribbon, a sophomore squad that qualified for ICCA state cheerleading competition and a girl that placed 20th in the nation.

Wrestling had two boys place 4th in Sectionals. The following pages will show the successes of Baseball, Tennis, Girls' Soccer, Badminton, Softball and Track.

Football

Despite Many Hardships Players Keep Winning Attitude

Even with a 1-6 conference record (1-8 overall), our football players stayed on top with their team spirit and winning attitude. Coach Bruce Donash commented, "It was tough for seniors with a new coach coming in, which could have been the reason for the losing season." Donash stated some highlights of the season were the win against Glenbard South and the game against Naperville North. Players had to suffer through long, hard practices in the dreadfully hot summer days. Phil Riske, chosen Most Improved, set an example of winning attitude for the team and was described by Donash as "the guy who played the hardest."

When asked to describe the football team, Steve Deason commented, "Hey, man, We-Go rocks!" Deason also commented that the best thing this year as compared to last year was "our better attitude towards winning and striving for our goals." When asked about practices, Deason said, "They were more fun and of better intensity for both the team and the coach."

Tom Perry, displaying his good Wildcat spirit, described his worst practice as being "fun." He stated that students didn't have much spirit during the season "because people assumed we were gonna lose and don't believe in us as they do our other teams."

When asked what was the best part of the season, Perry said, "Our only win against Glenbard South."

Mike Moffatt, describing the best practice, said "the linemen were fired up for offense, and we got to beat up on the scouts and sophomores."

Airborne Chris Nippert shows his acrobatic ability by leaping into the air to catch a pass at the Glenbard South game.

Phil Riske, Most Improved Player, was motivated to try hard because, "I wanted to try for a starting position and make sure that I got a varsity letter."

Riske's season high point was the JV game against Glenbard South, "I played cornerback, did well on almost every play and made a lot of tackles. It was the best game of my life."

"I love football especially defense. It's a cool sport. I like the hitting, the tackling and how complicated it is."

Tennis

Varsity Wins All Non-Conference Matches

Despite finishing eighth in conference (0-7), Varsity won all seven of their non-Conference matches, and were 7-13-1 overall.

They placed seventh out of ten in the I.H.S.A. Sectional Tournament, and swept the W.C. Quad Meet. Their major accomplishments were winning several shut-out (5-0) matches; Trinette Co's going undefeated at the Cary Grove Invitational; and Dana Netzel's making a surprise comeback after losing the first game of the match, only to win the last two games in the match to beat Wheaton Christian. Dana Netzel received Most Valuable and Coach's Award. Laura McPheters received Most Improved Award.

JV had an overall record of 5-9, a Conference record of 0-7, and a non-Conference record of 5-2.

Jamee Taylor smashes the ball over the net to her opponent.

Trinette Co concentrates on her return.

To keep in practice, Laura McPheters, Most Improved Player, played at least once a week during the summer. She played two years on JV and two years on Varsity. Her goal as a freshman, after accomplishing second doubles JV, was to play second doubles Varsity. Exceeding even her own goal, McPheters as a senior played first doubles. Although she does not plan on competing on the college level, she said that she will probably play for pleasure and in college intramurals.

Laura became interested in tennis because it is a sport that her family enjoys playing.

Montalvo Goes To State

In one of their most successful seasons, Cross Country varsity was 10-1 overall, 7-1 in Conference and placed fifth in Conference Meet. Frosh/Soph was 9-2 overall and 7-1 in Conference. They were the first Cross Country team from We-Go on any level to win the Du-Page Valley Conference title. Sophomore Rick Montalvo, who was named to All-Conference and All-State teams, placed 46th in State.

“ What motivated Rick Montalvo during the season? “I knew that some of my competitors were better than I was, and I wanted to be better than my best.”

How did he feel about going to state? “It obviously felt great, but what really got to me was that I got to compete with Illinois’ best. Next year when I’m a junior I hope to accomplish something greater and go as far as my will can take me.” **”

Golf varsity, with an overall record of 2-11 and a Conference record of 1-6, placed eighth in Conference. Frosh/Soph was 2-10 overall and 1-6 in Conference, seventh place. Rick Ayres who had Best Average (41.42) shared Most Valuable honors with Mike William. John Pohodich, Most Improved, kept a positive attitude by “remembering that golf is a game that is mental; and I can’t let bad shots disturb my game.”

Volleyball

Regional Champs Place Second In Sectionals

With an overall season record of 16-14, Lady Wildcats finished 9-5 in conference. Their goal for the season was to improve last year's record and to be one of the top three teams in conference. Instead, they placed second in conference, were regional champs after beating Naperville North for the first time in five years, and placed second in sectionals with a win over Wheaton Central before falling to Streamwood.

Most Valuable Ann Burke and Heather Campbell were All-Conference players. Bette Purnell and Karen Getlinger shared Honorable Mention All-Conference and Most Improved honors.

Starting in season games and receiving Most Improved awards were Bette Purnell and Karen Getlinger. Getlinger played middle hitter and Purnell started at left back.

Getlinger feels spiking and putting the ball in the opponent's open spots are the most challenging quests in volleyball. "We feel best when we go up against a tall team that hits hard and we can pick up anything they give us," replied Purnell.

High school is not the only playing time Purnell and Getlinger have had. Purnell, who played in junior high as well as all four years at high school, also attended a variety of summer camps. Getlinger played in junior high, and attended West Chicago and Redbird Volleyball Camps. She also played on the Westwinds team made up of ten WCCHS student volleyball players.

Getlinger plans to participate in a co-ed team after high school. Getlinger likes volleyball because it is a team sport; no one can be a winner in volleyball alone.

What was the high point of the season? "I think that the high point of the season was beating both Naperville back to back in the same weekend. We beat Naperville Central away and Naperville North at home."

Pom Pons

Camp Winners Become Unified Squad.

The pom pon squad began a successful season by winning a second place overall at Badgerette Pom Pon Camp July 28-31. Adding to the second place, the squad received three first places in nightly ratings, the sunshine squad award, the nightly spirit award one night, a first place in the partner step competition and a second place in senior kickline. Also at camp, Mary Gonzales placed second in the Miss Badgerette competition. Jenny Dispensa said, "Pom camp was a blast. It gave us a chance to become friends as well as becoming a unified pom squad."

During football season the squad competed at Great America. Ann Perno commented, "At first I was pretty nervous to be competing in front of all those strangers, but when I looked out at the audience and saw all of our friends, it gave me confidence and made it more fun for all of us."

During the year the squad raised over $600 selling carnations for Valentines Day. With the money earned from carnation sales plus a large donation from student council, the poms will purchase new uniforms for the '89-'90 season.

Producers call the shots, right? That's why Lisa Riegert, Theresa Romero and Mary Gonzales are it.

Finishing touches by Rachel Lacour in the Homecoming skit prepare April Martin while Gail Trava waits anxiously.

When April Martin was asked, "What was the high point of this season?" She replied, "The high point was going to camp last summer. We spent many hot sweaty hours on our routines, as well as our attitudes. We did better than we ever expected or hoped. Our whole squad always supported each other. I was so proud to be the captain of such a terrific squad. I knew all our hard work had paid off.

Boys' Swimming

Great Things Come With Small Splashes

With an overall record of 2-3 in dual meets and 1-2 in tri-meets, We-Go boys had one diver compete in State.

On February 24, 1989, Shawn Noonan went to State for diving and placed 26th in the State meet. "I was happy I made it to State but not happy with my performance at State. It was a great experience," replied Noonan. The State meet was held in Evanston, Illinois.

Most Improved award went to Matt Phillips; Rookie of the Year was Brian Levake; and Most Valuable was Chuck Winkler.

“ This year Matt Phillips received Most Improved. Phillips has only been swimming for three years. When asked what he did to improve himself Phillips replied,

“This year I felt far more comfortable on the team. It helped me get more psyched up, so I was able to drop my times at every meet. I also think we were focusing more on self improvement and helping each other.”

Vogel earned Most Wins (24), Most Team Points (133), Most Pins (12), Fastest Fall (:17 beating Greenslade from St.

Charles) and Most Valuable. When asked what his most challenging time was this year in wrestling, Vogel replied, "Practices before Sectionals made work harder, and the harder the work the more intense the practices."

Oliver tied with Vogel for Most Wins (24) and Most Pins (12). Oliver and Castro were Co-Captains. Castro earned Most Takedowns (85), Most Near Falls (23), Most Major Technical Decision Falls (9) and Most Match Points. (269). Varsity badminton sees the light

“This is the first time in 6 years that varsity has not been in the cellar of the DVC.” That, for Coach LaVora Singleton, was the highlight of the badminton season; her team finished 7th in Conference with an overall record of 5-16 and a Conference record of 1-6. JV had an overall record of 5-16 and a Conference record of 0-7. Most Improved was Mike Tamkus and Most Valuable was Kai Martin.

Improved was Tanida Suwanaath and Most Valuable was Kerri Spoden.

Varsity tennis had an overall record of 4-13-1 and a Conference record of 1-6, 8th place. Varsity also placed 10th in District 88 Classic Tennis Tournament. JV had an overall record of 1-11 and a Conference record of 0-7. Most Improved was Mike Tamkus and Most Valuable was Kai Martin.

“ At the beginning of the season I never expected to win Most Improved because I’ve never played badminton before in my life. Then I hoped for it but still felt surprised when I got it. What motivated me was that I wanted to prove to everyone that even though I was only a Freshman that I could be just as good; I wanted to earn their respect.”

Girls' Soccer

Steady Improvement Makes Team Proud

Better and better — that was the story of Ladycats' second soccer season which produced three All-Conference players. Losing 5-0 in an early game against DuPage Valley's top team, Naperville North, the team improved enough by the end of the season to allow the Huskies only three goals in Sectionals, losing 3-0.

Varsity had an overall record of 7-10-2 and a Conference record of 3-3-0. Jessica Andrews was Most Valuable, All-Conference and Honorable Mention All-State. Trinette Co was Most Improved. Araceli Castro was Most Valuable Offense, All-Conference and Honorable Mention All-State. Olga Perez was Most Valuable Defense and Honorable Mention All-Conference. Cheryl Wilcox was All-Conference and Honorable Mention All-State. Diana Cruz was given Coaches' Senior Award.

JV finished 4-12 overall and 3-4 in Conference.

“ Most Improved Trinette Co, whose grades went up during soccer season “because studying seemed less tedious after the outlet of practice,” credits others with her success. “My teammates, especially the seniors, and coaches would help me learn and would always help. The highlights of the season for me were my first goal and my header goal.”

At defense, Olga Perez receives the ball with control, ready to boot it down the field.

Midfielder Cheli Castro dribbles the ball with agility, as always, at a home game against Rockford Boylan.

Hustling towards the ball, Jessica Andrews gains possession from a Rockford Boylan player at a home game, April 22nd. Jessica began playing soccer in 1st grade for the American Youth Soccer Organization. She plans to continue soccer in college at the University of Wisconsin or the University of North Carolina. One of her goals is to be a member of the National Womens Soccer Team. Heading towards her goal she is participating in the Sparta Soccer Club this summer. This is an exchange team that will play in Germany, Denmark and Sweden.

Only The Best

Conference Champs!! Some only dream of such a title, but the girls of We-Go have made it a reality. Varsity's overall record was an outstanding record of 22-5, and in Conference they were 12-2, losing only to their worst enemy, Naperville Central.

West Chicago left its mark on the Softball game when all three teams brought home Conference Titles. Michele Lubinski said that her high point of the season was "being first place in the Conference!!"

They were a gifted team with a miraculous pitcher who was a starting sophomore, Kelly Matthews. Matthews pitched to her sister, Kerry, and they were the perfect combination. Most improved was Kelly Matthews; Most Valuable was Jane Ebenroth. Coach Maciejewski was even impressed with the season, "We had the most wins in a season and we were Regional Finalists."

Winfield and West Chicago off-duty Policemen and firemen stage a mock accident on Ann Street to warn students about drunk driving.

Florence Griffith-Joyner wins another "gold" victory at the Olympics in Seoul, Korea.

CURRENT EVENTS

Current events ranged from the agony of defeat to the glorious victories life has in store for all of us. Even though we have our world of school, we need to be aware of what we have in common with the "real world" which we sometimes seem to mirror.

POLITICS

After a long hard campaign across the nation, Republican Vice-President George Bush defeated Massachusetts Democratic Governor Michael Dukakis in the Presidential election. In Chicago Richard Daley won the mayoral election.

In West Chicago's mayoral election, Paul Netzel beat the former twelve-year mayor, Eugene Rennels. At the high school, student council candidates campaigned for the first time, setting up tables with promotional balloons, posters and gifts during 4th hour lunches in the cafeteria.

The biggest political scandal was the Iran Contra Affair. Lieutenant Oliver North, facing a maximum of ten years in prison and a fine of $750,000, was found guilty of 3 of 12 criminal counts.

In Iran there may be a shift from spiritual guides to politicians. Ayatollah Khomeini died on June 3rd, and succeeding him was spiritual leader Ali Khamenei who was expected to turn to the West for trade and other ties to save Iran from economic collapse.

SPORTS

The 1988 Olympics were held in Seoul, Korea, where our Olympic teams were strong competitors. Memorable Florence Griffith-Joyner had an impact on us with her hip outfits and ravishing long nails, but her greatest show was her 4 medals (3 gold and 1 silver). Ben Johnson of Canada had his name disgraced after he tested positive for steroids after receiving the gold in the 100m dash.

We-Go players had gains and losses also. Girls' volleyball placed second in Conference and were Regional Champs. Basketball star Tyrone Parks was named All-Area, All-Conference, Most Valuable and Best Rebounder. Rick Montalvo was All-State and placed 46th in state for cross country. Carrie Ryan Erin Myers, Carol Petusky and Jennifer Vavrek all qualified for state in girls' swimming. Shawn Noonan placed 26th at the state diving competition. Girls' basketball team won Regional Champs and the Girls' softball team won Conference Championship with an overall average of 22-5. Tracey Brockman placed 20th in the nation for cheerleading. Bill Vogel was 1st at Regionals in wrestling and Joey Oliver placed 2nd. But for our football team it was a bad season with an overall record of 1-9.

In Chicago, Bull's basketball star Michael Jordan got his picture on the Wheaties box, and at Wrigley field the traditional day-only games were ended when night games started on April 8th, a 4th inning rainout. In West Chicago, the Booster Club announced plans to have lights placed in the football field.

NATURE

In the biggest oil spill in U.S. history, Exxon Valdez tanker spilled ten million plus gallons of crude near the coast of Alaska. Captain Joseph Hazelwood was found to have been intoxicated at the time of the accident.

On the local scene an environmental issue was in the process of being resolved by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The two proposals were to bury Kerr McGee's thorium waste in West Chicago at a cost of $20 million or to have it moved to the western United States costing 3-4 times more.

PERSPECTIVE

Cries of freedom were heard from South Africa and China; where the government resorted to violence after the people of these countries demonstrated for a more democratic government.

On a smaller scale, seniors rebelled when letters were sent to notify parents to "say no to senior ditch day" and skateboarders were denied the right to practice their sport on the school premises.

Our Year of the Wildcat, 1988-1989, had many significant happenings in the areas of politics, sports, nature and international events.

Twenty-eight student listeners, part of the new Peer Listening Program, served as an extension of the Guidance Department by listening, accepting, encouraging and supporting fellow students experiencing difficulty or hardship. These listeners participated in 40 hours of initial training in communication and listening skills given by Social Worker Ron Dow and were followed by continued supervision throughout the school year.

Fun For All Ages

Since teenagers sometimes avoid older people, Contemporary Life teacher Patti Kozlowski takes her class to West Chicago Terrace, a nursing home, as part of first semester exams. She explains,

“I like to give them experience with older people in a positive way. I want them to remember that they went there, they met people and that they had fun.”

While Rick Schaffer and Rob Lord share caller honors, Jamie Murray and Lori Hoffman play bingo with residents of West Chicago Terrace.

Students, who furnished refreshments and prizes, learned that older people have fun too.

These Wildcats take time out from classes to attend a pep assembly in Bishop Gym: Alicia Carvajal, Joy Nevin, Becki Bane, Dawn Dipentino, Maurene Plucinski, Tina Campbell and Sheree Brugmann.

Even on the very day of the Homecoming Football Game, athletes Chad Busse and Mike Waterhouse are delighted to review their last basketball season in the 1988 Challenge. They both played basketball again in the winter on a team that finished with a winning season, 13-12 overall.

Wildcat Memories Were Safe With Us

After going to camp to learn more about yearbook layout and planning changes for our book, we decided on our theme, Year of the Wildcat. This process required eleven creative minds all working at once and an encouraging advisor listening. We all agreed on this theme because of our mascot pride and the fact that it had not been emphasized in any of our previous books.

We attempted to make our book more appealing to students by adapting creative layout ideas from popular teenage magazines and by filling our pages with quotes from students and information from our own polls. We were just as concerned with how students thought and felt as we were about the bare facts. In the end we tried our hardest to satisfy everyone, to include as many students as possible and to spell names correctly.

As we looked back through our copy book and noticed how well our efforts had come together, we realized that it would not have been possible without the help and dedication from many people other than our own staff. Student Services Secretary Kitty Youngberg answered questions about scheduling, found phone numbers, reserved our van for trips and was always there to find things out for us. Switchboard Operator Ruth Mosson helped us deliver quote forms and call slips. Athletic Director Ronald Hansen and the coaches supplied information on all the sports. Advisors and teachers gave us information and suggested story ideas. Jeremy Mains supplied our cover design; Michael Westerhausen helped us index at the last when we really needed that kind of help; and many student photographers supplied photos. Advisor Sarah Olsen encouraged, edited, laughed, worked and let us use our own ideas.

Although I won't be around to click my camera in your face any more, I will always appreciate the people of We-Go and the help they gave us in saving the memories in this book so that we will never have to let them go. Thanks to all the Wildcats. Good luck to all of you and good-bye to "The Year of the Wildcat ... 1989."
