Challenge 2010

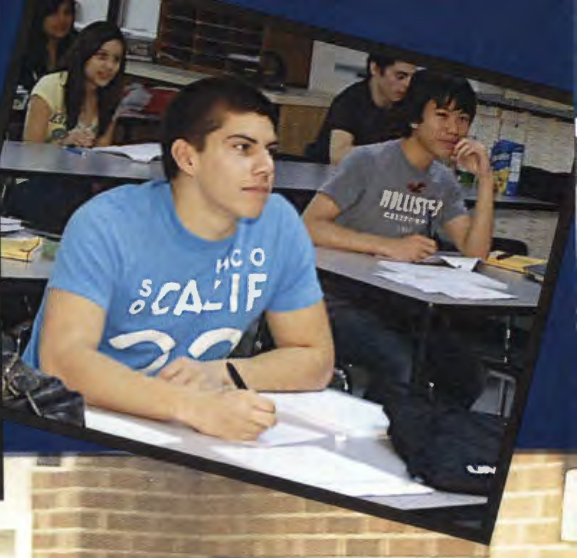

When I find myself in times of trouble
 Mother Mary comes to me,
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be.
 And in my hour of darkness
 She is standing right in front of me
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be.
 Let it be, let it be.
 Whisper words of wisdom, let it be.

And when the broken hearted people
 Living in the world agree,
 There will be an answer, let it be.
 For though they may be parted there is Still a chance that they will see
 There will be an answer, let it be.
 Let it be, let it be, yeah
 There will be an answer, let it be.

(Back) Erica Smith, Anthony Hashon, Molly Mourone, Matt Matson, Miguel Ortiz, Matt Kuly, Edgar Lomeli, Peter Ciolino, Steven Duda, Raymond Redmond, Guri Haxhia, Mary Conolly, Mary Rojas, Danielle McAvoy, and Stefanie Martinez.

And when the night is cloudy,
 There is still a light that shines on me,
 Shine on unto tomorrow, let it be.
 I wake up to the sound of music
 Mother Mary comes to me
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be.
 Let it be, let it be,
 There will be an answer, let it be.
 Let it be, let it be,
 Whisper words of wisdom, let it be.

HIGH SPIR(it)S

Begin with a sport. Add the stands, a crowd of rowdy students, and a mixture of chants. The Squad is created.

Some of the fondest memories of high school are those of attending football, volleyball, and basketball games with friends and experiencing the excitement that only comes from watching fellow classmates play sports. From chants about John Wehr to wearing beach apparel or all white for variously themed game nights, the Squad always comes together to support the Wildcats. The Squad shows up to every sporting event with spirit, pride, and energy to cheer on student athletes. The Squad consists of boisterous sophomores, juniors, and seniors that attend each and every game, no matter the weather. Being a part of the Squad is a privilege and is the best way to support your peers and show your school spirit. The vigor and enthusiasm of the loudly cheering Squad increases the energy and spirit of the Varsity teams when they enter the gymnasium or field. The West Chicago Squad is the best Squad.

CELEBRATE (it)

Wildcats come together for a variety of fun activities as everyone shows their pride during Homecoming Week.

The excitement started on Monday with an intense pep assembly, complete with pies, a teacher vs. student flag football game and the introduction of the homecoming court. Homecoming Week had finally arrived.

Bishop Gymnasium erupted with cheers as Eulises Diaz and Alyson Taddeucci were crowned king and queen. "I am very pleased with the results for king and queen because it wasn't who everyone expected it would be," said Kaitly Olson.

Students returned to school that night for a movie-themed dodgeball tournament where "The Goonies" fought their way to the top. "The dodgeball tournament is my favorite. It brings all the grades together for one night," said Jamie Antczak.

With a movie night on Tuesday showing "Ferris Bueller's Day Off," and door decorating on Wednesday, the week flew by. Friday's rain did not stop students from showing their pride at the parade after school. Later that night the squad section was full to support the football team as they played West Aurora. "We have a date with destiny," said Evan Bernard, looking forward to the football game that night.

The week came to a memorable end Saturday with the annual dance. "Homecoming week definitely brings the school closer together," said Robert Windisch.

COMPET(it)ORS

The epic rivalry between junior and senior girls is at its peak during the traditional homecoming Powder Puff game.

Juniors

For junior and senior girls, homecoming week is filled with tension and anticipation until the fateful night of Powder Puff. The girls playing worked hard for weeks to prepare. When asked what her morning routine before Powder Puff practice was, senior Haley Demitropoulos answered, "I eat breakfast bars and drink lots of 5 hour energy shots." The girls endured the early mornings and demands from their coaches until the night of the big game. Light blue and purple shirts covered the football field. After a few rounds of catch, it was time for the game to begin. The starting players ran onto the field and got ready for the whistle to blow. The game began with a touchdown by the seniors and many attempts from the juniors. It was an astounding game to watch. According to spectator Lamar Moore, "The highlight of the game was when Danielle McAvoy literally destroyed that junior girl. That was the best moment of the night, believe dat!" In the last quarter, the juniors made a comeback and tied the game up. Tension was high between the teams, until the seniors made another touchdown and fulfilled the tradition of senior rule with a final score of Seniors 63, Juniors 42.

Memorable. Seniors Lindsey Gerhke and Erica Lange stop for the papparazzi along the red carpet leading to the gym (left).

Expectancy. Standing amid all the dancing students, Alejandro Sanchez and Zeferino Perez eagerly wait for their favorite song to come blasting out of the speakers.

Festive. Standing by posters of their favorite movies that covered the walls leading to the gym, Alexis Micele, Daniella Parducci, and Keagan Johnson admire all the different decorations. "My favorite part about the decorations this year was the black light right above the DJ. We took a lot of neat pictures under it," said Micele.

ROCK TO (it)

Wildcats journeyed to Hollywood as each class represented a different movie genre: freshmen jumped into the future with Sci-Fi, sophomores cracked people up with Comedy, juniors kept things interesting with Action and seniors frightened all with Horror.

Superiority. Seniors Emily Tulipano, Stefanie Pauling and Nicole Nielson enjoy their last homecoming together (top). Ideal Hero. Before the dance, the school decorated with movie posters, Kevin Desfassiaux stands next to his idol, Ron Weasley (bottom).

Homecoming 2009 was one Saturday night students could not wait to get to school; 1,300 showed up to dance the night away with all their friends. "The homecoming dance is my favorite part of the week because I like to get my groove on!" said Chad Driscoll. The theme of Homecoming 2009 was "We-Go goes to Hollywood," and Bishop Gym was decorated festively with balloons and many movie posters. Anticipation was high as the students walked down the red carpet and heard the loud music from the DJ. The freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors all entered the gym and saw it was transformed with many festive balloons and lights. "Single Ladies" by Beyoncé came over the speakers and the individual classes blended as one on the dance floor. The dancing only stopped for a few seconds as the homecoming court walked through the crowd, led by King Eulises Diaz and Queen Alyson Taddeucci. "I never realized how many events the king and queen have to participate in during Homecoming Week," said Taddeucci. As the last song started to play, the Wildcats all wished the night would never end. The dance was a perfect end to an exciting week of festivities.

—Jessica Baidis

Newcomer. The dance exceeded Freshman Laura Panacali's expectations. "It was really fun hanging out with my friends and dancing! I also really liked the theme and the movie posters in the hall before walking into the gym," said Panacali.

RAISE (it)

On October 8, 2009, Coach Kristi Hasty and the rest of the volleyball program had a goal. That goal was to help "spike out" breast cancer. In a volleyball match between the Wildcats and the Glenbard North Panthers, the coaching staff was able to create Volley for the Cure. There were raffles, hair clips, Edie's toffee, breast cancer awareness pamphlets, and ten dollar volleyball t-shirts, with all proceeds going to the Susan G. Komen Foundation. The fans and parents packed the stands with pink, raising over $2000 for breast cancer research. The day not only brought the Lady Wildcats a win, but it also helped the fight against breast cancer.

RESPECT (it)

On September 11, 2009, at Memorial Stadium, we honored and remembered those whose lives were changed in the terrible 9-11 attacks. We also honored the soldiers, police officers, and fire fighters who continue to serve and protect us every day. SkillsUSA sold t-shirts for ten dollars to support our fellow American Citizens. The football team, the fans, and the parents, all took a moment of silence to respect and honor the people who were affected in the September 11, 2001 attacks. Retired service members from the West Chicago Veterans of Foreign Wars post approached the field as they held flags of our state and country. The ceremony and celebration reminded all of the sacrifices made by a few to protect and serve the many.

On May 21, 2010, at 6:00 p.m., the walking began as a fundraiser for cancer research, Relay for Life, kicked off. The students of West Chicago, Winfield, and Carol Stream, joined together in the Community High School Field House to walk twelve hours for cancer research. Tents were set up in the Bishop Gym for sleeping, and students gathered in the field house for walking and other fun and games. Fluid Impulse and Dismembered, local bands, performed at Relay for Life, with all proceeds going towards cancer research. On May 22, 2010, at 6:00 a.m., students, teachers, and other walkers strolled out of the school with their heads held high because they knew that they had made a difference in cancer research.

SPOOK

Ghouls, jokers, celebrities, and familiar childhood characters roamed the WeGo halls on the 31st of October

Halloween is a day set aside from the rest of the year to disguise oneself as any character you would like, matched with any personality. Students come dressed in clever costumes to surprise and delight the costume judges in Commons early that morning. Judges search for the best, most unique costume of them all. "I like dressing up for Halloween because it makes me feel like a kid again, and relieves the stress of high school for one day," explained Joshua Foster. Not only does Halloween celebrate the spirits of the dead, but it provides students with a day to be stress free at school and just enjoy. Enthusiasm for Halloween is not only displayed by the students. Teachers have been known to get in on the action as well, from Ms. Hafertepe's annual costume as Lady MacBeth from the popular Shakespeare tragedy "Macbeth" to Mr. Maher's perfect version of Star Trek's Dr. Spock. At WeGo Halloween brings a treat around every corner.

—Taylor Ballek

Tradition. Girls Volleyball continues their annual Halloween Practice, where the entire program, including the coaches, dresses up in costumes. After everyone lines up, the girls go around the gym to explain their ensemble for the special holiday. Shortly after the girls warm up outside by running one lap around the track to show off their costumes during the boys' football practice.

Nik Kmiecik (Kanye West) steals the mic from Anna Duran (Taylor Swift) reenacting the 2009 VMAs.

Arielle McComb, Kaylee Gunderson, Andrea Skipor and Christine Eble wait in Commons to find out the costume winner.

"I like to participate in dressing up for halloween because you can be someone different for a day," explains Renee Carranza.

"To me, Halloween is a day to cut loose and be someone else, to play tricks, and to cause some mischief."
-Sean Dwyer

Joshua Brown

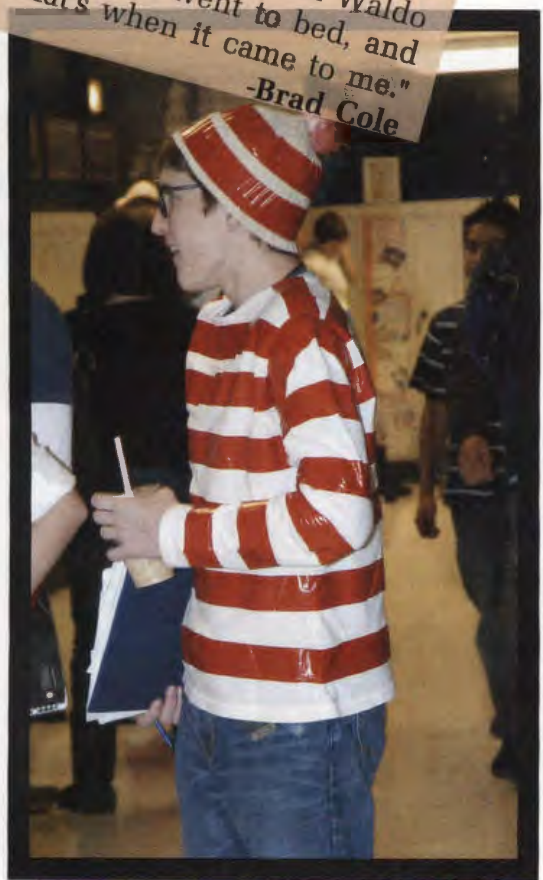

"I wanted my costume this year to be original so I could stand out from everyone. I got the idea when I was cleaning my room and had to do laundry."
-Stevie Limbrick

"This year I was definitely feeling the green power house inside of me. So I had to go with my main man, The Hulk!"
-Matt Matson

Jessica Baidis & Jamie Antczak

"A month before Halloween I was trying to find Waldo before I went to bed, and that's when it came to me."
-Brad Cole

"I have been dancing since I was five and think it's a unique way to express myself. I need to get Beyonce to notice me."

-Joshua Foster

Roman Kopytko

"I like being up on stage by myself with the freedom to do whatever I want."

-Darryl Thomas

"Music is the only reason for being alive. That's why I choose to spend my time playing."

-James Alfaro

Calvin Barcelona and Alyssa Crisostomo

"We jammed hard at the Variety Show and the audience was freaking out!"

-Thomas Hahs

Whether you like to dance, sing, act, or play an instrument, the variety show allows students to show the school what they're made of.

Over 500 students packed into the auditorium on November 19, 2009 to support FBLA's annual Variety Show. All of the $1,100 raised was donated to the March of Dimes foundation. Many students worked hard in order to prepare for the show, and some performances WCHS will never forget, including Joseph Wais singing and playing "The Piano Man," Precious Dannug singing "Angels" by Jessica Simpson, and Meghan Nichol performing Irish dance. Referring to the modern-urban dance group of which she was a part, Tiffany Manzano said, "My dance crew only practiced for about a month before the show." A member of the same group, Doel Malave added, "The performance was cool and it was good to see all of my friends in the crowd supporting me." Audience member Jessica Infelise said, "The show was very entertaining and Nik [Kmiecik] and Anna [Duran] had an amazing duet." Noting how great the show was, Mrs. Wirth said, "Some students didn't realize how much talent we have here at WeGo."

—Haley Goranson

The Steppers impress the crowd by showing off a new performance. As Bria McWilliams said, "We did excellent at the variety show and most definitely have improved since last year. We got that, we got that sole!"

FORM (it)

If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, and become more, you are a leader.

Operation Snowball is not just about drug and alcohol awareness, it is about meeting people you did not even know existed at WeGo and making new friends. Along with participating in a "no-talent talent show," singing silly songs, and eating amazing food, each student was put into a small group of about 12 other students. They stayed together the whole weekend and did team building exercises. Everyone went to large group to hear influential speakers discuss leadership through good decision making.

On Sunday, parents picked up their teenagers, and each small group showed off a poster representing their group. The teachers also acknowledged special students, like the first one to turn in his/her Snowball application and seniors who have attended Snowball all four years of high school. There were only three this year: Alyssa Baermann, Tanya Starkey, and Alexis Brunelli. With a record number of participants in January, Snowball attendees made friendships that last long beyond the weekend.

-Alexis Brunelli

Talent. During the "no-talent talent show," the small group called "The Other Friday the 13th" sings "Don't Stop Believin'." First-time Snowball attendee Nikko Williams said, "My favorite part of Snowball was reconnecting with old friends and meeting a lot of new people. I am without a doubt going again next year."

Lead. Snowball student leaders Jeffrey Foreman, Jennifer Goldsmith, and Matthew Kubik pose for the camera after all of the small groups introduced themselves through skits.

Louis Kermend

Trust. Doing a team building exercise called the trust fall, Joshua Siefert's small group attempts to catch him before he hits the ground.

Artistic. The small group known as "The Situation" shows off the poster that represents their group.

Krysta Schoenbeck & Culley Wilcox

Fuzzy. Snowball leaders Joy Winquist and Jeffrey Foreman pass out warm fuzzies to the students and teachers. Warm fuzzies are worn the entire weekend.

CHECK (it)

Holding the majority of the Assembly, Democrats were able to take control of the simulation.

For a class that is mandatory for graduation, government breaks the norm. This nationally known class is different than other schools' because it is not simply busywork or lectures. Students actively participate in the legislative process. "It's a lot of work but you come to realize that it's necessary in order to have everything run smoothly," said Margaret Bruce. The committee hearings and the three full sessions got better with time and contained a lot of great speeches and debates.

POLITICAL SPECTRUM

Kirsten Lehman delivers a compelling speech supporting gay marriage.

As a Committee Chair, Michael Fletcher upheld the Democratic belief system.

"Stem cell research should be continued because it has the potential to help so many," said Megan Ogorzalek.

"I support affirmative action and gay marriage," said Democrat Lamar Moore.

"I am anti-torture because it is inhumane, cruel and dehumanizing," said Thomas Harm.

Dominance. Split into different committees, the Democrats held the majority in both the Fall and Spring simulations. Because of this, they were able to control the outcome of most proposals. "I loved knowing the Democrats had more power," said Molly Atherton, the Democratic Head Whip.

Solidarity. After an interesting speech, Jonathan Smagacz cheers for his party. Throughout the simulation, both parties remained supportive of those giving speeches or participating in debates. With an allotted time for each issue, the floor leaders organized speakers according to the time allowed.

BALANCE (it)

Despite being the minority, the Republicans' voices were heard during the full sessions.

(continued from page 80) "Society is not productive if people aren't involved," said government teacher Barbara Laimins. "There was a study done with our high school that showed our students graduate with a keen interest in the government, are not afraid to speak out and are more likely to vote." In the end, participating in this required class provides students with a better understanding of society.

-Madeline Warkins

"I am pro-life and in favor of flat tax, which helped me decide that I was a Republican," said Allyssa Brinkman.

With his many strong opinions, Gary Kurowski proved to be an excellent leader.

"I am pro-life and I support the flat tax," said Republican Molly Monroe.

As a Moderate Republican, Anthony Wondolkowski shared views from both parties.

"I support lower taxes and a smaller government," said Jaclyn Coughlan.

POLITICAL SPECTRUM

Power. As Chief Executive, Brett Adams decides which bills to sign into law. "I really enjoyed pretending to be a Republican for a few weeks," said Adams. Posing as a Republican when he ran for his position, Adams fooled his competition and was voted into office.

Preparation. Every bill that is discussed in the full session requires hours of preparation and a persuasive speech. For a bill on stricter rape penalties, Bradley Cole delivers a speech in hopes that the majority of the House will vote in favor of the bill.

BOOGIE (it)

After countless hours of practice, the talented dancers finally boogied in front of the audience.

The curtains rose, and the opening night of Dance Production was about to begin. Thirty girls came out onto the colorfully lit stage, dancing to the well-known song "Fireflies."

Every February, fifty girls show off their skills in the hopes of making Dance Production. They not only have to show their pirouettes and grand jetés, but also learn a required dance, and choreograph their own.

Once, the dance production class was chosen, the girls began practicing and refining their dances. The theme "Peace, Love and Dance" was given to the show after the girls' brainstormed ideas. With only two shows every year, twelve dances were performed, including four class dances and separate group dances.

PE teacher Helen Zmrhal has taught the class for a number of years and has encouraged every girl "keep smiling no matter what." The encouragement given to the girls helped them to strive for the best.

-Chelsea Spe

Dedication. As the dancers attempt to remember all of the steps to their dance, Alyssa Santelli, Natalie Stewart, and Keegan Johnson maintain their poise (above). Strength. Dancer Natalie Pearson keeps performing with heart, even after the many months of practice (middle right). Passion. While keeping the love of dance in the back of her mind, Anna Duran acts out her solo dance showing a variety of emotions (bottom right).

REPORT (it)

Dedicated journalism students work long, hard hours to meet their deadlines and publish the news.

One Thursday a month students crowd around a table in commons to grab a copy of the Wildcat Chronicle. Little do they know the hours of work put in both in and out of school to get the paper done by the deadline. Journalism is a two semester course where the students learn to become reporters. Because of the extreme work load, the staff is very dedicated, especially the students chosen to be section editors and editor-in-chief. This year's editor-in-chief, Jacob Wucka, revealed that, "being editor-in-chief is like having a full time job.

I wouldn't be able to finish my work if it weren't for the dedicated reporters." Each staff member also has the duty of taking the pictures that appear in the paper. Alexis Hosticka explained that her responsibilities as News Editor are to "edit all the stories, lay out the news section of the Chronicle, and to stay on top of people to meet deadlines." Despite all the time and hard work that goes into finishing each edition of the Wildcat Chronicle, each staff member feels rewarded when they see the final copy.

Above, Rosa Duran, Amanda Hamontree, Chelsea Spear, and Haley Goranson log into their computers to get started for the class period's work ahead of them to make deadline before the week is over.

REMEMBER

(it)

Not just any book, but a specific book that covers a year and lasts a lifetime.

Nothing is perfect, but sometimes it is possible to come close. The yearbook class of 2009-2010's quest for perfection is evident on every page of this year's Challenge. "I try to create the best pages possible and get all of my pages done by deadline," explained Chelsea Spear. Editors Alyson Taddeucci, Madeline Warkins, Alexis Brunelli, and Quin Gable spent countless hours to come up with the theme, "Let IT Be," by the Beatles. They were able to incorporate (IT) into every page as the whole class gave their comm(it)ment everyday sixth period, before and after school, on weekends, and even during their time off in the summer. Whatever it takes, the yearbook staff stays dedicated and inspired to create a book that involves and relates to every student and teacher at Community High School. "This year was really challenging because I haven't been a yearbook sponsor since 2001, and there have been many changes in the technology we use. The book now uses all color pages, and there is even less room but so much more to cover," said Bradley Larson. This is not just a book filled with pictures, but a book filled with memories and triumphs that have brought everyone together in one way or another over an entire year.

RECORD (it)

Broadcast Journalism and 'Wego Through the Tube' document all of it at CHS and produce creative segments to entertain the student body.

In Broadcast Journalism, students used creativity and promoted school activities by filming short videos. Students had weekly deadlines to have their films recorded.

'Wego Through the Tube' has progressed over the last few years to become a school trademark. Many students rushed to their advisories on Fridays just to get there on time for the show. As Rachel Pioch said, 'WTtT' gave us a great activity to do during advisory, which is normally kind of boring." Broadcast teacher Mr. David Jennings spent lots of time editing the videos to make them fit within the twenty-three minutes given for advisory. Jennings stated, "Being a broadcast teacher allows me to be a part of student creativity in a unique way."

Near the end of the year students entered the Chicago Film Festival to compete in several categories against schools statewide. In the past many received awards for their segments, including Lamar Moore and Mackenzie Beideman, who received 3rd place for "Saw Mommy...Cheating," a parody of "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus", which was followed by a spoof of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" this year. Students in the class worked hard to create and edit short films and make students at West Chicago laugh.

—Haley Goranson

Creativity. Talent and love of photography are shown in Jennifer Rodriguez's black and white photo of the famous Chicago Theater. "I really hope people like my pictures and become inspired to do something themselves," said Rodriguez (above).

Sketch. The pen and ink drawing of a suave young character, by Yusif Naffa, was just one of the items of are included in the literary magazine (inset, upper left).

Wego students show their inner colors through artistic expression in the school's literary magazine.

Writing, editing, and long hours of work are what it takes to complete the school's literary magazine, Mind's Eye. Jennifer Keilhack, editor-in-chief of the magazine, knows all about hard work. "My goals are to make the magazine look nice and promote it for next year so that more students will get involved," said Keilhack. The magazine is a compilation of student work such as essays, short stories, photography, paintings, and poetry. Mind's Eye adviser Mrs. Katie Wood said she likes the magazine because, "It's one of the best opportunities students have to express themselves creatively." Beth Berg wrote many poems that appear in the magazine and said, "It's great to be in a group where I can meet others that enjoy writing poems just as much as I do." The submissions are inspirations that come from the artistic hearts of the people seen every day in the hallways. It just goes to show that there are voices bursting to be heard in many students right here at WeGo.

"I have been playing mallet instruments since fourth grade and enjoy playing them because, out of all the percussion instruments, they are the most musical," said Neuman. Walking the streets during the homecoming parade is color guard member Elizabeth Youngwith (bottom). She kept a smile on her face while twirling her flag for the crowd

Theme. Doing a clever dance to the halftime theme of the Blues Brothers is Joseph Wais (above). "I love how we get to experience different genres of music in a marching band setting. It is even better now because we started changing the music for every show this year," said Wais. Previously the band performed the same programs throughout each season.

MARCH (it)

During half-time shows the Marching Band shifted into new formations that kept the audience interested at every moment.

Different formations and new beats sum up a Marching Band showcase during halftime performances at football games. Practices and summer camps force the band to prepare for the showcases. Every person on the field marches to a unified beat so they can move to a new position on the field.

The past five years have been organized by the music director, Stephen Govertsen. As the marching band director, Mr. Govertsen puts together the program for each performance and organizes themes, songs and formations. "We play at all home football games for pregame and halftime. We also play for several parades each year, including the Winfield Good Old Days Parade and the Homecoming Parade," said Govertsen. In Putnam years, the band has had one theme for each season, but this year each game was a different theme, including hip-hop, the 1970s, Patriotism and the Blues Brothers.

-Meghan Putnam

Halftime. Playing in the halftime show during the football season is Matthew Simanonis (above). He stood on the field with a confident posture after he learned new songs and marching rotations that paid off for a successful performance.

Perfection. Reading her score is Danielle Keller (lower left). "Playing at the football games is such an amazing feeling. Everyone in Marching Band puts in so much work and dedication, and it's so cool to have that recognized," said Keller.

Beat. Leading the marching band around town during the homecoming parade is Brendan McCormack. He kept a consistent pace and the band members stayed together. "Being the head drum major of a marching band is an utterly exhilarating experience. There were approximately a hundred and ten participants looking to me to ensure a synchronized tempo," said McCormack.

TUNE (it)

In the orchestra, hard work and dedication can pay off in playing every note to perfection.

Orchestra includes a variety of students who work together to keep all notes in perfect pitch. Each week, instrumental sections attend a zero-hour for a small group rehearsal. As the first-chair viola, Kelly Loftus said, "Zero-hour is actually really fun, mostly because the violas are amazing, but also because we get some individual attention and some feedback that we don't always get during class. Having that low student to teacher ratio really makes a difference." Loftus also noted, "The viola section rocks!"

The orchestra has been directed by Stephen Govertsen for the past six years. Each year brings new memories. "Being a high school orchestra director is great. I have fun, motivated, and talented students that are a blast to work with. One of my favorite WeGo orchestra memories is when the lights went out in our concert and the audience came up on stage to light our music stands with cell phones," said Govertsen.

Students learn four to five pieces of music for each concert. After a night's performance, the students must go to class ready to begin sight-reading challenging pieces for the next concert, only weeks away. Concerts give the students many opportunities to showcase their unique talents and overall progress to a large crowd.

—Meghan Putnam

Memories. Standing before the audience is cellist Anthony Hasbun (top left). After the concert, he realized this would be his last year in orchestra. "Being in orchestra for the past four years has been a wonderful experience for me, because we have gone on interesting field trips and our teacher, Mr. Govertsen, is a very inspiring guy, so I'm always having a great time," said Hasbun.

Success. Showing her talent to the audience is Katie Yackey (bottom left). "It's an honor to be first-chair violin as a freshman. I have worked hard to get to where I am, and will continue to do so to perform at my best," said Yackey.

Motivation. Keeping a strong tempo in mind during a difficult piece are sophomores Brooke Hennessy and Ellen Fitzgerald (above). Going into a concert, Hennessy had her own way of getting prepared. "Besides practicing with the whole orchestra, I go over my music two or three times by myself," Hennessy said.

Focus. After being a part of orchestra every year, senior Raelene Struckmeyer has learned the importance of staying focused during a performance.

Breath. The pursing of lips and the steady stream of air has been an important skill that Amanda Rathe has learned over the years. Rathe enjoyed playing the French horn in both the orchestra and band performances.

Thanks. Band and Orchestra director Stephen Govertsen expresses his gratitude towards the support of the parents of the talented musicians.

Classic. During a captivating performance, Anthony Soliven and Anthony Hasbun play their cellos with precision. The cellos played an important role in adding a deeper sound to the orchestra.

Solo. During the concert, Nikolas Kmicik passionately sings his solo piece for the audience (top left). "It's a big rush of excitement and pleasure whenever I sing. It's just one of those feelings I live for," Kmicik said.

Vocals. During a solo performance, Precious Dannug hits every note with a beautiful and strong tone (bottom left). Dannug sang her heart out to the audience and received strong applause.

SING (it)

Rehearsals, song varieties, and concert arrangements are a recipe for making new friends.

Choir members worked very hard throughout the year to put on great performances that impressed the audience. Each day, members put all of their effort into rehearsals to prepare for concerts. Students involved in the choir program continued to work hard to perform well at their concerts.

Choir was not just about singing and performing; it was also about making friends. "My favorite part of choir is being with my friends and doing the things that I love, which would be singing, and becoming friends with a couple new people," said junior Molly Valdez of her choir experiences.

During senior year one student, Alexis Miller, shared her memories after being in choir for all four years. "Unlike any other class, we have been with the same group of people and teacher for the past four years. Mr. Fantozzi, my classmates, and I have created an irreplaceable bond over the years through our dedication to the music we sing, and the friendships we've gained. Choir will surely be missed," said Miller.

—Meghan Putnam

Gifts. Announcing the annual gift for the choir director, members Anna Duran, Annette Sanchez, and Meghan Ziffra thank Mr. Brandon Fantozzi (above). Choir members put together a cook book of all their favorite recipes for Mr. Fantozzi to enjoy.

Commitment. Student Amy Ratliff sings to the audience during the holiday concert (above middle). Ratliff, a chamber choir member, attended zero-hour rehearsals every morning to improve her vocals. "Chamber choir is a great experience because we are able to work with numerous pieces of beautiful music, perform after working very hard, and the people in chamber choir are talented individuals who are great friends," said Ratliff.

Relaxed. In a casual exchange of smiles, sophomores Breanna Kmiecik and Pilar Bonilla have fun during their performance (bottom middle). The two friends looked at each other while waiting for a new song to begin.

Courage. Being on stage in front of the audience can be extremely nerve wracking, but Jacqueline Leeseberg puts on a heart-warming smile for the spectators. Leeseberg displayed her confidence and sang alongside her peers (above).

When a harmless plant becomes thirsty for human blood, things go bad at a certain flower shop.

Seymour Krelborn, played by Jeffrey Pierpoint, works at Mushnik's Skid Row Florist with Mushnik (Noah Strayve) and Audrey (Emily Roberts). Seymour obtains a plant that resembles a large Venus fly trap and names it Audrey II. The florists soon find out that the plant needs human blood to survive, and everything goes downhill from there.

The plant, with Thomas Sanders as its voice and Bradley Cole as the operator, comes to life in this play. "The inside of Audrey II was not only hot, fuzzy, and smelled funky, but it was quite heavy as well. Needless to say, I had a great time doing it," said Cole.

As stage manager, Jacqueline Leeseberg made sure everything ran smoothly on stage and backstage. "I wear black and run all over, telling people what to do. I make sure that everyone has a prop and help build the set. I am basically a ninja. It is a stressful job," said Leeseberg, just one of many behind the scenes people who helped make "The Little Shop of Horrors" a success.

-Alexis Brunell

Revenge. Seymour (Pierpoint) shows up at Orin's (Brown) office to kill him for abusing Audrey (Roberts) again.

Persuasion. To encourage Audrey II to grow big and strong, Seymour (Pierpoint) sings "Grow For Me."

Skills. Freshman Joshua Brown played more than four different characters: Orin, Bernstein, Snip, Luce, and other people.

Support. Listening intently to the radio, Crystal (Nadia Pelletier), Chiffon (Danielle Pacelli), Ronnette (Chelsea Ross), and Mushnik (Strayve) listen to one of the interviews in which Seymour (Pierpoint) talks about the plant (left).

Gullible. To distract Mushnik (Strayve) from going to the police, Seymour (Pierpoint) tells him that there is money inside Audrey II's pod, which causes him to get eaten (right).

Advice. Audrey II grows red flowers, and the main characters reappear as blossoms and tell the audience that no matter how persuasive the plant is, a person should never do what it asks.

Guilt. Gasping for air, Orin (Brown) asks Seymour (Pierpoint) to help take the laughing gas mask off. Refusing to help caused Orin to die, which allowed Seymour to feed him to Audrey II.

Fate. Before sharing a kiss, Audrey (Roberts) and Seymour (Pierpoint) sing "Suddenly, Seymour."

Rookie. "The first time you sing on stage is very nerve-racking, but it becomes second nature," said Strayve.

Foreshadowing. As soon as Seymour (Pierpoint) feeds Audrey II some of his blood, the plant is addicted.

Overwhelmed. Because of all the publicity that Audrey II has gotten, Audrey (Roberts) and Seymour (Pierpoint) are swamped with phone calls from hundreds of people all over the city wanting bouquets of flowers (left).

Enthusiasm. During a dress rehearsal meeting, Ms. Mary Hafertepe and Mr. Brandon Fantozzi give a pep talk, encouraging everyone to keep up the good work (right).

An omniscient stage manager walks the audience through the lives of two families in a close-knit small town.

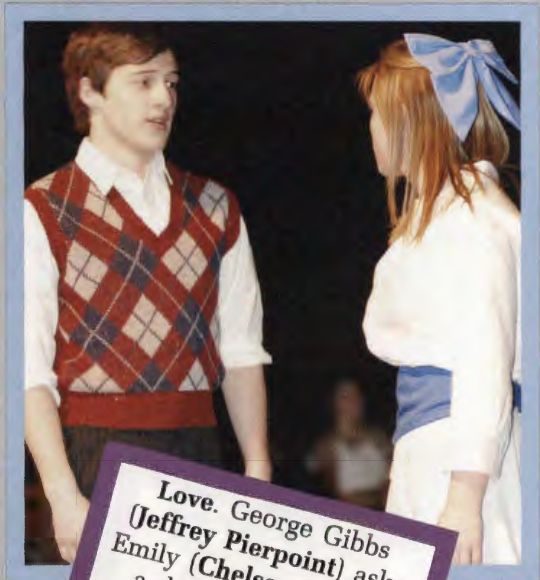

“Our Town” is based in the fictional town of Grover’s Corners, New Hampshire. The play portrays the lives of ordinary neighbors who know everything about each other. Nothing is a secret here. The play is guided by the Stage Manager, played by Anthony Wondolkowski, who sets up each act and scene for the audience.

“Our Town” was meant to be a simple play that forces the audience to use their imagination. Prop usage was limited with only tables and chairs for kitchen scenes. Limited scenery and props created unusual challenges for the actors. Asked about this,

Benjamin Stibal, who played Wally Webb, said, “Well it was harder than a normal play because you had to remember where all the imaginary props were, and know how to pantomime. You could also bend them to your own will, so from that aspect it was easier.”

“Playing George Gibbs was a great experience because I got to play a part that really tells an important story in society! It was a lot of fun,” said Jeffrey Pierpoint. His character dealt with both love and the death of the one he loved. The play continues to be popular because it deals with issues present in all people’s lives.

—Meghan Putnam

Love. George Gibbs (Jeffrey Pierpoint) asks Emily (Chelsea Ross) on a date to get an ice cream soda with him.

Secrets. Conducting the church choir, Simon Stimson (Tyler Austgen) tries to hide drunkenness, an open secret among his neighbors.

Update. Dr. Frank Gibbs (Thomas Harms) pauses to read the town newspaper as he returns home from delivering twins.

Family. Mrs. Myrtle Webb (Caitlin Kiel) cooks a hearty breakfast for her family. After cooking the nice meal, Mrs. Webb called her kids down before sending them off to school (left).

Death. Joe Stoddard (Anthony Soliven) organizes Emily Webb’s grave and discusses how sad it is to bury young people. Stoddard is Grover’s Corners undertaker (right).

In a city where race is a major issue, everything falls apart for rival gang members when they fall in love.

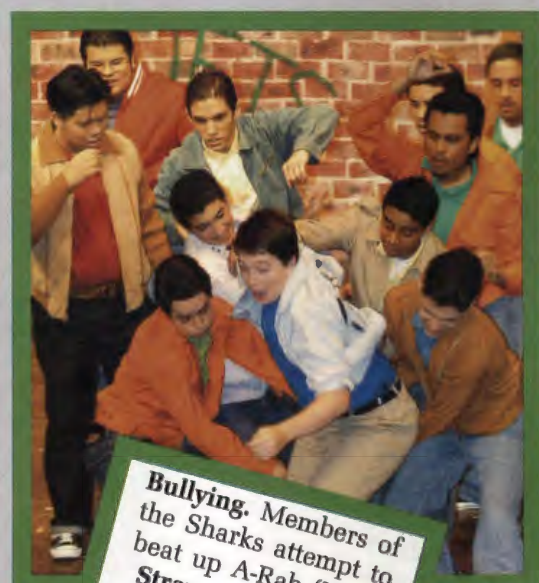

The famous musical "West Side Story" is a twist on the classic tale Romeo and Juliet. It takes place on the West Side of New York City, where two gangs (the Jets and Sharks) of different ethnicities despise each other and get into many fights. Riff (Jeffrey Pierpoint), the leader of the white gang (the Jets) challenges Bernardo (Anthony Soliven) and the Sharks, who are Puerto Rican, to a rumble after a neighborhood dance.

Tony (Nikolas Kmiecik) sees Maria (Anna Duran) from across the room and they fall in love. They try to keep their love a secret, but when a member from each gang gets killed in a rumble, Maria and Tony try to run away. Jealous and vengeful, Chino (Louis Boers) shoots and kills Tony with a gun. "I wanted to do the musical so I was a person, not a number like in sports. It was one of the best experiences of my life," said Jacqueline Salgado, who, though she had never performed on stage before "West Side Story," played Anita. The musical was the final West Chicago play directed by Ms. Mar Hafertepe, as she retired at the end of the 2009-2010 school year.

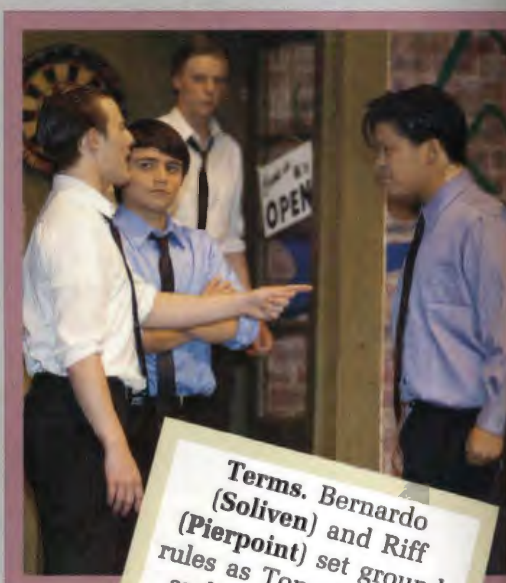

-Alexis Brunel

Tunes. The orchestra pit provides music for both depressing and epic battle scenes that leave two Jets and a Shark dead.

Bullying. Members of the Sharks attempt to beat up A-Rab (Noah Strayve) during the prologue.

Terms. Bernardo (Soliven) and Riff (Pierpoint) set ground rules as Tony (Kmiecik) and Big Deal (Steven Balmer) look on.

Young Love. Just as Romeo and Juliet did on Juliet's balcony, Maria (Duran) and Tony (Kmiecik) profess their newfound and unexpected love on Maria's fire escape landing (left).

Flight. On the run from the Sharks and the police, Jet Baby John (Daniel Stomp) jumps a fence on his way to a late-night rendezvous with the rest of the gang (right).

Mockery. After getting in trouble with Officer Krupke (Tyler Austgen), Action (Anthony Wondolkowski) and the other Jet boys make fun of him in the song "Gee, Officer Krupke."

Hardworking. Without the wonderful people working backstage, nothing would go right onstage. Some people from the Props and Running Crew and the Publicity Crew pose for the camera.

Moves. Big Deal (Steven Balmer) and Action (Anthony Wondolkowski), two Jets, dance during the prologue.

Preparation. Prior to the show, Pierpoint puts on stage makeup to become his character, Riff.

Mixer. At the dance, Anita (Salgado) and Bernardo (Soliven) show the Jets and their girls how it is done in Puerto Rico.

A New Land. Singing a song entitled "America," Anita (Salgado) and the other Shark girls discuss the differences between America and Puerto Rico (left).

Tricky. The Sharks and Jets' war council had been in progress inside Doc's, but when Lt. Schrank (Joshua Brown) walks in, they all pretend to be friends to avoid suspicion and shut out the cops (right).

USE (it)

Students in SkillsUSA use their abilities to participate in competitions, in hopes of being invited to Nationals.

SkillsUSA is a club designed for students who have a specific vocational skill they can demonstrate in competitions. Students are accepted into the club once they pay a fee of thirty dollars. Students can earn this by working concessions during football games. Not only do SkillsUSA members compete, they also volunteer for projects like raking leaves and an annual food drive. Mrs. Kozlowski said, "I believe one of the best highlights of the year would have been the t-shirts created to support our heroes." These t-shirts were designed by SkillsUSA members Angela Gentile and Emily Tulipano. Every year SkillsUSA members compete in local and state tournaments. There are competitions for specific skills such as keyboarding, childcare, photography, culinary arts, drafting, business and more. This year several SkillsUSA members did extremely well, and members, Chelsen Madsen, Mayuri Parmar, Mehak Damani, Steven Celmer, and Jeff Pekosh earned the right to go to nationals over the summer.

Chelsea Madsen, Mayuri Parmar, Mehak Damani, Steven Celmer, and Jeff Pekosh are the five lucky students going to Kansas City for nationals (above left). Mayuri Parmar said, "Skills U.S.A. has made it easier for me to talk to people I don't know because I have done it so many times". Bree Ringe, Mrs. Kozlowski, and Megan Swiertz pose at the state conference (bottom left).

Pride. After competing and testing their business skills, Matthew Zajac, Matthew Rayos, Connie Tan, Matthew Matson, Tarah Rayos, Alex Marano, Courtney Vargas, Luis Guzman, Elantra Vangorkom, Curtis Hajec, and Anthony Venen show off their recognition awards for placing at the Northern Area Conference held at Bourbonnais, Illinois in January (below).

With their minds set on achieving, members of Future Business Leaders of America competed with students at area and state level in subjects from career-related fields, gave speeches, debated, and talked business ethics. By being involved with the school and producing the Variety Show, FBLA also contributed to the community through Adopt-A-Family. "Giving gifts for Christmas felt awesome! Many FBLA members were at the wrapping of the presents and it was so much fun," said Courtney Vargas. This year, 16 members traveled to Decatur, Illinois, for a State Conference. During March 26 and 27, students were able to compete and meet new people from different schools. "All the people I met were pretty cool. We had a good time at the dance," said Matthew Zajac. During a fun-filled weekend, nine members placed at state and took home recognition awards. This experience, along with determination, prepared the members for a future in the business world, in which they are bound to succeed.

Speaking in front of large crowds may intimidate most, but for the speech team it's second nature.

With about 30 students on the team, Speech Team gives the students at our school the opportunity to show the speaking abilities they possess. "It was great placing second at the Metea Meet; everyone did really well," said Thalia Fernandez. Speech is not only a way for students to express their creative side in a positive way, it is also a way to acquaint themselves with students who are like-minded. The season picked up in October and continued through February with meetings and competitions in between. For an event such as Impromptu Speaking, Benjamin Vanderlei prepares before each round by listening to music. "Before my turn, I plug in my iPod and crank it up to Lil Wayne. This way I can put that extra swagger in my step. It's surprisingly effective," said Vanderlei.

The new members on the team demonstrated a more than impressive amount of hard work and determination that helped them blend into the close-knit family that is speech.

Projection. Serving as an inspiration to the rest of the team, Abram Fernandez delivers his speech (top left).

Persuasion. With three years on speech team Shelby Coople has learned to give an impressive speech (bottom left).

Voice. John Heinze, Karan Panchal, Benjamin Vanderlei, and Thalia Fernandez express thanks after receiving medals (above). "It's been an amazing journey having met so many people and showing off my speaking abilities to others," said senior Carrie Liszka.

Drive. The Sole Steppers prepared for their trip to Naperville Central High School for the DVC Step Showcase held on November 20th. The Steppers placed fourth out of ten competing teams (below).

Pride. At the Fall Sports Assembly, Alison Place, Tianna Griffin, and Hadama Thompson show off a routine that was rehearsed only a day before (top right). Commitment. After being on the step team for three years, Ariel Berumen, Bria McWilliams, and Laura Martinez show the school how to step like pros (bottom right).

Striving to express spirit through rhythm and movement, the Sole Steppers add high energy to every performance. With their fourth season under way, the steppers showed the entire school how to stomp the yard by stepping at the school's pep assemblies and competitions. Magali Correa noted, "I feel that we accomplished many things this year, and the school really showed their support by cheering for us at the pep rallies."

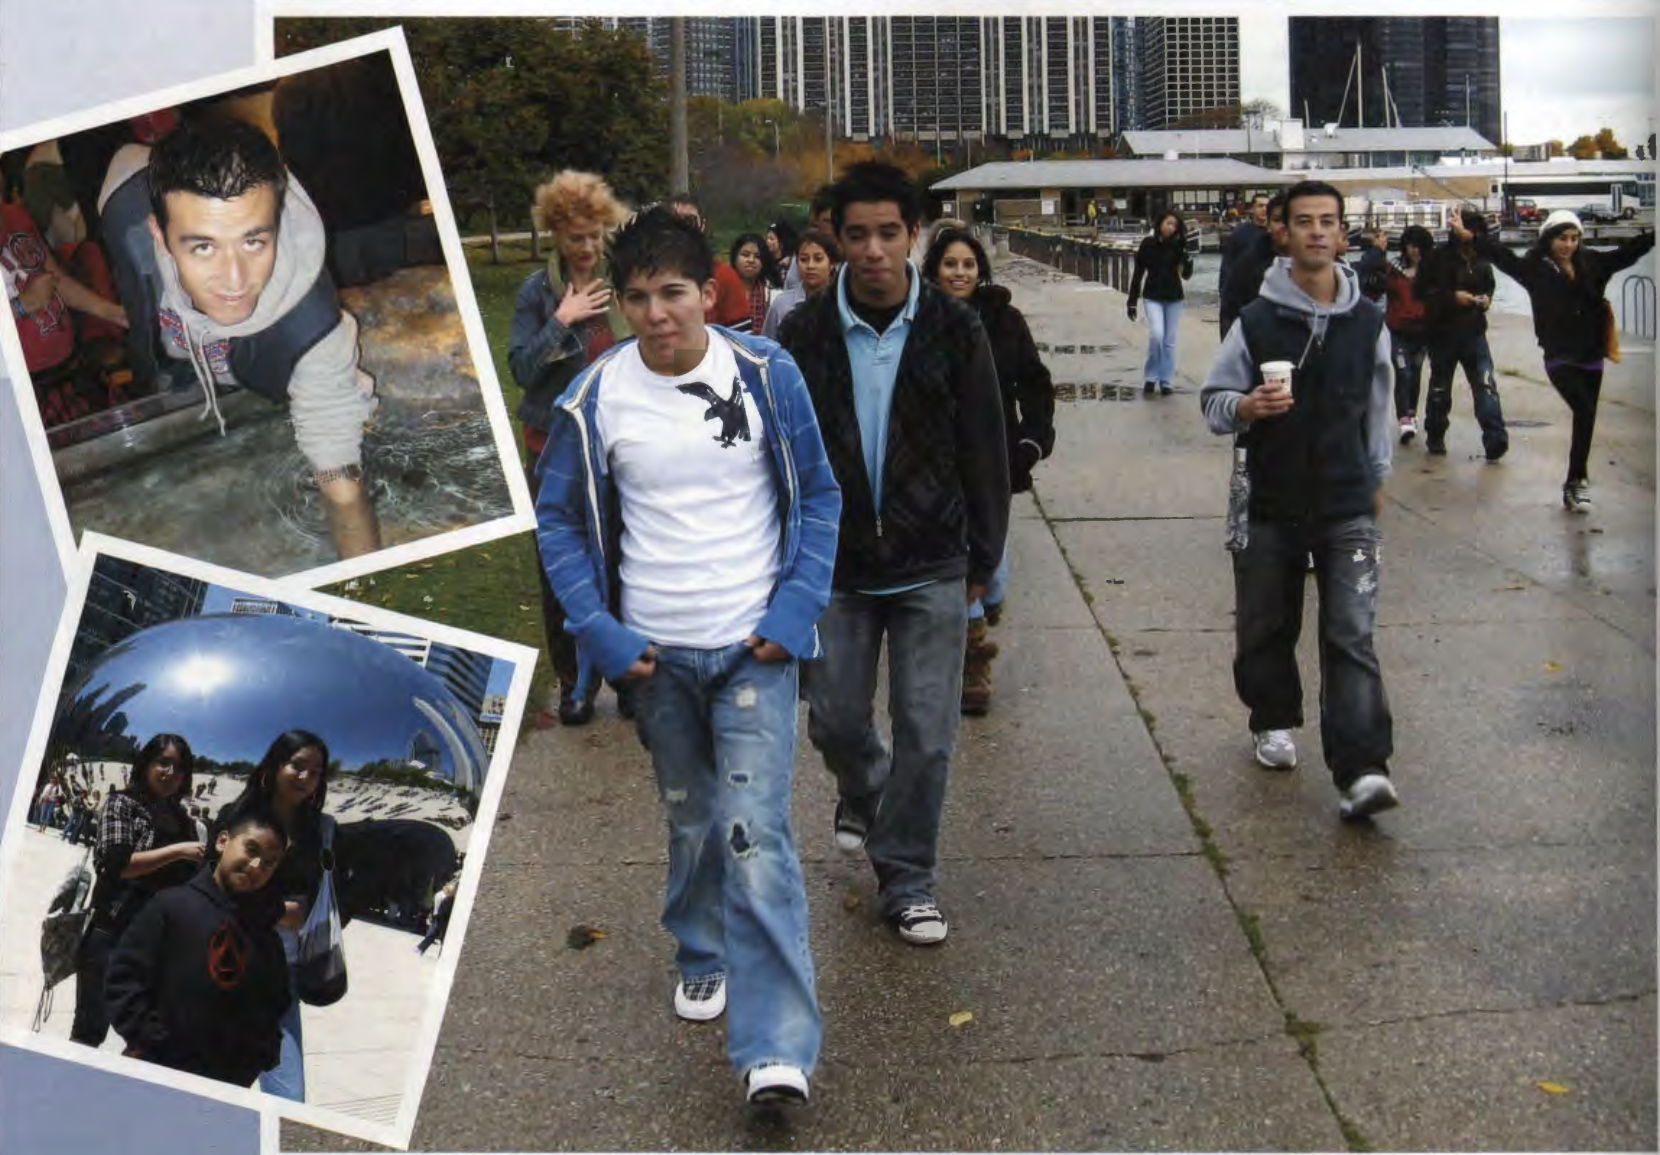

During their first annual retreat, the Sole Steppers traveled to the University of Illinois in Urbana-

Champaign to compete with five other schools. After a fun-filled weekend of competing, working with new people, and listening to an inspirational speaker, the steppers returned to school to show off their first place award. "I could not be any more proud of what my girls did for each other. Great times with them will stay with me forever," said stepper coach Ms. Amanda Cordes. Whether at competitions or stepping for the school, the steppers are always determined to have fun while stomping the yard.

Students involved in OLAS have the opportunity to learn about new cultures while making new friends.

During the course of the year, the OLAS members have a good time whether they are planning a field trip or just hanging out in a classroom. "I like being part of the club because we learn new things and get to know places that I have never gone to," said Sole Balbuena. The Organization of Latin American Students is all about getting to know about others' cultures. It is mostly made up of students from Spanish speaking countries, but anyone can join and learn more about the Hispanic culture and others as well. "Getting to know students outside of the classroom gives me a different perspective. Experiencing new things with the club members always makes things exciting," said Mr. Poulterer.

Many field trips are taken during the course of the year, including going to the Shedd Aquarium in Chicago. This was a good experience to learn about the aquatic life of marine animals and how they survive in their natural environment. "My favorite field trip was ice skating because I had the opportunity to be with all my friends and learn new things," noted Paloma Reyes.

BOND (it)

Exciting trips and events bring together students to bond and make new friends.

We-Go Buddies has helped to create a healthy environment for students with disabilities so they have the opportunity to go to new places with a group of their friends. One of the club leaders is Ms. Abby Lynch, who said, "We-go Buddies is a club to help encourage friendships between students with disabilities and general ed students. We do once-a-month activities so everyone gets a chance to socialize with other students they might normally not. We had a pizza party, went to the movies, glow golfing, paint a penguin, enchanted castle, bowling, and walked in the homecoming parade just to name a few."

Ms. Lynch spent time finding activities that suited the needs of each student to make sure that all enjoyed the field trips and had fun. Jennifer Youngwith has made many friends because of the program, and she said, "I like going on field trips with my friends and service dog. It is fun doing different things." The students spent a great amount of time together and became really close with one another.

—Meghan Putnam

Excited. Getting ready to exit the bus for a day of fun and exciting activities is Armund Alcuna (top). We-Go Buddies is involved with many activities, but Alcuna said he joined the program, "Because we get to go on a lot of fun field trips."

Community High School joined in one of the country's biggest movements and decided to go green. However, Club Green has more responsibilities than the common high school student thinks. Vice president Joseph Wais explained, "Club Green promotes various environmental activities at the school and in the community. We teach advisories how to recycle in school and at home and we also have adopted stray animals. Club Green's main goals and hopes are to have an effect on the school and truly educate the students about green issues." And according to Mrs. Suzanne Burchacki, the adviser of Club Green, "We also make the bathroom signs, have the hot cocoa sales with the funds going to help the rainforest, and pick up trash on the Prairie Path in the spring. This year, the club is trying to start a used school supply recovery program." Club Green has done a fantastic job changing the school and community. The group has the potential to one day change the world for the better.

Key Club is a community service organization that helps out needy people through various means.

Key Club is open to anyone who would like to be involved in helping out the community. The club has monthly meetings with Mr. Ward Rau to discuss possible projects that will motivate most of the school body to get involved. The activities sponsored and supported by Key Club include the blood drives, toy drives, the Humanitarian Service Project, and many more. One of the biggest projects that was accomplished by the club this year was Feed My Starving Children; this was done when the tragic earthquake occurred in Haiti. Members packed necessities like shoes, canned food, and clothing for shipment to Haiti.

The club is recommended for those who would like to give back to the community and help out the less fortunate. "Not only is it a rewarding experience, it is also a ton of fun. Giving back to the world and community in which we live is important. Key Club reminds you that there are others in the world that are in need, and everything we do does make a difference," commented Anna Duran.

Zachary Taylor and Thomas Hahs jam out at The Battle of the Bands, an event sponsored by the Community Leadership class (bottom right). Profits made from the event were donated to WeGo to Africa. Hahs said, "It felt good raising money for WeGo to Africa, and I got a chance to melt some faces."

Community leadership is a semester-long class offered to any grade level. Twice a week, students are released from their eighth period class. This allows students extra time to complete service hours. By the end of the semester each student is required to have 60 hours of service logged and completed. Ms. Daneels, the teacher of the community leadership class, said, "This class helps students find their place as effective citizens in their community and enables them to use their talents to solve real life problems." Not only do the students help give back to the community, but they also do fundraisers and make donations to others in need. This year, the community leadership class raised money for Angola, a country in Africa, by selling WeGo to Africa t-shirts and suckers. Katelyn Petrusaitis said, "I have grown so much from taking this class, and I suggest everyone take it." This class is a great opportunity to become an active member of the community.

Making a difference one nail at a time, Habitat for Humanity continues to help those in need.

With each nail pounded, the members of Habitat for Humanity used their dedication to help families in need by building houses from the ground up. Mrs. Blair Covino began the chapter at West Chicago after taking many service trips, and with her passion decided to try one here. "The students involved learned the value of doing service and also got to learn about injustice and inequity in the world. They were then able to feel as though they contributed to change it," said Covino. Officers Gerald Gaughan, Amatore Loiotile, Kelsey King, Jillian Macrito, and Caroline Leuer worked hard on each project whether it included painting or putting up crown molding. Some of the chapter's accomplishments this year included helping to build two houses in West Chicago, putting insulation in a house and putting in floor boards. Member Stevie Limbrick said, "The best part about working on the houses is knowing that you are doing it for someone who really needs it. Once the house is complete it is such an amazing feeling that cannot be described." Although the year may be over, the work is not, and this summer seven lucky students will travel to Winona, Minnesota, in order to work on houses and help out more needy people.

—Haley Goranson

Battle. Gerald Gaughan and Amatore Loiotile prepare for battle against the pounds of nails and wood that they will turn into a house (top left). "First, I joined because I needed volunteer hours for college. After time I realized what a difference I can make in the community. Reach. Using a ladder to reach the ceiling and other high spots, Caroline Leuer and Kelsey King work (bottom left).

Collaborating. Secretary Maria Barajas helps group member Mariaelena Delgado prepare decorations for the Homecoming Dance (bottom right).

Student Council is one of the most involved student organizations in the school. The majority of events throughout the school year receive some sort of funding or support from Student Council. According to Mr. Eric Lasky, one of the group's advisers, student council is responsible for "planning homecoming, prom, senior gifts, senior murals, dodgeball tournaments, designing and selling squad shirts, and much more." The students in the group play a major role in the completion of these events. Some prominent students on Student Council included President Nicole Burlingame, Vice President Bree Ringe, Secretary Maria Barajas, and Treasurer Robert Windisch. Council member Angela Gentile said, "I played a major role in organizing the prom this year, and most other senior activities." Dedicated students from the classes of 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013 all worked to make special activities successful and contributed to community service projects in and beyond the school.

Armed with new defensive and offensive goals, the players strove to stop other teams.

Most Wildcats were surprised and heartbroken at the news that 2008-2009 Head Coach Hal Chiodo had left; nonetheless, the players were put to work the second week of summer as Paul Reinke took on the position of head football coach at the last minute. During summer camp, the players completed over 300 hours of practice, and breaks weren't an option. From the day they started camp until the last game, their determination, dedication, blood, sweat, and tears were shown on and off the gridiron. "The feeling of playing under the lights in front of a thousand people is like no other. Next year I'm sure we will win more games and hopefully make it to the playoffs," said Danie Schwab. The players had a lot to grind through, such as Reinke's notorious 'Miami Mile' and 'Earn Your Jersey' events, practices and night long study sessions. "He is a great coach and has a great understanding of the game. I am happy to have the privilege to play under his coaching," said Leo Bartyzel. For the love of the game and the love of the team, the players worked with dedication and determination every time they donned their jerseys beneath the Friday night lights.

Precision, accuracy, commitment, and teamwork are necessary for the lady wildcats to succeed.

Starting the season with intense training, the girls' soccer team gave it their all at practice to be the best on the field. In the first game of the season, against St. Francis, the team tweaked their performance with the help of Coach Cesar Gomez. He pushed the girls to their full potential and helped acquire and perfect new skills. "This year we did something new. Before practice we did a workout video called 'Insanity'. I liked it; the entire team did. Sean T. kept us in shape on our cardio. I'm glad Coach Gomez introduced us to 'Insanity'," said Sarah Opel. Before the game against the Larkin Royals the girls huddled to pump each other up to achieve a victory. With Kelsey Meyers at the goal stopping any shot kicked at her, it was impossible for the Royals to put any points on the scoreboard. The team played an intense game, adding a victory to the charts.

The Wildcats won 6-0, destroying the Royals on home turf. As the season came to a close, the team embraced the experiences that brought them closer together to become a soccer family. Katie Becker noted, "We had team bonding activities; going to the Chicago Red Stars game, having sleepovers, and pasta parties."

Pass (It). Play (It). If you can run, dribble a ball and kick it with precision, soccer is your game.

The Wildcats were again ready to prove that their intense practices every day would pay off. On October 15, 2009 West Chicago set foot at Wheaton North High School, as the Falcons waited anxiously.

"Coach Brugmann always kept us concentrated, and helped us become better players all around," said Carlos Vazquez. While playing the Falcons, the Wildcats worked together to put the first goal on the scoreboard. Andrew Davis had a corner kick and Erick Baeza sprinted to the rivals' goal, headed the ball straight into the net, and achieved the first goal. Starting a new tradition this year, the team set a new trend that will continue when playing conference games. "Team haircuts is something I'm never going to forget. Martin [Orozco] shaving his head was funny! I enjoyed everything about this year's season. I had some good times with Adrian Porcayo, and Luis Ortega," said Captain Dorian Carrasco. Throughout the season, all four levels showed dedication, and hard work. This goes to show that the love for the game is more than just a feeling; it's a religion.

Confidence. "Everytime I have the ball I make the best use of it," said Louis Boers, trying to open up to receive a pass (top).

Teamwork. The varsity boys' soccer team came together and played like a family, with help from parents and coaches. "We had time to bond as a team, and I think that really played a role in the way we handled every game," stated Noe Santillan Jr. (top).

Preparation. Teammates Dorian Carrasco, Antonio Maldonado, Miguel Ortiz, Christopher Quintana and Esteban Fernandez stretch before a game. "Always stretch properly, kids," said Fernandez.

Strive. We have become a very close team and plan on making it to sectionals," said Lucy Fuentes. The girls continued to work hard every day for their hopes of reaching sectionals, to which they sent three girls this season.

Determination. At the fall meet Tanya Starkey drives to stay ahead in her race. "The race we had the most fun at this season was the sectionals meet in St. Charles. The course was completely flooded, and at some parts we were running in knee-high mud," explained Starkey.

With a different running schedule for practice every day, the girls' cross country team managed to pull in an average of thirty to thirty-eight miles a week. "I am constantly amazed how hard the girls distance runners are willing to work every day at practice, and including the off season," said Coach Robert Maxson. The team pushed together in the off season, especially on their trip to Lorado Taft. The group of girls dug every ounce of energy left inside of them to stay driven to their goal of finishing the set of treacherous, long, wearing stairs for thirty minutes straight.

One pre-season goal for which they strove was a varsity trophy for fifth place, but they exceeded their goal and came in fourth at the Crystal Lake meet. Three girls this season qualified to make it to sectionals: Kelsey Sayner, Tanya Starkey, and Annette Eichenberger. During the season the girls' cross country team was ranked 39th in state. This impressive accomplishment gave the girls something to always reflect back on and strive to beat in future seasons.

As the school day comes to an end at CHS, most students pack onto school buses or into cars, however, the quickest escape may be on the back of one of the cross country runners. "This year the practices were particularly harder than previous years, because of the increased mileage and the intensity of the workouts," said junior Gunnar Sterne. "Our top seven guys ran around 500-600 miles, which allowed us to have a good head start on our season, and helped us to stay sharp for the postseason at Regionals and Sectionals."

The boys ran in packs, encouraging and pushing each other each step of the way to help them become faster and run harder. "On the bus before races, I personally listen to a lot of hip-hop, hard rock, and classical music," said senior Captain Evan Morgan. Senior Captain Michael Russo and junior Lucas Mackey both agreed that "many of the runners from last year showed great improvement and dedication throughout the season."

The Boys' Track team broke through to place in the top half of the DVC.

As the season came to a close, the boys' track team strove for the best and scored in the top half of the Dupage Valley Conference meet. At the meet, held at Glenbard North High School, the collective efforts of a few key players allowed the team to place fourth out of eight teams. The team's overall score of 71 beat out Glenbard East, Glenbard North, West Aurora, and Naperville Central. Captain Jeffrey Foreman earned first place in high jump when he set a new personal best of six feet and seven inches. Matthew Kubik also placed first in pole vault, and the two mile relay team of Captain Brent Smith, Roberto Campos, DJ Muzzy, and Evan Morgan placed second. Gunnar Sterne also did well and placed third in the 2 mile event. Captain Deven Lopez threw a personal best of 149.8 feet and placed fourth in discus and sixth in shot put. "The season was great because of the huge success we had in the DVC. Our team has only been in the top half of the DVC three times in the history of the school," said Kenneth LeVey.

-Alyson Taddeucci

Vault. After getting a feel for the high jump, Captain Eddy Rubio leaps over the difficult bar. Rubio's dedication to perfecting the art of long jump resulted in his successful season.

Propel. Coming out of his spin, Captain Deven Lopez launches the discus into the air. Lopez, who plans to continue track at Loyola University, placed third in the Geneva meet and finished the season with a successful record.

Spring. At the Geneva High School track meet, Alex Perez springs over the numerous hurdles and races toward the finish. Perez needed perfect rhythm in order to fly over each hurdle and place well.

Transfer. In a race against time, Kevin Desfassiaux hands the baton to Matthew Kubik to finish the race. Kubik, who plans to go to the University of Illinois at Chicago to run track, placed 6th, 7th, and 9th in his events at the Illinois State Track Tournament.

Champion. After qualifying for the 800 and finishing first at state, Annette Eichenberger celebrates and receives a medal for becoming the state champion. The tournament was held at Eastern Illinois University in May.

Anxiety. Waiting for the gunshot that starts the race, 2x400 runner Connie Tan shows some anxiousness. Along with running the 2x400, Tan also participated in the 100, 200, and long jump.

Accuracy. Kaitlyn Anders jumps one of many hurdles during an away meet at Wheaton North. Jumping over hurdles requires enormous accuracy and precision.

Reception. Taking the baton from a teammate, Rebecca Howe begins her segment of the 2x400 at the Wheaton North meet. Howe was the second runner for the relay team, and she pushed herself to make it to the next runner as quickly as possible.

The Girls' Track team had a very successful season with winning a majority of their meets and sending six people to state for both indoor and outdoor track.

Indoor track state qualifiers included Annette Eichenberger, Tanya Starkey, Kelsey Sayner, and Meghan Nichol for the 4x800, and Connie Tan for the long jump. Although Eichenberger, Starkey, Sayner, and Nichol all qualified for state for the 4x800 again for outdoor track, Eichenberger also qualified for the 800. Lucy Fuentes took the anchor spot in the relay so

Eichenberger could save her breath for the 800. Eichenberger won first place at state, held at Eastern Illinois University on May 20-22. She worked hard all season, but truly put her heart into running the last 800 meter of her senior track season.

Placing in an event takes the dedication of each girl as an individual, but at the end of the day, track becomes a team sport. The girls worked together throughout the season, to push each other further and to work their way to success.

Support. The team meets up to discuss tactics for the upcoming match against Glenbard North (right). If the girls are nervous for an upcoming match, they know they have someone to count on. Coach Moeaki has been the girls' tennis coach for 24 years. "Mo' has been an awesome coach because he is always there for us. He has made my past two seasons a memorable experience," said Alexis Brunelli.

Anticipation. As Jamie Antczak waits for the overhead ball to fall, she thinks about the upcoming swing. "Being a captain is a great experience because I'm setting an example for the other girls," said Antczak.

Spin. Following through, Jessica Munoz scores on the opposing team. Her impressive strength throughout the season enabled the team to reach new heights. Munoz always tried her best and successfully made it to sectionals.

Stretching. Going up to get a high ball, Madeline Urban is able to get a deuce, tying up the match. Urban realized it was a difficult serve and she had to be sure to keep her eyes on the ball and her racket ready to swing at the right moment.

Passion, practice, and precision are all qualities tennis players must possess. Each time the Lady Wildcats entered the court, one word was on their minds: victory. Throughout the season they worked together and to the best of their ability to become the most successful team they could. Six lucky girls earned the chance to compete at sectionals: Jamie Antczak, Alexis Brunelli, Lizbet Cortez, Kelsey Malan, Jessica Munoz, and Madeline Urban. According to Megan Gossen, "The team did very well this year and placed in almost all of our tournaments." Before each match, Coach Sione Moeaki gave the girls a pep talk to get them ready for the upcoming event. "The best experience this year was when we beat Glenbard North, because they are our rivals," said Urban. Glenbard North and West Chicago were evenly matched in skill. It was a close match, but the team came out on top and the crowd roared with excitement. Throughout the season, as the wins piled up, the team proved that hard work pays off as they came together for the love of a sport.

A small team with relentless drive, the members of the boys' tennis team proved their willingness to work. Coach Moeaki pushed the boys to try their best, and was proud when they accomplished their goals by winning individual conference matches this season. This was especially true for Captain Karan Panchal and Zack Michnick, who did outstandingly at sectionals by making it to the third set. Devan Patel said, "I like playing tennis because it's a sport that is easy to pick up but hard to be good at." Deepan Patel added, "I think we did a great job this year and we have improved a lot since the beginning of the season." A swimming style in which an individual relies solemnly on the speed and momentum of the water pushing them forward.

Anticipation filled the air as the girls swimming team walked onto the pool deck the morning of their DVC Conference meet. Every early morning wake up, every long and demanding practice and every sacrificed Friday night was put to the test as each girl competed in her designated event. Coach Nicholas Parry agreed that this has been one of their most successful seasons. "We have been very competitive this year," said Parry, and their hard work was put on the line the morning of the eventful meet. Junior Kelly Dunn placed first in two individual events and in one relay, with Caitlyn Madsen, Maria Sedjo, and Yvette Kruk. "I felt reassured that the work I have been doing this season has paid off," said Dunn. Set. Waiting for the buzzer, Anthony Nolazco, holds onto the starting block, ready to launch into the backstroke.

Lined up one by one, the swimmers, on their starting blocks, wait for the buzzer. Only one team in the building can call themselves Sharks, and they are fierce. For most high school students, rolling out of bed at 6:30 in the morning is a struggle. However, for the boys' swim team, diving into the pool at 5:30 a.m. is normal. Every day during the season, the boys practice in the morning, attend a full day of school, and then go to a three hour practice after school. To other students the thought of practicing in two psychical activities in one day would be brutal; to the swim team it is a way to become the best there is. "This year we had a smaller team, half the size of last year's team, but having a smaller team was a good thing because it helped bring the team closer together and pushed us work harder," said Anthony Nolazco. Despite the the size of the team, the Sharks swam their way into sectionals at St. Charles East and the DuPage Valley Conference Championship.

-Chris Phan

STROKE (it)

Using their arms and legs, the Sharks easily swim past the competition.

Preparation. Before every match the players independently prepare themselves to begin their match. "I try to focus and try to imagine that there is nothing in my way. I think about what my best score was and think that no matter what happens I can beat it, and I remember to just have fun," Sarah Quealy said. At right, Quealy places her ball on the tee at the Glenbard East match.

Concentration. Deep in thought, Sarah Massie focuses in on the ball to hit the precise spot needed to place it in the hole. With a perfect tap, Massie putted the ball into the hole to come out one under par.

Perfection. With a beautiful follow-through, Hannah Martin watches her ball as it flies closer and closer to the hole.

Improvement. Captain Karlie Becker, teeing off at right, noted, "Even though our record doesn't show it, we improved a lot." Becker and Coach Mike Cain led long practices to get the team in shape for the season. Both worked hard to build the skills of the younger team members.

Members of individual sports sometimes have to rely only on themselves for motivation and support. With the West Chicago girls golf team, it is very different. "It's only a few of us, but we always have each other's backs, in and out of St. Andrews Golf Course," said Hannah Martin.

As the green smell of freshly mowed grass invaded the air, the girl's golf team anticipated the start of their match. When a member of the team is getting ready to tee off, the rest of the team is watching and cheering on their teammate. Coach Mike Cain and Captain Karlie

Becker were the leaders of the practices. They made sure that the practices were tough and made the team better, but they had to make them fun too. "This season was different because the girls were more a family. Our coach, was great and always positive. He did a great job, and we got along, so we supported each other during practice and on the course", said Sarah Massie. The season was surely one to always be remembered, as each of the players walked away proud of what she had accomplished.

There was not a cloud in the sky when the boys' golf team stepped onto the fairway. The Wheaton North match was an important event for the team. Wheaton North had one win, and at the time the boys' golf team was undefeated. They practiced every day after school at St. Andrews Golf course. Their hard work and dedication paid off. It was a very close contest as the Wildcats won the match by only a single stroke.

After eleven competitive matches and four vigorous tournaments, the boys' golf team was no longer just a

"We are a very closely knit team of brothers that work well with one another," said Windisch. Captains Windisch and Skarin both made all conference. # DEFEND (it)

The lady wildcats mastered the arts of boxing out, trapping and stealing, a triple threat which led to a 17 - 10 record.

Early in November, the Lady Wildcat basketball team started off their season with a bang when they defeated Nazareth Academy (SCORE!). Immediately, high expectations from Coach Kim Wallner and motivating goals from senior captains Jessica Baidis, Madeline Warkins, Elizabeth Bruce, and Katie Staiton, were set for the remainder of the season. "We have to work really hard in practice and in every game. We have to understand that nothing will be given to us. So we're going to have to always play our best," said co-captain Baidis.

Throughout the season the players were tested with difficult games, such as in the first round of conference play when they played West Aurora. The teams took turns with the lead, causing two overtimes. Unfortunately it did not end in the lady wildcats' favor, though a few weeks later, during second round play, the girls took revenge and crushed the same team. As the season went on, the team looked to each other and Coach Wallner for support. "This year a lot of the girls have been playing together and coached by Wallner since the seventh grade. We play really well together and Wallner knows how to get the most out of us during practice and games," said co-captain Warkins.

REBOUND (it)

A team made up of mostly upperclassmen, the Wildcats had strong experience to compete in the DVC.

With a new coach and many returning varsity players, the boys looked towards the season with high expectations. Led by captains Chad Driscoll, Ryan Karg and Charles Jacques, the team had one goal: win as many games as possible. Coach Kevin Baldus, a former basketball player at West Chicago, came into the season with some big changes in mind. "Coach makes us earn wearing our uniform every second we have it on," said Matthew Zajac. Since the team was stacked with seniors who did a great job teaching the younger players and setting high expectations, the group had a better start than in previous years. "My teammates on the floor and on the bench encourage me most," said Driscoll.

The Wildcats were able to show their perseverance late in the season with an unforgettable win over Wheaton North. With 3.1 seconds left, the Wildcats were down 44-46 in the DVC home game. Kevin Peterson grabbed a rebound off of a missed free throw and passed it to Jeffery Robinson. Robinson heaved up a half-court shot that banked in. The Wildcats beat Wheaton North 47-46. The crowd rushed the court and the game would be remembered as one of the most exciting for many years.

Hustle. Senior Alex Robbins works hard on defense to stop the other team from scoring (top).

Speed. Point guard Lamar Moore scans the floor for an open teammate as he dribbles up the court (bottom).

Determination. Taking the ball strong to the basket, Ryan Karg looks to draw a foul from his defender, which would send him to the line to shoot two free throws. "I am encouraged most by the intensity level of the fans," said Karg.

Psych-up. The team gathers together around Lamar Moore in order to get pumped up before the game. "What pumps me up before a game is making two grilled cheese sandwiches and listening to my favorite songs," said senior Kevin Peterson.

Mad Hops. Driving hard to the basket, Chad Driscoll puts up a shot over a defender (middle).

Always a Wildcat. "Having played in the program before, I have respect for the players who played before me, with me and after me," said Coach Baldus (bottom).

Jump Shot. Even with a defender's hand in his face, Charles Jacques sends up a shot to gain two points for the Wildcats.

SPIKE (it)

Each point scored by the ladies on the court helped the team take one step closer to an intense victory.

Every grueling practice forced the fifteen tough volleyball players to push themselves to a new level. Practices meant learning new plays, staying in top condition and keeping the intensity level to the highest. The girls continued to push through each day in order to take out rival schools.

Senior Connie Tan said, "A captain should have good sportsmanship and respect. I'm honored to represent the '09 program. Everyone contributes to the success of our team and not one person is more important than any other." Captains take that extra step to keep their teammates on top of their game. All the players must work together and fight for every victory.

The girls each have ways of bringing the intensity to the court, and Coach Kris Hasty said, "I best prepare my teams in practices, but on game nights I leave it up to my captains and the individuals on the team to physically and mentally prepare themselves for that night. They have some pre-game rituals that I don't even know about. I will briefly meet with my team before we go out for warm-ups and discuss our plans or give some words of wisdom. I am not a cheerleader and I expect my players to be mentally and physically prepared when they step on that volleyball court." Coach Hasty kept all the hardworking players in high spirits throughout the season.

Confidence. Uplifting spirits is Connie Tan. A smile is always glued to her face as her name is announced before every game (top).

Courage. Having stepped behind the serving line, Taylor Kutilek sets up for an important serve against Glenbard East (bottom). As the volleyball flew over the net, Kutilek stepped onto the court to help her team defend their dominating score.

Unity. The varsity players huddle together hoping to dominate their opponent. Playing on the right side was junior Jennifer Konchar, who said, "Before each game, I think about what it will take to win, and that answer is working well together and communicating."

Together. The team shows respect while lined up in silence (above). During the National Anthem, "I try to visualize myself in the game performing the goals the team set before the match," Captain Quin Gable said.

Friendship. Getting ready to bump the volleyball to a teammate is sophomore Payton Bayless (right). "Every one of us had a great time with one another, and we all knew exactly how to cheer each other up," Bayless said.

Determination. As the volleyball spins through the air, Chloe Ellis sets up to pass the serve. Throughout the intense season Ellis played to her fullest potential from diving to pass balls to serving aces.

Dedication. Reviewing plays with her team, Coach Kristi Hasty stays calm and encourages her players to give it their all during stressful games.

One man can be a crucial ingredient on a team, but one man cannot make a team.

With a record of 12-24, the boys' volleyball team had many ups and downs this season, but over time they recognized the importance behind coming together as a team. "We started strong, but through injuries we slowed down and ended the season not as well as we all hoped for. We plan to come back a lot stronger next year to prove that West Chicago can be a force in the DVC," said Leo Bartyzel. With some upsetting injuries this season, the boys had trouble regrouping and playing together as a team. At the boys' final home game against Naperville Central, they came out strongly with powerful kills and smart points, but, though they took the Redhawks to a third game, they couldn't pull out a win. "My goal for next year is to get more wins in the DVC conference, but my main goal that we all are shooting for is a regional win for next year," said Adrian Porcayo. The returning team members for 2011 were excited for a positive and rewarding season. With plans to work hard in the off season, the boys would be prepared for a dominating and successful season ahead of them.

Celebrity. With an exciting appearance at the school, an Olympics-bound alumnist, Andy Hein signs varsity coach Kris Hasty's Andy Hein Team USA jersey (top).

Spike. During the West Aurora match, Justin Malandrucolo uses strength and a high vertical jump to spike down the middle for a kill. (bottom).

Huddle. During an intense match against Naperville Central, the boys' volleyball team comes together during a huddle to recharge their energy and conviction to achieve a win.

Power. Justin Olson covers Adrian Porcayo as he blocks a tip from an outside hitter on the visiting team for a point in the regional game.

Force. In an attempt to score, Liam Flaherty's powerful and careful spike intimidates his opponents. The shot flew through a diving block and took the Wildcats a point closer to a win.

Toss. During warm ups, Eugenio Tirado waits to give his partner a good toss to start a game of pepper to prepare before the match. (top).

Bump. Anthony Hasbun passes a ball to a teammate during warm-ups before a match. "I became a more responsible athlete, stayed positive, and bonded with the team quickly this year," said Hasbun (bottom).

Three hour practices filled with grounders, pop-flies, running, and hitting drills helped the thirteen teammates to make flawless plays.

New seasons bring tougher attitudes and stronger outlooks for the team's future. The girls continued to bring their "A-game" when stepping onto the diamond. To prepare for each game, practices were intense and focused on the fundamentals necessary to be one notch above the opponent. Brittany Parisi said, "Before games we try and focus both on offense and defense mechanisms. We often have batting practice before each game, focusing on hitting behind runners and getting bunts down. In our pregame warm ups, our defense focuses on hitting cut offs and fielding every play cleanly."

After weeks of long and tedious practices, the team went into the Glenbard East game extremely confident. With runners on second and third, Jennifer Konchar stepped up to the plate looking for an RBI. The pitcher threw a fast ball down the middle and Konchar started her swing to hit a line-drive up the middle that got past the center fielder. Konchar's hit scored both runners and she earned a double. All the players showed enthusiasm to keep hitting streaks up during each inning. The final score against Glenbard East was 10-0, a very big victory.

—Meghan Putnam

Swing. In response to a change-up pitch, Taylor Dash stays back on her swing (top). Dash took a strong swing to hit a line drive to the left.

Sprint. Taking off in a full sprint to first base is Elizabeth Bruce, who hit a line drive up the middle that went to center field (bottom). The fans in the stands cheered as the umpire called Bruce safe.

Out. Setting up for her throw to first base is Morgan Dastych, who gets an out against Glenbard West. Dastych plays each inning an out at a time to keep her mind focused on earning a win.

Fire. Catcher Kaity Olson receives the pitch and sets up to fire the softball down the line for a pick-off at first (above). Olson's strong approach to the play helped get the out. "I think about being constantly intense during the game and to not let anyone or anything affect how I play my game," said Olson.

Base. While playing second base, Rachel Johnson cleanly fields a grounder shot right at her (right). Before stepping out onto the field Johnson said, "I try to clear my mind and just take each play one pitch at a time. If I think too much about it, that's when I make mistakes."

Fast-pitch. Throwing an intense fast-pitch toward home plate during a conference game is starting pitcher Mary Connolly. Before a big game Connolly said, "We work really hard in practice and focus on what it's going to take to beat each conference team we play."

Stance. As Jennifer Goldsmith watches the pitcher wind up, she focuses on keeping a tight batting stance (above). All of Goldsmith's efforts and hard work paid off when she swung the bat and earned a base hit.

Nine players took to the field, all given responsibility for stopping runners from advancing and for making clean plays during each game.

The baseball team started the season with strong confidence and determination to be the best in DVC. With a large varsity team, the boys came up with a way of spending time with each other off the field. "Our team is not like other sports where we have team sleepovers or team bonding, instead, our team goes to Qdoba. We bond as a team during the games and practices, but when we go to Qdoba, it is just a bunch of guys hanging around having fun," said Matthew Rayos. Every time the team went to Qdoba they became closer with each other and talked about their favorite memories. Pitcher Scott Danes said, "My favorite memory of this season was playing under the lights at the University of Illinois Chicago." Danes soaked in the opportunity to play on a college field for a night.

Baseball is not only about making friends and memories. It consists of hard work and achieving goals that players made for themselves. "Basically I try not to focus on what's going on or put pressure on myself. I just try to focus on my talents and remember those instead of putting more pressure on myself than I really should. Doing that helps me perform to my expectations," said Jerrick Habecker. The whole team played to their own levels and improved their skills, which, in the end, helped them have a great season.

—Meghan Putnam

Solid. Senior Matthew Matson, his eyes on the ball, releases into his swing for a solid hit to the right side (top). Matson's teammates in the dugout watched him round first.

Back. Diving back to first base is Eulises Diaz (bottom). The throw to first was wild, and Diaz jumped up and took off for second base for an easy steal.

Strike. After receiving the signal from his catcher, Reid Howington starts his pitching wind up for a fast strike right down the middle of the plate. "The team's main focus going into a game is getting an early lead so our pitcher has something to work with and defensively throwing up a quick zero in the first inning," said Howington.

Slide. Having taken off from third base, Alex Robbins slides head-first into home plate and scores another run for the Wildcats against Naperville North (above). Robbins returned to the dugout and his teammates all gave him high-fives, and his run gave them a two run lead over their opponent.

Throw. Looking down to his catcher for a target, Charles Jacques, starts pitching, hoping to strike out the batter. Jacques went to a 3-2 count and threw a rising ball to the batter who swung and missed for a strike-out that ended the inning.

Steal. Once the pitcher releases the ball, Sean Paler attempts to steal third base (middle right). He slid in head-first as the crowd cheered and the umpire called him safe.

Calm. In the batter's box, Blair Skarin stays calm and mentally prepares himself for the pitch he's about to receive (bottom right). Skarin kept his hands in and hit a line drive that got through the left

Long hours of rigorous practice pushed each wrestler to improve his talents and defeat his opponents.

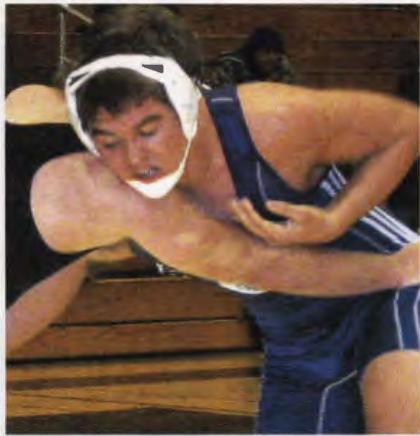

Having a strong season pushed the wrestlers into high-gear for long practices. Each practice ranged from two and a half hours to three hours, with nonstop conditioning drills to improve techniques and grow as a team. Wrestlers set goals for themselves before a meet to stay focused. "As he entered the mat, each wrestler made it his goal to earn the respect of his opponent; win or lose. We've come a long way this season and I'm really proud of our team," said Coach Humberto Ayala in his first year as head coach for Varsity.

During a match the athletes have the chance to showcase their hard work for themselves and all the spectators watching from a distance. A take-down shows complete dominance over an opponent and the athlete receives two points. One of the wrestlers, Jesse Short, said, "Knowing you have the ability to control someone just as big and strong as you is a great feeling." Hard work and dedication helped the Varsity team to fulfill that feeling during every meet.

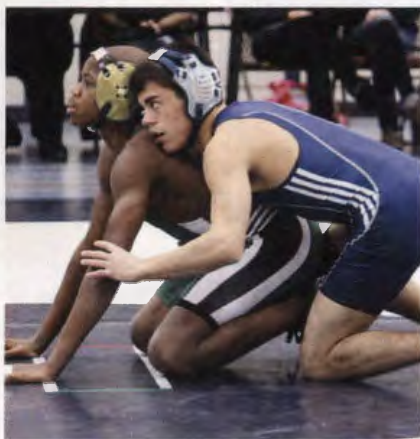

—Meghan Putnam

Victory. Using new moves to stay one step ahead of his competition is Robert "Tito" Guillen (right). He stayed focused and kept in mind everything he learned from long practices. After a tough practice Guillen said, "Practices are hard and intense, and they force me to get better. They also help me stay mentally and physically fit."

Skills. Making the first move to start the match strongly is Jonathan White. Impressive moves led to a win against his Glenbard North opponent during the tough match. White went on to win the DVC Championship at 189 pounds, and also to compete at State.

Heart. Persistence pays off on the mat for Anthony Brinkman. "Making weight takes dedication, hard work, and desire. You must watch what you eat and drink, but once you're on the mat everything you did was worth it," said Brinkman.

Control. Dominating during a match is Nicholas Carnot (right). Strong confidence pushed him to pin his opponent, and he later celebrated with teammates. "Everyone on the team is pretty close because we spend so much time together," said Carnot, who became DVC Champion in the 152 pound weight class.

Celebration. Skating back with pride, Benjamin Orr, Michael Coduto, and Jonathon Gilbertsen celebrate after a goal. "Playing with other schools is a great way to meet new people and create bonds with other athletes in the DuPage Valley Conference," said Jonathon Gilbertsen.

Dangles. "My best game of the season was against Hinsdale Central where I scored a hat trick to win it 5-3," explained varsity assistant captain Luke Somen.

Save. Sophomore Zachary Lenning protects the goal each and every time the puck gets near. "Being a goalie I have to be on top of my game at all times to make sure I don't let my team down," said Lenning.

Shot. Taking a shot at the goal, Anthony Brinkman has high hopes that he will score. Reflecting back on the season, he said, "Playing hockey was great. I liked being in a sport where I was able to have fun and be with my friends. It was also awesome that I scored five goals throughout the year."

As the hockey players hit the ice for their first day of practice, they knew this year they wanted to do something great. With high expectations from Coach David Dyson, each player took initiative to set individual as well as team goals and work on their skills. Every angle, slap shot, and center face-off was taken with pride and intensity. Captains Benjamin Orr and Luke Somen were sure to be good examples for their fellow athletes. "We had a good season this year. Each time I entered the ice I knew it was game time and I had to do my best," said Nickolas Shurba. Younger players on the team also had high expectations. Austin Kassaras said, "I had hoped to make it to state, and just rock people out on the ice." Some highlights of the season included beating Champaign and Hinsdale Central. Each player always had a positive attitude. In the words of Jordan Rehak, "Go Wild!"

Cooperating with two other schools in the DuPage Valley Conference, Wild is a triple threat.

Tight Spot. Surrounded by Sandburg players, Scott Wheeland weaves through an opening in the Sandburg defense.

Shadow. Mocking his attackers' every move, RJ Kobriger plans to shut the Sandburg Chiefs' offense down.

Elusive. Evading the defenders, Austin Barber weaves in and out of the defense in order to get closer to the goal and put points on the board for the Wildcats.

Impact. Checking a player in the back, Jeremy Piane works with Conor Zaputil to stop the player from reaching the ball.

In Spring 2009, the lacrosse team had a harsh time facing other schools, especially ones in the DuPage Valley Conference. Despite the rough season, the team stayed positive and pushed themselves to become the best. "Coming off a rough year last year, we knew as a team we had to change the view of West Chicago. We have grown together as a team and we want to prove to everyone that we can play with any team. Our team motto is 'No Excuses,' and with the leadership from our four captains, we are finally playing as a team," said Blake Zumpano. In 2010, the team showed themselves as the top dog at the Hoffman Estates invite, when they shut out the Hoffman Estates Hawks 11-0. "We have improved a lot because we are working hard with winning in our minds and developing more as a well-rounded team," said Kyle Martens. The team also focused heavily on building strong bonds with each other. Having a skilled, close-knit team, the Wildcats were on the offensive in 2010.

Nets lined the walls of Bishop Gym, and the school immediately knew that a badminton match was taking place. Around the gym, the badminton girls warmed up as they prepared to face their opponents. With the skills the Wildcats developed during their practices, the girls' opponents did not even seem like a threat to the intimidating players. The girls on the team worked hard conditioning and practicing all season and used each match to test out their newly acquired skills. The players set out to prove a point: that badminton is a sport.

The girls played many teams throughout the DuPage Valley Conference and grew as a team. Many of the girls felt strongly that there is always room for improvement. "Badminton is an understated sport that many do not consider an athletic activity. However, it takes drive determination, strength, and ability to do well," said Mariela Kruthoff. As the season came to a close, many of the athletes were able to grow and develop their abilities and essentially ended the season successfully.

-Christopher Phan

One Point. Determined to win the point, Cynthia Blanco drives the birdie over the net, knowing that every point counts. Blanco's hard work throughout the season paid off and her skills improved.

Altitude. While jumping in the air, Natalia Macias extends her racket above her head to reach the "flying" birdie. After smashing the birdie into her opponent's court, Macias won the match by tweaking her technique.

Patience. Watching the birdie approach her court, Mariela Kruthoff prepares to return the birdie high and clear over the net.

Set. Concentrating on the shuttlecock, Megan Pietura prepares to serve it to her opponent. Pietura worked throughout the season developing her serve into a lethal weapon.

Keep it up. Keep it up. Keep that WILDCAT spirit up!

Each year as the cheerleading season begins, the girls come to school during summer in preparation for camp at Northern Illinois University. 2009 was the first year the girls received trophies in both first and second place for their outstanding work done in cheer and dance at camp. Kaity Olson explained, "This year our squad has become so much more successful than previous years and we are finally getting noticed." Captains Erica Lange, Alyssa Pierce, Alyssa Santelli, and Kaity Olson spent a lot of time making up dances for the upcoming seasons and motivating the girls to work together. All of football and basketball season the cheerleaders worked hard at practices in order to entertain the crowd at halftimes, and when basketball season rolled around there was an added stress of competition along with the usual halftime routines. Another achievement for the West Chicago Cheerleaders in 2009 was being awarded second place at an invitational in Wauconda and third place at a competition in Belvidere. With their hard work and dedication, the cheerleaders opened up the eyes of the student body and proved that cheerleading is more than meets the eye. As Coach Terri Rohrdanz said, "The girls have really made me proud and I look forward to what's next for the cheerleaders here at WCHS. Our next goal is state."

Respect. The girls link arms and salute the flag before the varsity football game begins (bottom).

Dedicated. Gathered behind their newly awarded trophies, the girls on both JV and Varsity are ecstatic about how they have done this season. "We worked extremely hard and it just pays off in the end," said Anya Stratynski.

Performance. Practicing for the upcoming game, the girls use their strength to mount and hopefully impress the fans. "Mounting can be really difficult, especially when we're trying new things" said Alexa Jean. As Marianne Ulett added, "It takes a lot of courage to be a backspot. It's a bit intimidating watching the girls cradle knowing it's up to you to catch them."

With their many dances, the Poms Squad prove they have the skill, dedication and energy to wow the crowds at every football and basketball game.

Being a part of the Poms Squad required the members to be full of confidence, overly ambitious, and able to catch onto routines quickly. The girls practiced several hours each week in order to perfect their routines for their many performances. Each year the Poms Squad attends camp during the summer. "My most memorable experience from the season was earning second place at camp for one of our routines. All our summer practices paid off. It felt amazing," said Elise Oppermann. The girls put on a number of memorable performances throughout the year. From pep assemblies to football and basketball games, the Poms Squad always seemed to come out on top with a spectacular routine. Amber Weinmann said, "Before performances I don't normally get nervous, unless it's a dance we really didn't have a lot of time to prepare for, but we always seem to pull it together and put on a good performance." The girls put the crowd on their feet after every performance, highlighting another successful year.

-Rachael Venchus

Spirit. Smiling throughout the dance during sidelines is Marissa Caputo (top).

Precision. Showing enthusiasm and adding precise movement to the routine are Alison Miller, Elise Oppermann, Sarah Berger, and Kelsey King (bottom).

Relieved. Finishing their performance with smiles are Kelsey King and Marissa Caputo. "Before I perform I get really nervous to go on; after, I feel a rush of adrenaline and feel proud to be on the Poms Squad!" Caputo says.

Enthusiasm. Closing their performance to Michael Jackson's "Thriller," the Poms girls gather together with Megan Ogorzalek towering over them and mocking the laughter at the end of the song. "Before each performance we always do a team huddle where the choreographers give a pep talk," said Ogorzalek.

Kickline. At the peak of their kickline at the Winter Pep Assembly are Kelsey Skogsberg, Allyssa Brinkman, Kelsey King, and Christina Jonas.

Bonding. Hanging out before performing at the DVC competition are Kelsey Skogsberg, Amber Weinmann, and Allyssa Brinkman (middle right).

Completion. After putting the final touches on a house, the entire group displays their hard work. "I loved spending time with my favorite girls, especially Danielle McAvoy and Kelly Loftus," said Bradley Cole with a wink (below).

Fourteen hours and four states after leaving West Chicago, a group of eight dedicated students and two teachers, Mrs. Kristina Mallon and Mrs. Lynn Peto arrived in Mobile, Alabama for a life changing trip. Despite the many renditions of "Build Me Up Buttercup" and plans to adopt the neighborhood dogs, this trip was all about hard work. With four houses to work on, everyone managed to accomplish a great deal.

"I absolutely loved watching the camaradie and strong bonds of friendship develop among the students through their shared desire to help others," said Mallon. From painting the outside of houses to chipping grout on a tile floor to caulking, all ten people constantly had their hands full.

"Steamrolling before bed and meeting Gary were definitely my favorite parts" said Tanya Starkey. Gary, a Habitat for Humanity employee, helped the entire group throughout the week and ensured they changed the lives of several families in need.

Strong leadership skills along with dedication to community service describe the members of NHS.

LEAD (it)

Upping the number of hours from 25 to 30 meant increasing the amount of community service that the National Honors Society members partook in. Allowing members to complete 10 hours over the summer gave a great opportunity for service all year round. Induction in the fall recognizes a special group of students for their academic excellence and character. They later prove their dedication to volunteerism by completing their hours.

The ideal student for NHS is one who is, "truly invested in their school and their community," said Mrs. Kristina Mallon, the adviser of NHS.

Yard work for the elderly, PADS, Habitat for Humanity, Woodglen Nursing Home, DuPage Animal Shelter, Westwood Neighborhood Resource Center, Chicago's Beloved Homeless, and the Humanitarian Service Project are just a few of the activities members of NHS participated in to help others and earn the hours needed to maintain their NHS membership.

-Madeline Warkins

Enrolling. Signing the ledger to be accepted into the Foreign Language NHS are sophomores Matthew Green and Deirdre Hofman (top left).

Affirmation. Reciting the NHS pledge are Ellen Fitzgerald, Patrick Lawler, Zachary Rice, and Denis Mahmic (bottom left).

Reading. French students Maria Barajas, Mariaelena Delgado, Lily Villa, and Lucy Fuentes stand in front of their classmates and lead the pledge as part of the induction into the Foreign Language National Honors Society.

This special night was dedicated to the students in foreign language classes who were chosen by their teachers to be inducted because they showed their commitment to the language in class. An overall GPA of 3.0, studying at least two years of the language, earning all As in the language, and continuing a third or fourth year of language study qualified students for recognition. Melissa Birch, a former student and member of the German National Honor Society was recognized for being an active German Club member during all four years of high school and for visiting Germany twice. She spoke to the inductees about how learning a foreign language can lead to unexpected events and friendships throughout life. Sixty-one Spanish National Honor Society members, eleven German National Honor Society members, and eighteen French National Honor Society members were inducted.

—Rachael Venchus

To be inducted, the select handful had to work hard in class and show their dedication to the language.

After a year of hard work, bilingual students take one night to celebrate their accomplishments.

AWARD (it)

On a Tuesday night, students, along with family members and friends, filed into the Weyrauch Auditorium in order to celebrate their accomplishments. The night was held not only to honor seniors, but also students graduating from the ESL/Bilingual program and going into mainstream classes for 2010-2011.

The night started with awards given by teachers to students who showed exceptional work in their classes. Mariel Nieto, who graduated in 2006, was the alumni speaker for the night. Awards given out that night included Academic Honor Awards, Illinois State

Awards and the Amelia Allmart Scholarship, a scholarship named after former ESL teacher Amelia Allmart, who taught at Community High School for 18 years. Many students were honored, including Lourdes del Carmen Perez and Eric Brondy Hernandez, who each received a Bilingual Student of the Year Award, and Juan Montenegro, who was honored with the Humanitarian Award. The night ended perfectly with senior video memories.

Mrs. Zmrhal

After working at Wego as a P.E. teacher and dance production coach for 37 years, Mrs. Helen Zmrhal's favorite memory is when our school was selected to dance in the Illinois High School Dance Festival. Her efforts in producing a quality dance show will be missed.

Ms. Hafertepe

Ms. Mary Hafertepe accepted her teaching position during a bad recession in 1982. Who would have thought that 28 years later she would have directed 58 different plays and musicals? Hafertepe will miss having a captive audience to share in her self-described "clever-moments."

*"When you love people and have the desire to make a profound, positive impact on the world, then you will have accomplished the meaning to live."
-Sasha Azevedo*

After moving to the Chicagoland area with her husband, Mrs. Gail Aronoff began working at Community High School. 26 years later, Aronoff says her favorite memories are watching students improve their confidence and self-esteem. She will miss her day-to-day connections with the staff and students the most.

After helping her mother with a student teaching job at the middle school, Mrs. Patti Kozlowski was thrilled to follow her students to the high school. 37 years later, Kozlowski remembers the time she got pied in the face by a homecoming king and is grateful for her experiences at West Chicago.

Mrs. Aronoff

Mrs. Kozlowski

After being recommended by Northwestern to start a learning disabilities program at WeGo, Mrs. Terry Lemberg-Finn decided to accept the challenge. After 34 years, she will miss the day-to-day contact with her students greatly.

Mrs. Lemberg-Finn

Mr. Johnson

When WeGo built the pool in 1978, Mr. Dan Johnson came to the school as the first swim coach. He worked as a P.E. teacher for his first 15 years and spent the last 17 years as Division Head of the Physical Education Department. After his 32 years of working at Community High School, Johnson will miss the helpful staff and the wonderful community.

Mr. Zabelin

With 33 years of dedication to Consumer Education and the success of the Stock Market Game, Life Smarts, Personal Finance Challenge, and FBLA, Mr. Don Zabelin's legacy will remain at Community High School indefinitely. In between rapping and teaching, Zabelin will miss the fun times and memories with his students the most.

After years of dedication, WeGo says goodbye to some of its most knowledgeable teachers.

Kickin' it at the dance. The girls' soccer team hung up their jerseys for a night and put on their dresses. Here they pose for a professional picture as a team with their coaches.

Love Birds. High school sweethearts Caitlyn Madsen and Micheal Boegelein enjoy the last slow dance of the night. "I went with my boyfriend for the second time and we had a blast! It was a great way to end our senior year and I enjoyed dressing up and dancing with all of my friends," said Madsen.

MOVE TO (it)

Even though the rain was coming down hard outside, because of the party going on inside Wildcats barely noticed.

Royalty. King Kyle Molskow and Queen Amanda Hammontree hug just after being handed their crowns (top).
Singing along. While dancing with her friends, Gwendolyn Mitchell sings along to her favorite song (bottom).

The rain didn't dampen the excitement on the last Friday in April as Wildcats arrived at Drury Lane in their best formal wear. Six hundred students attended prom, the most since 2002. Students walked arm in arm with their dates under balloons spelling out "WeGo Prom" to find their tables and join their friends. Cameras went off all around as girls admired each others' dresses and boys wondered when the food would be served. After a buffet style dinner, students couldn't wait to get on the dance floor. Most juniors enjoyed their first prom while seniors enjoyed what would most likely be their last. "My senior prom was bittersweet. It's sad that it's our last dance of high school, yet it was great to have our class come together and dance our butts off one last time!" said Jamie Antczak.

The dancing only stopped for seconds as the prom court made their way onto the floor. "It was an honor to be voted onto court by my peers," said Nicholas Shurba. To roaring cheers, Kyle Molskow and Amanda Hammontree were crowned king and queen of the dance and led couples onto the dance floor to "Heaven," by D.J. Sammy. "I was really shocked when they announced my name. It was an honor to be chosen and a memorable experience I will never forget," said Hammontree.

-Jessica Baidis

Perfection. Friends Jamie Antczak and Madeline Urban show off their poofy dresses as they pose for the photographer. "My senior prom was perfect from beginning to end. I'm upset that it's my last dance, but I'm happy it turned out to be such a great time!" said Urban.

HONOR (it)

After four years of hard work, seniors were given a night to celebrate their accomplishments.

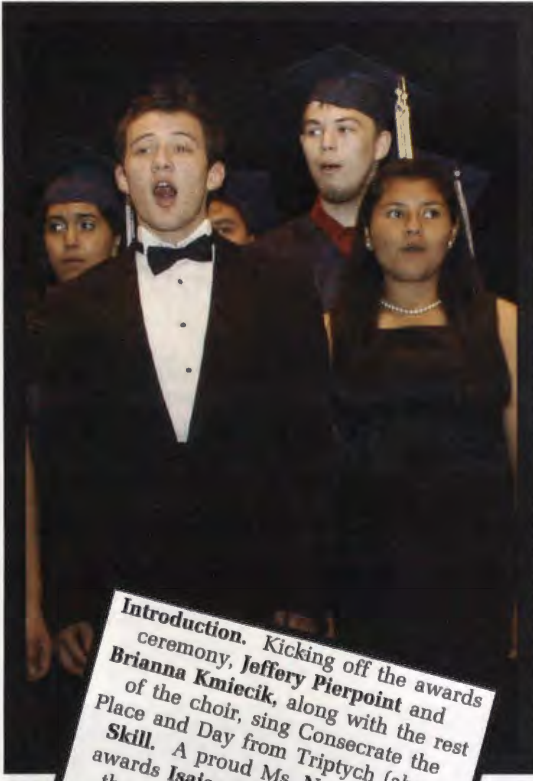

Weyrauch Auditorium was crowded on Friday night, June 4, at seven o'clock, as family, friends and teachers came to witness a select group of students receiving honors for their hard work. While the high school orchestra played the processional, students filed in as spectators cheered and cameras flashed.

After the choir sang, Dr. Moses Cheng began the night by introducing Ana Duran as the class Valedictorian and Brent Smith and Emily Nash as the class Salutatorians. Many awards and scholarships were given out to many deserving students. Graduates smiled and parents cheered as they heard their teenagers' name called. "I was very surprised on winning my awards and enjoyed seeing the look on my parents' faces when my name was called," said Angela Gentile.

The night closed as 15 students received medals for the Award for Outstanding Individual Merit. "Honors night was fun because I liked being around so many talented and gifted people. It made me proud of our class!" said Annette Eichenberger.

—Jessica Baidis

Attentiveness. Senior Kelsey Skogsberg listens for her name to be called (above). Achievement. Shaking the hand of Mr. John Rhodes, Elizabeth Fortner accepts the Fermilab Physics Award (below).

Success. Senior Jessica Munoz, who finished 29th out of 10,500 people on her French AP exam, accepts an award from Ms. Patti Kozlowski.

Pride. Retiring teacher, Ms. Mary Haefertepe presents deserving students, Anthony Wondolkowski and Chelsea Ross with the drama award.

Gratitude. Band director Mr. Stephen Govertsen presents Stephen Brendan McCormack with the prestigious J.P. Sousa Band Award.

Great Accomplishments. After four long years of hard work, Dr. Moses Cheng honors both Brent Smith and Emily Nash with the title of senior class Salutatorian. Smith and Nash met many high expectations, including perfect 4.0 grade point averages and extensive community service, to earn this honor.

Respect. As the National Anthem plays, Jaclyn Antis and Jamie Antczak show their respect to their country on their graduation day.

Bliss. Swelling with emotion, Daniel Cielo smiles at his friends and peers as he walks back to his seat after receiving his diploma cover.

Search and Re-search. Retiring teacher Ms. Mary Hafertepe gives the commencement address (above).

Finished. Sarah Massie and Roman Kopytko accept their diplomas after the commencement ceremony (above). Best in Class. Valedictorian Anna Duran is honored on stage with a medal (below).

Friendship. Although graduation calls for the end of school, Kristina Kalin and James Washington will remain friends forever (above). Joy. Fidel Huerta gives a thumbs up after commencement (below).

COMMENCE (it)

After what seemed like no time at all, the graduating class of 2010 said their last good-byes to high school.

With their hats flying as high as their dreams, the new graduates, the Class of 2010, walked out of the Bishop Gymnasium as high school alumni for the first time. A moving speech by Amy Ratliff left the students with optimistic views of the future, and wise words and fond memories of high school Ms. Mary Hafertepe led to long-awaited the parade across the stage.

After anxiously waiting for their own names to be called, each student walked across the stage, recognized by the school, friends and family. The final name called, the mass of navy blue threw its caps in the air and left the gymnasium for the final step: collection of their diplomas in Commons.

As a light rain started to fall, some left right away, but others stayed to take pictures or talk to friends. No matter how the students parted, this short, dignified ceremony marked the ending of childhood and the beginning of adult life for the graduates.

—Madeline Warkins, Alyson Tadduecci and Alexis Brunelli

Lead. Being among the first to file into the crowded Bishop Gymnasium, Iveth Ayala, Ivon Ayala, Rebekah Babis, and Alyssa Baermann anticipate the National Anthem and the Pledge. After the those activities were completed, the students listened to captivating speeches from Amy Ratliff and Ms. Mary Hafertepe and received their diploma covers.

GUESS THAT TEACHER:

Can you guess which teacher is which based off of his or her baby picture?

- 1) Teacher 1 "loves to hang out with Matthew, relax at the beach, and read Nicholas Sparks novels."
- 2) Teacher 2 is "all set to travel the world!"
- 3) Teacher 3 is "a future counselor who showed an interest in football way back in the 1950's."
- 4) Teacher 4 is "a real party girl who loves people, performing, and playing cards."
- 5) Teacher 5 enjoys "learning new computer software and reading for fun!"
- 6) Teacher 6 "waited until he was 18 for his first kiss."
- 7) Teacher 7 "has helped students say Hola and Auf Wiedersehen!"
- 8) Teacher 8's "favorite movie is 'I Can't Say Fart,' she can stomp the yard, and sings 'Music of the Night' in the hallways."
- 9) Teacher 9 "loves sports, has a wife and four children, and looks to retire shortly."

Answers: 1) Mrs. Culbertson 2) Mrs. Govertsen 3) Mr. Rau 4) Mrs. Kozlowski 5) Mrs. Blume 6) Mr. Jennings 7) Ms. Rodziewicz 8) Ms. Cordes 9) Mr. McCarthy

REMEMBER (it)

As one adventure ends and another one begins, seniors look back to where it all started.

Alyson Taddeucci

On 2/23/92 you were determined to join the world with enthusiasm! Your journey has been a precious ride for us and we are so very proud of all of your accomplishments, from the athletic field to the academic arena. We know that you will continue to be successful in whatever endeavor you pursue in college. Do not follow where the path may lead - go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.

Love Always!
Dad, Mom, Leigh, Megan, Moose and Deuce

Alexis Brunelli

Alexis,
Congratulations! It's amazing how fast the time went by. It seems like just yesterday you were crying at preschool and now you will be going off to college and Mom will be the one crying. We are so proud of you!

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Cassie

Madels!

Madeline Warkins

We're so proud of you...basketball, many friends, getting away with more than Paul, Dana, O.C., Friends, bagels, Ja'mie, guitar, DMB, singing, Sunny, Hrothgar's door, Curley Q, Slurpees, Twilight, Harry Potter and your girls AF and JB. You will thrive in college!

Love you,
Mom, Dad, Paul, Emmy, Nats, Cinders and Ellie

Dear Jessica,

Jessica Baidis

It has been amazing to see you grow from our little "Tweety Bird" to the wonderful student, athlete and young woman that you have become. We're grateful to your teachers and coaches who have helped you along the way. And we're excited for your future-there's nothing you can't do!

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Bri-Bri

Quin Gable

Dear Quin,
You've always grabbed onto life with both hands - in one hand an uncommon maturity and sensibility and in the other hand a  zest for living every day to its fullest. Keep soaking up everything life has to offer and never be afraid to seek out your dreams. They're out there waiting for you.

Love,
Mom & Dad

Rosa Duran

Querida Rosa,
We are so proud of you and who you've become! Tu esfuerzo y dedicación te han guiado a un buen camino! Keep up the great work we know you always strive for, and you'll go far. Recuerda que el estadio Azteca te espera! No worries, we'll always be here for you, so you just keep going. Good luck in your new journey and enjoy it to the fullest. Love always y con mucho cariño.
Familia Duran,
Mili & Benny

SENIOR MEMORIES

BEST TEACHER QUOTATIONS OF THE PAST 4 YEARS:

"Remember, a summary is like a girl's skirt. Long enough to cover everything, but short enough to keep things interesting." -Mr. Kling
"My senior year, I asked this boy to turnabout and he said no. He is now my husband." -Mrs. Arnold "If it's free, eat it." -Mr. Garcia
"Enjoy your youth, kids, 'cause one day you're going to look like me." -Mrs. Kozlowski "No tomen, no fumen, y no hagan babes!" -Profe Junkroski "If you don't know anything about music, you probably are going to fail this class." -Mr. Govertsen
"You gotta get low." -Mr. Albright

"There is really no one moment, a lot of moments have been memorable. From making friends freshman year to prom senior year... it's all been fun."
-Tanya Starkey

"Keep the people you care the most about in your life."
-Taylor Kutilek

"My favorite moment is when my metal homies and I taught music appreciation for a day."
-Mitchell Przybyla

"The best was when my boyfriend sang to me on the bleachers for prom."
-Madeline Warkins

"The funniest thing that has ever happened in one of my classes was when Mr. De Vries did his sexy dance for our advisory class."
-Blake Zumpano

"Don't overschedule senior year, you'll regret it after spring break!"
-Kimberly Busch

"I'll definitely miss sitting in senior hall with my friends and getting ready for the Friday night games."
-Jessica Baidis

"I'll miss Dr. Murphy because his class was fun and I learned an incredible amount of information."
-Vianey Vazquez

"The best advice I've learned has been to never explain yourself. Your friends don't need it and your enemies don't deserve it."
-Alyson Taddeucci

"I learned that I have to work very hard if I want to be someone in the future."
-Martin Correa

"I will miss Mr. Govertsen the most because he's been the biggest inspiration and the best music teacher anyone could ask for."
-John Neuman

"Don't throw batteries in fire."
-Kevin Peterson

"My favorite memory was when Coach Hasty put on her heels and a wig and pretended to be Ginger from the Spice Girls"
-Quin Gable

"I'll miss Mrs. Rusin, because she's the apple of my eye."
-Jorge Carrasco

"My favortie high school moment was when I made a half court shot to beat Wheaton North."
-Jeff Robinson

"My best memory is Mr. Burzynski because of his sexy 'Burzynski Triangle!'"
-Alexis Brunelli

"The funniest thing in my class was when Katy Kuhlman asked Mr. Covino who the little boy standing next to his daughter was, and it ended up being Mr. Covino."
-Kathryn Siembieda

"Stand up for what you believe in and don't be afraid to express yourself."
-William Richards

"Save the drama for your mama."
-Erica Lange

"Value the time you have with your friends and family."
-Stephanie Kelly

*"The things that you do in life
may seem insignificant, but it is important that you do them."
- Mohandas Gandhi*

Appreciation

Putting together a book about a year in the life of a couple of thousand people requires the help of lots of people not on the yearbook staff. Keeping track of all those who have contributed to the creation of this book would be a monumental task. Below are just a few of the names of people to whom we owe thanks. We couldn't have done (IT) without them and the many others not mentioned.

Mr. Pete Helberg of Jostens for guiding us through the new online production software

Mr. Mike Stoner, Mr. Dave Clarke, and Mr. Andy Glowaty for computer and IT support

Mrs. Beth Hunter and Mrs. Beth Schuck for database and other information support

Mrs. Rose Campos for coordination of photographs and work on each season's athletic program

Ms. Kim Wallner for support and leadership

Mrs. Sue Taddeucci for organizing fundraising opportunities and Mrs. Kathleen Baidis and many others for contributing photographs

To the teachers who participated in the "Guess that Teacher" page

Challenge is produced by the Yearbook Production Class at Community High School, District 94, in West Chicago, Illinois.

When I find myself in times of trouble
 Mother Mary comes to me
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be,
 And in my hour of darkness
 She is standing right in front of me
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be,
 Let it be, let it be,
 Whisper words of wisdom, let it be.

And when the broken hearted people
 Living in the world agree,
 There will be an answer, let it be,
 For though they may be parted there is Still a chance that they will see
 There will be an answer, let it be,
 Let it be, let it be, yeah
 There will be an answer, let it be.

And when the night is cloudy,
 There is still a light that shines on me,
 Shine on until tomorrow, let it be,
 I wake up to the sound of music
 Mother Mary comes to me
 Speaking words of wisdom, let it be,
 Let it be, let it be,
 There will be an answer, let it be,
 Let it be, let it be,
 Whisper words of wisdom, let it be.
