C The Centennial Celebration

The Cattitude Continues...

Community High School is not just a school that cares about education and curriculum, it is a school that cares about character and cattitude.

It is a school that cares about camaraderie and cultural diversity.

The school's goal is not only to challenge students academically, but to also challenge students to achieve their best.

Here at We-Go, students learn that the only way to life is trying their best.

With its classy and concerned teachers, coaches, and administration, We-Go easily stands out from the rest.

Each member of the faculty strives to know each student personally.

The administration makes every effort to make students' time here at We-Go time to be cherished, not wasted.

They make an effort to not only make school a rewarding experience, but also an enjoyable one.

In celebration of our hundredth anniversary, we recall the courageous cats of the past century.

For the past one hundred years, children have been crowding these halls and creating memories, memories like the chess team becoming State Champions in 1996 or becoming life long friends with international exchange students.

They have been becoming champions by achieving their goals and have been beginning their journey of the hardest task in life: growing up.

Every year the faces change, the styles change, and their interests change, but the new freshmen always remain confused and clueless.

It is part of the exhilarating experience of high school and by the time those freshmen are seniors, they will have experienced more than they could have imagined and grown more than they thought was possible.

During West Chicago's history as a school, nineteen different presidents have ruled the United States and the U.S. has been involved in sixteen different wars.

Locally, West Chicago's name has been changed three times from Junction and Turner, to Turner-Junction, to West Chicago.

The school has added many additions and changes, but one statement always remains the same: Community High School is a school that cares and strives for excellence.

WE-GO CELEBRATES A CENTURY OF CATS

Buildings often last for over 100 years, but few schools stand as strong as Community High School today. The people filling the hallways and classrooms of We-Go make it the incredible place it is. Graduates find comfort within the walls of the place they recently inhabited as past athletes come to cheer on new generations of competitors.

While the entity of We-Go is 100 years old, high school level classes were offered as far back as the 1870's. There was no four-year program then, and the classes were actually held in three different places before high schoolers settled in the building we occupy today. The first graduation occurred in 1906, and only 12 students filed into Methodist Church to receive their diplomas. In 1924, the Football team won the first IHSA Class championship, defeating Mount Carmel 32-0, the first shutout in state championship history. Present Community High School was born in 1926. In 1928, We-Go had its first uniformed high school band. When 1941-1945 rolled around, World War II had its impact. Students left before graduation to serve their country. In 1960, the administration dedicated "Bishop Gym" in honor of Samuel D. Bishop. The U.S. Department of Education recognized Community High School as a Blue Ribbon School in 1993. Seven years later, the School Band marched in the London Millennium Parade as 1 of 14 bands from U.S. and the only one from Illinois.

Over the years, each member of the school has cherished memories of We-Go. Alumni seem to reappreciate how thankful that they have Community High School to visit. With diversity, drive and dreams, every member of We-Go realizes high school can be a pivotal time during one's life. These four years become a time everyone wishes to remember, even if facts are forgotten within minutes of learning them. The Cats of 2004-2005 made the one hundredth year even more special than the 99 preceding it...

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A WILDCAT

As a Pack, Students Work Together and Form the Dominant Structure of Community High School

From early in the morning until late in the afternoon, students around We-Go run around constantly. A day in the life of a Wildcat starts with the long tedious walk from Kerr McGee in the morning. As they reach Entrance A, students are greeted with the smiling yet worried faces of the security guards as they check each ID with caution.

The idea of Wildcats embarking on a day filled with pop quizzes and confusing math equations is stressful and exhausting. However when Wildcats get tired, a break seems to be the easiest way to catch a much needed breath Lunchtime offers a well deserved break. But don't get too comfortable! Some classes still need to be attended, and hallway conversations are yet to come. Eliza Hamilton ('06) relates to the long school days, "Even though I have a full schedule filled with quizzes, I still find time to have fun because there's so much going on that I never get bored."

After school, the excitement of each Wildcat reaches a personal high. With sports and extracurricular activities, students at We-Go get the opportunity to be involved with groups of students just like them.

After this long day filled with fun classes and exciting conversations, Wildcats can now go home and finish up a day filled with homework that was scheduled into the messy compacted assignment books.

Dancing Through The Decades

Wildcats Celebrate a Century with Game Show

In 2004, West Chicago embarked on an amazing race to Homecoming and it proved to be one for the century. We celebrated the 100th anniversary of the school's history with a whole new twist. Students, teachers, and community members spent the week building excitement for the main events of the weekend by playing games and dressing up to show school spirit.

Students dressed for themed days and played games before school. The teachers also showed school spirit. Mr. Kosek arranged games for the pep assembly and Mr. Philips rode in on his motorcycle with the new mascot on the back. The mascot stepped off the motorcycle and showed his dominance over the Wheaton North Falcon.

The pep club planned several surprises for the football game. A parachutist delivered the school flag to Mr. Highland, despite the rain and poor weather. As the parachutist entered, Mr. Highland turned to show the Cats the flag and the Wildcats answered with a roar of cheers and applause.

Fireworks on the hill lit up the night sky half-time show, and the crowd went wild. "It may have been a wet game, but the fireworks were worth it," said Chris Dolan ('06).

The Homecoming Court also showed up in the rain, dressed to impress. They kept their smiles on and seemed happy to be in their rain soaked clothes.

Homecoming King Rocco Clark and his Queen Emily Gehrke looked stunning as they led the Wildcats into a Homecoming night to remember. The dance was held in Bishop Gym for the first time, and the results were a hit. "There was more space and I did not feel so heated," said Jessica Spaniol ('06).

The week to celebrate the centennial was a hit. The Powder Puff game went as planned, the Seniors celebrated their victory over the Juniors, and the dance capped off a great 100th birthday for Community High School.

When the Parade Passes By...

Clubs and Teams Share Spirit During the Centennial Parade

On Friday, October 1st, citizens of West Chicago and students from Gary Elementary, West Chicago Middle School, and Community High School lined the streets in hopes of catching a glimpse of the acclaimed Centennial Homecoming parade. Released from classes early, the younger students buzzed with the excitement of being able to take part in the Homecoming festivities. The cheering crowds eagerly awaited the free candy being thrown off the floats of various clubs and sports representing CHS. The Marching Band led the hour-long parade, providing musical entertainment. Five convertibles trailed the band, holding the Homecoming court. The many floats followed, carrying members of the girls' swimming and diving, girls' volleyball, boys' baseball, and other teams. The sophomores won the competition for best float with their "The Amazing Race" display. Jeff Cisowski, President of Student Council, said, "The Centennial parade was a success due to the hard work of Student Council and the other clubs. What a great 100th birthday for Community High School!" The most-attended parade in We-Go's 100 years did a successful job of pumping up the crowd and bringing the community together.

Students Report to the Dance Floor to Celebrate Homecoming

1,440 blue and white balloons, 900 feet of rope lights, and eight rolls of streamers decorated Bishop Gym on the evening of the 2004 Homecoming Dance. As 1,100 students glided into the gym, each captured the energy bustling through the crowd. The girls scanned the gym hoping their dress was the only of its kind, while their dates straightened their ties for pictures. As the large crowd danced the night away, they recognized that this moment was one to be cherished forever.

Miscellaneous pieces from class floats portraying the theme of "Game Shows" adorned the dance floor. Rocking the crowd with music like Usher's "Yeah," the KISS FM DJ stopped during "Hot in Herre," and all eyes admired the Court, led by King Rocco Clark and Queen Emily Gehrke. As the clock struck ten, students grieved the end of the dance. Mrs. Maloney, Student Council advisor, said, "The students thoroughly enjoyed themselves. They were well behaved, appropriate, and looked very classy." Couples exited with memories of Community High School's 100th Homecoming that will last a lifetime.

WHAT IF
MR. HIGHLAND WAS NOT OUR PRINCIPAL?

Jenni Robertson '05

“What if Mr. Highland wasn't our principal?” “What if Lincoln School was never taken down?” “What if West Chicago had a parking garage for students?” These commonly asked questions and many other inquiries meander through the minds of students more frequently than many Wildcats could ever admit. Let's face it...we all wonder what would happen if the places, people, classes, and situations around us would change.

In search of the answers to these questions, the Challenge staff surveyed the inquiring minds of Community High School to determine how Wildcats would respond to these queries. While some of the responses were quite comical, others exhibited a more serious side.

The events that have helped mold our school into what it is, what people have become, and how time has brought change, all make us who we are today. Can you imagine what life would be like if our school was not so diverse? As Mr. Highland said, “We have a tremendous advantage. The students know what the real world is like. It reflects the realities of life and world issues. Our students are better prepared and have such a profound strength.”

Our day-to-day choices affect the outcome of our future. We challenge our ideas and beliefs day after day to see if they can withstand the test of time. These answers have been collected and tabulated, and the most common answers were selected. As we ask the question What if?, see where your life would be and what your future may have held if history had played out differently.

Seniority

It's what every Freshman strives for, every Sophomore waits for,
every Junior longs for,
and every Senior lives for.

After four long but memorable years at Community High School, the Class of 2005 bathed in the bliss of being the biggest and the best. Once they took possession of Senior Hall, the oldest students of the school began their journey toward commencement. More importantly, the hundredth graduating class surpassed even their own expectations, making their final year superior to their previous three.

"Being a senior was definitely as amazing as everyone made it out to be. Maybe it was just nice to be free of junior year stress or maybe college being so near brought excitement... Either way I'll never forget it," said Senior Brianne Nadolny. From having the most points over the course of Homecoming Week to defeat the other classes until throwing their caps at graduation, the senior Wildcats proved impressive.

The Class of 2005 never failed to astound. Fit females defended their title as Powder Puff champions, the student council president won the VFW scholarship for the fourth year in a row, soccer-playing seniors helped bring their team to victory, and politics-loving leaders passed imaginary legislation. Additionally, their high school career will always be linked to September 11, 2001. "None of us will forget where we were on that tragic day—we are the last class leaving the school that will be able to tell their children that we were sitting in our high school classroom when the planes hit," said Senior Ryan Woodbury. With a new outlook, the seniors represent a new generation of Americans. Undoubtedly, Class of 2005 will never overlook the high school experience they gained here...

Counting The Classes...

Juniors Calculate the Intensity of Being Upperclassmen

Although the third year of high school has always been the most challenging academic year, the members of the Class of 2006 found the silver lining. Their days began trudging to school from Kerr McGee, jealously eyeing the Senior Parking Lot. They roamed the halls with higher status, finally being called upperclassmen. And, of course, they helped the Seniors run the SQUAD, the students' very own group of super-fans. "My favorite part of Junior year was going to the games, dressing up with the SQUAD, and eating at Steak n' Shake afterwards," said Eric Wiechert, describing many Juniors' Friday night rituals.

All work and no play never sits well with the students, and the Juniors jumped into high gear, preparing for the year's prime event: Prom. Held at the Carlisle in Lombard, students entered on the red carpet feeling like celebrities at We-Go to Hollywood. As they dined, a DJ from Show On The Road took requests, guaranteeing a night of hit music. "Our Prom Committee was really on top of things. Prom can get sloppy when things are rushed, but we took our time, and it resulted in one of the best Prom We-Go has ever seen," said Junior Advisor Mr. Lasky. By the end of the evening, everything the Juniors had worked for between meetings and fundraisers finally paid off.

Counting The Adventures

Sophomores Prepare for Challenges

With the memories of Freshman year still lingering, Sophomores could finally say that they belonged. "I don't feel as lost as I did last year," Angie Diaz said. Feeling comfortable with the school, Sophomores were able to count their adventures of their second year of high school. "Sophomore year gives you a chance to be involved in more activities. This year I was able to join Poms and the Squad," said Ashley Richards. Members of the class of 2007 were given the chance to join extracurricular activities not available to Freshmen.

New classes and activities are fun and exciting, but it is not what Sophomores looked forward to the most. Finally, after 16 years of waiting, Sophomores received their tickets to freedom...their licenses. Out on the road, students were independent and on their own, no longer dependant upon their parents. Phi-Vu Nguyen said, "The only thing I don't like [about driving] is having to pay for gas!" With freedom comes responsibility, and paying for gas is one of them.

The Sophomore Student Council sold Breast Cancer Bracelets as a fundraiser. Not only did part of the proceeds go to the graduating Class of 2007, part of the donations also went to finding a cure for Breast Cancer. Because the bracelets were such a success, the Sophomore class decided to raise more money for the Student Council through Live Strong Bracelets. The profits made from the bracelets helps to find a cure for cancer through an organization started by Bicyclist Lance Armstrong.

Counting New Friends

The Class of '08 Dives into a New Routine

The school year began as any other would. Sophomores greeted their friends with high fives, Juniors walked through the halls with their heads up high, and Seniors sprawled out in Senior Hall. But for the freshmen, it was the nervous excitement of a new beginning.

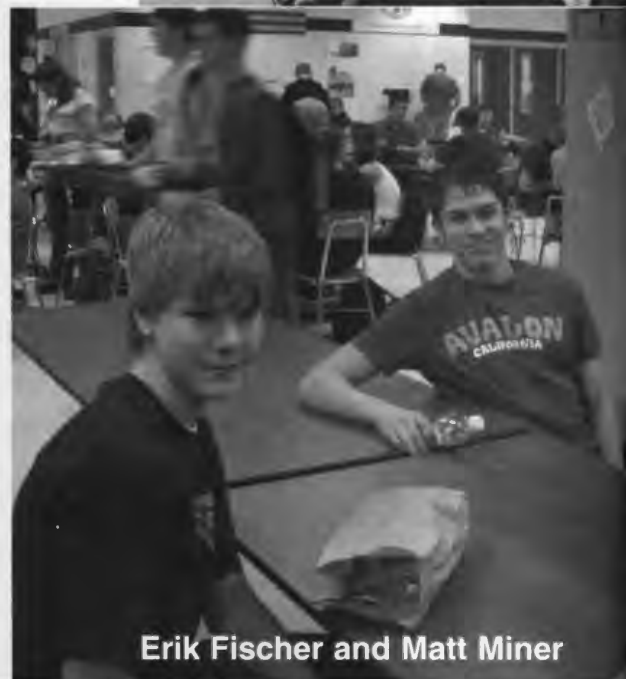

The first day might have seemed scary with so many people and so much clutter and chaos around Commons, but a familiar smiling face of a best friend waiting down the hall cleared up the crowd and comfort settled in. With 496 freshmen, there was always the excitement of meeting new friends.

Many Freshmen made new friends by becoming involved in extracurricular activities. Ms. Bellis, Freshman class advisor, said, "All the Freshmen were really, really enthusiastic about this year and getting involved with everyone in the community of West Chicago High School." From their first Homecoming through their first final exams, Freshmen kept up the Wildcat spirit.

Counting the Students...

Faculty Adds Flare To The We-Go Family

From first-year teachers learning how to handle teenage antics to janitors singing in the variety show, the term 'Wildcat' incorporates more than the students and athletes themselves. The incredible combination of teachers, coaches, administrators, counselors and the maintenance staff truly serve as the backbone of We-Go. Often forgotten, these adults impact the lives of students in a way peers and classmates cannot.

The faculty never fails at working hard to be a positive influence on the students. Finally, they were rewarded for their efforts with an award presented by the Student Council. Math Teacher Mrs. Mathews was first presented the Tireless Teacher Award, a tire rotated between the teachers monthly.

As most students recognize, the lessons taught in the classroom have a profound effect on their lives. "The four years of high school fly by so fast that trying to cram only facts into these kids won't work. They will remember the people and the experience more than problems inside of a math book," said Math Teacher Mr. Gimre.

Character

A Few Good Cats Prove Integrity Truly Counts

Every high school is filled with students who excel on the playing field and in the classroom. But achievements cannot be measured with grade point averages, class rankings, or athletic statistics. Individuality shines through our everyday actions and personalities and defines us as unique people. When we come together, our positive attributes collide to create an amazing atmosphere for learning, maturing, and experiencing the realistic aspects of life.

Year after year, students who contribute to the character of the school are selected to be profiled. These people are not frequently recognized for their efforts, but deserve acknowledgement. Suggestions for the chosen individuals come from fellow students, teachers, and administrators who recognize the achievements of these students. To be profiled on these pages, a student must show the commitment, courage, and integrity that transform an ordinary Wildcat into a West Chicago Wildcat. These students offer vital contributions to the success of the school's community.

Each student in our school is more than just another face in the crowd. It is difficult to narrow down the 2,200 students who exemplify the most character to eight, but the profiles below certainly represent the best of the best. These are definitely not your average cats!

-Kelly Wdowiarz & Danielle Romano

High School
unlike any of the schools
in the area.

We have good attitudes, and maintain a high

Sophomore Katrina Means strives to be her own person. She has always been an exceptional student and is involved in as many activities as she can be. In the beginning of her freshman year, Katrina decided to take charge of the student body, and became President of the class of 2007. Her classmates show such great faith in her decisions that she was re-elected again the fall of her sophomore year. Katrina has many ideas for her class, such as the wristband fundraiser. The sophomores not only profited by selling the pink breast cancer bracelets, but also encouraged the school to support cancer survivors. Along with her outrageous profits, Katrina also brought her class to victory in the Homecoming float building contest.

Katrina is also very dedicated to athletics. She plays volleyball and softball for the Lady Wildcats and also participates in those sports for other organizations outside of school. Fellow teammate Stephanie Hish ('07) said, "Whenever I talk to Katrina, she makes me laugh. Even if it's the stupidest thing, she always manages to make an inside joke about it." With such a great personality, it is no wonder she can fit in easily with anyone. "I like to meet new people and make new friends. It's what makes up your high school life," Katrina said. Katrina hopes to maintain her position as class president, and participate in the same sports for years to come. Her leadership skills and various capabilities will allow her to go anywhere as a Wildcat.

Jessie

For Senior Jessie Hernandez, soccer is more than a sport: it's his life. Jessie fell in love with soccer after watching games on television with his family and began playing at the age four.

Joining the High School soccer team his sophomore year, he made the Varsity Level right away. He was able to learn from his teammates but also contribute some skillful moves as well.

The summer before his senior year, Jessie traveled to a town in Mexico called Morelia. He tried out for one of the best Mexican soccer teams, Monarcas de Morelia. Jessie said, "I was really nervous because I did not know what the tryouts would be like. It was hard not showing how anxious I really was." Jessie returned to Community High School before he knew the results of his tryouts. His classmates are extremely proud of his efforts. "It is a great honor to have one of our students try out for an international soccer team," said Vicky Lopez ('05).

Jessie returned ready to play and with more than ever before. His Wildcat Pride and determination has brought great success to the high school.

Adi

Being involved as a freshman can be very stressful, especially because of the new high school environment. This was no problem for Adi Huerta, she is right in with her advanced athletic and academic abilities. Her talent in running was very important to the team, and she occasionally ran at the Varsity Cross Country level.

Besides running, Adi is also involved in Student Council and serves as president of her class. Student Council Advisor Mrs. Maloney stated, "Not only is Adi a talented, outgoing individual, she is an outstanding and organized leader. She leads silently as well as by example and is the epitome of what a student-athlete should be."

Outside of school, Adi coaches cheerleading in the West Chicago Park District. With that experience, she plans to join the cheerleading squad at the school next year. "I'm looking forward to pepping up the players and the fans," said Adi.

Adi plans to join as many activities as she can. She thinks it's a great way to better the school and make new friends.

Whether Adi is taking a hip-hop dance class at the park district or studying hard, she positively represents Community High School.

Junior Tom Wood's got it all; he's got brains, prestigious musical talent, and an animated personality. While in middle school, Tom excelled in math and completed every course available. During his seventh and eighth grade years, he continued his mathematical education at the College of DuPage every Tuesday night. Starting high school, Tom began with advanced classes and completed AP Calculus at the end of his sophomore year.

Math isn't the only subject that has caught Tom's attention. He studied German and Spanish, and even participated in the foreign exchange program last year and traveled to Germany. Tom said, "The trip gave me a sense of awe. It was a totally different culture."

Tom's passion for music shines through in his playing. He's a cherished member of the drum line and has been playing for eight years. Along with the drums, Tom is gifted at playing the piano.

Whether Tom is solving a math problem or strutting his stuff during halftime, Tom is always smiling. His outgoing personality excites everyone around him. There's no telling where We-Go would be without Tom Wood!

Tom

Maria

Of all the amazing life stories, Maria Del Carmen Martinez Sosa has quite an inspiring one. Maria moved to West Chicago from Oaxaca, Mexico. Although Maria is 17, she's only a sophomore. Upon her arrival from Mexico, she decided that she wanted four years of high school and began studies in America as a freshman, despite her age. In Oaxaca, Maria's people speak the language Zapoteco, and at home, Maria was involved in a family musical group. "I am very proud of my music, and my goal is to continue playing and singing throughout my life," said Maria.

At first, Maria felt very out of place because American customs are very different from Mexican customs. She had to assimilate, but she has not lost her native culture. She still speaks Zapoteco with her brother and enjoys authentic Mexican foods.

Mr. Poulterer, an ESL teacher, has taken notice of Maria's dedication. "Maria portrays the hardships that a lot of students have to go through to get the education they want," said Poulterer. Maria has the will to learn and is a wonderful example of hard work and commitment.

Ashley

Ashley Rawls thinks big but sees the world from a smaller view. This 17-year-old senior spends her time capturing her life through photography. She loves to photograph nature, where she notes everything from the greatest trees to the smallest flowers.

Ashley enjoys poetry, but isn't limited to that type of literature. She is the proud founder of the CHS Book Club and is inspired by education. "I want to learn things to make a really good change in the world," Ashley says.

In the spring, Ashley plays on the Varsity Badminton team. She's played for four years and loves every second of it. Being part of a team gives Ashley a sense of belonging, and she especially enjoys the team aspect of the sport. She also marches in the band playing either the flute or the piccolo.

Positive attitudes are key for achieving greatness. Ashley doesn't look down on her failures. She looks at them as a lesson to be learned and an opportunity to better herself. Besides, Ashley knows it's always better to attempt than to give up.

Ashley has big hopes for the future, ready and willing to work for a cause. Look out world, here comes Ashley Rawls!

Douglas Selby is not an average freshman student. Standing at the top of his class, Douglas pushes himself beyond normal expectations to become the best student that he can be. Perhaps Douglas's motivation for education stems from his mother's career as a teacher. English Teacher Mr. Malinsky noticed Douglas's efforts. He said, "Douglas demonstrates the capability and desire to understand and learn as much as he can."

Douglas is also a member of the math team and a representative of the freshman class in Student Council. In his free time, he enjoys playing the piano and reading science fiction novels. He is very skillful at mastering video games.

Outstandingly, Douglas manages to incorporate enthusiasm and persistence into each of his activities. He immerses himself into every aspect of his life, truly showing passion for what he enjoys.

Douglas

Amanda

"Relaxation" is an unknown word to Junior Amanda Bass. Her schedule is constantly filled with school work and extra curricular activities, including the math team. Amanda said, "I enjoy the challenges math team brings and how there's always a definite answer to be uncovered." Her participation in the math team has greatly contributed to her steady 4.0 grade point average and her assistant teaching for Mrs. Matthews. Following her passion for education, Amanda also finds time to tutor students in Spanish and Math.

Amanda's freshman and sophomore year were spent focusing on her basketball skills. Although she chose not to play for the school junior year, she still plays outside of school. Amanda is a faithful member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The FCA is a student bible study that meets once a week. At the meetings, they discuss how to play sports while still practicing Christian values.

Because of Amanda's exemplary character, she was asked to become a member of the Character Counts program. Looking at the many sides of Amanda Bass, she proves to be a "roaring" role model.

Capturing the Moments

Newspaper Staff Chronicles All the News That's Fit to Print

The Wildcat Chronicle staff was never heard complaining about a lack of material on which to write during the school year. With encouragement and help from advisor Laura Kuehn, the Chronicle rose to new heights by keeping the We-Go students and staff informed about current activities and clubs around the school. One major topic covered by the Chronicle involved the election between George W. Bush and John Kerry. Editor-in-Chief John Jennings and Graphics Editor C.J. Hinojosa found plenty of material to debate. Important and exciting school events were also covered thoroughly by the staff. For instance, the Turkey Time article in the third issue of the Chronicle, advertised the success of students and staff at We-Go contributing for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which in the end totaled about three thousand dollars. The staff's journalistic creativity kept students wishing more issues of the Chronicle were distributed every month.

Being on a staff can sometimes be difficult, especially when deadlines approach. Luckily, all members appreciate each other's help and guidance. The Chronicle serves as a great way to get involved with the high school. Brittany Blanchard ('06), a reporter, said, "Being on the Chronicle staff was incredible, because being part of a team and working together to produce a professional paper with lots of energy and substance is a fantastic feeling." Keeping up with the current school activities can be tough, but students involved in the Chronicle are always ready and willing to tackle a challenge.

Seeing Is Believing...

Insightful and Inspirational Students Become Published

Gifted Wildcats hide behind every corner of the school. Fortunately, their abilities surface the day they are published—the day the Mind's Eye Literary Magazine is distributed. Lit Mag has displayed the capabilities of artists, poets and writers of We-Go for over 10 years. Since 1997, Mrs. Cobbett has directed and organized the publication of the magazine, but it existed before then. "We spend the first semester fundraising and making tee-shirts to publicize and encourage people to submit their work," said Mrs. Cobbett. The 2005 members admitted that reviewing submissions and choosing which work to publish were a few of the difficulties. "The most difficult part of the magazine is fitting every poem and piece of art on the pages, but it's all worth it when the magazine is published and you get to see your work!" said Cristina Sarnelli ('07).

Once named "A Separate Piece," the Mind's Eye Literary Magazine consists of only fifty accepted works of the various one hundred and fifty pieces offered. "It's really just a way for these accomplished and skilled students to share their talents with everyone. Putting their work into a publication gives them the recognition they deserve," said Mrs. Cobbett. Whether whipping paintbrushes across canvas or writing poetry furiously, We-Go's best and brightest constantly find new ways to impress others. Being the only published product of students aside from Yearbook and the Chronicle, more students want to become a part of the experience. Undoubtedly, the best creations are a product of inspiration, and the Literary Magazine truly motivates more students to express their gifts.

Stepping Up To The Challenge...

Students Look into the Past as They Record a Year's Worth of History

The yearbook staff documented a year's worth of memories into a book created by the students for the students. At the same time, the staff members began to act like a family as they struggled to meet deadlines and record the history of the year. Editors-in-Chief Lilli Cassidy ('05), Maricarmen Osorio ('05), and Erin Gallimore ('05) along with Advisor Ms. Santella supervised the pages, making sure that every activity and sport in the school has been covered. The 23 staff members, three editors, and one teacher wrote the stories and designed the layouts.

The Centennial inspired the staff to make this book unlike any other. Staff members chose a unique theme, the letter C, to represent everything the high school symbolizes, including community, culture, and celebration. The C also means 100 in Roman numerals and commemorates the 100th birthday of the school.

The progress of the yearbook staff is astonishing considering they document so much in such a little amount of time. "We worked hard to finish this book, and we are very proud of the job we did," said Kayla Kramer ('06).

Civil Discourse

Seniors Prove It's Better To Be Seen And Heard

Students often know little about the topic of politics, and sometimes they ignore it all together. Emotions and feelings are so involved with the subject of government that it frequently creates a barrier in conversations. We-Go seniors deal with political issues in a different manner. Through the school's American Government class, seniors are taught the basics of politics and gain familiarity with issues that affect their lives. Bills like those regarding doctor-assisted suicide, abortion and civil unions were presented throughout the government simulation. However, few bills made it through the inspection of Chief Executive Jeff Cisowski, a Republican.

The most controversial issues involved gay rights. "Gay rights, hands down, was most controversial on many levels. It was a topic that was discussed in many bills, including adoption by homosexual couples," said Government Teacher Mr. Healy. Ms. Daneels, Ms. Laimins and Mr. Healy all inspired their students to form opinions, speak their mind and become more effective citizens. Despite the heated arguments, occasional verbal abuse and rare instances of losing friends because of different views, most seniors enjoy the class. Brad Murison ('05) even described the whole event as "a blast." Whether felt to be frustrating or unproblematic, students always consider American Government a rewarding and memorable experience.

Politically Correct

Democracy is not a Spectator Sport

Ever had an opinion about politics and found that no one was willing to listen? Well, that is exactly why JSA exists. JSA stands for Junior Statesmen of America. It is an organization in which students are free to discuss their opinions, and to establish their beliefs in politics. During the meetings, students debate and discuss current events. Some of the current events that JSA has discussed include stem cell research, gay rights, reforming the electoral college, the presidential election, the No Child Left Behind policy, Constitutional abuses, the economy, and the war in Iraq. The goals of JSA include promoting civil discourse and increasing interest in the political process.

Mr. Healy and Mrs. Laimins serve as advisers for JSA. Senior Meghan Dalton works as the JSA president for this organization that inspires her classmates to view politics as an active process. "You get to talk politics with other kids who understand it. Plus, sometimes there is a chance to yell at people," said Freshman Mike Dalton.

Scholastic Bowl Rolls Over The Competition

Every year a group of talented students spend countless hours practicing for academic competitions. These students make up the Scholastic Bowl team, and they compete with other schools without footballs or basketballs. They use their knowledge and are tested in different academic areas such as mathematics, science, industrial arts, art, literature, and social studies. At the meets, an appointed announcer quizzes the teams on what they know and the team who answers correctly receives a point. The team with the most points continues to the next round.

The 2005 team's season performance exceeded previous years by far. Jeff Burgess ('05) and Chris Carrington ('05) were both recognized as all-conference players at the conference tournament and outstandingly, the team earned 3rd place in the regional competition.

Scholastic Bowl is an extremely challenging activity, and as member Ismail Hassan ('06) said, "Academic facts are always useful and Scholastic Bowl is a great way to enrich someone's knowledge."

“I joined Horticulture Club because it sounded like a fun opportunity and experience.”

-Katie Birkey ('06)

Horticulture Club brightens our community one plant at a time. The students express their passion for plants with each project they take on. They spread their influence throughout the community by showing people what a difference it makes to nature. “Although we plant in small areas when the plants blossom they will make a big change in our community,” Mrs. Rubino, who along with Mrs. Stieglitz advises Horticulture Club. They planted pink tulips on the south side of the school as a dedication to those who suffer or have suffered from breast cancer. The fifteen members, including President Kathia Rubio, Secretary Teresa Rubio, and Treasurer Katie Birkey, certainly have a green thumb to be able to work with skills like planting and landscaping.

Horticulture Club received a $2,500 grant from the Natural Plant Landscaping to place plants on the west side of the school. These plants are native to Illinois and are the same plants that grew here 500 to 1,000 years ago.

During the year, the members changed the decorations in the Horticulture display case according to the events going on during that time. During Homecoming, members showed their Wildcat pride to the rest of the community by putting their creativity towards their window decorations in town. Members also sold orchids to the student body on Mother's Day and flower candies to help raise money for the club.

BTI Students Jump into the Future

BTI Students include: Adriana Perez, Adam Mosley, Diana Munoz, Mayra Vazquez, Mrs. Peath, Amit Patel, Ramiro Juarez, Chris Jelen, Cecilia Proa, Juan Robles, Ashley Hund, Luis Hernandez, Jessica Robertson, and Oscar Vega.

-Adrienne Mertes ('06)

Business Technical Internship (BTI) is a class that students can take in school that prepares them to join the workforce. BTI consists of 38 Juniors and Seniors. Students take this class as a replacement for Consumer Education or Economics. Students are also encouraged to sign up for other business-related classes, such as Accounting, Business Law and Marketing. In their classes, they compare insurance offers and keep portfolios that hold their applications and resumes. They learn to do their own taxes. After students are assisted in finding a job in the field of their choice, they are given off-campus privileges for the end of their day to go to work.

BTI teaches students how to interact with co-workers and how to see what the real meaning of work is. The students receive a total of two credits, one for taking the class and one for working at their job. Being a part of BTI is a commitment, and students face a great deal of obstacles while participating in BTI. Mrs. Streicher, BTI Advisor, said “Students have to learn how to balance friends, school, and work. They can't go out with their friends on Friday without consulting their employer first.”

You Think You Know.... Seminar Considers the Effect of Advertisements But You Have No Idea

Kari Dimas ('05), Tania Dorsey ('05), and Christina Mazzone ('05)

The students in Modern Media, an English seminar taught by Mr. Turnbaugh, attempted to determine how much influence the media has on different aspects of American culture such as gender, violence, power and politics. One of the students' project focused on political advertisements. In their project, Rocco Clark ('05) and Jamon Siefert ('05) depicted themselves as candidates to demonstrate how political figures promote themselves.

Students also created other forms of media such as covers of magazines and advertisements promoting food and pop bands. Tim Valaski ('05) designed a magazine cover to show how magazines can influence people to buy them by using fear, alienation, romance, and shame in headlines. He entitled his magazine "Stretch" and featured himself stretching the skin on his face. He also included stories such as: "Survivor Story: How I Used My Skin as a Parachute" and "Does Your Skin Stretch Enough? Exercises to Pull Even Farther."

Conquering the Challenge

We-Go's Diverse Student Body Leads Students To Success

Community High School is a very diverse environment. The students and staff members who attend We-Go have descended from many parts of the world. This diversity makes the school rich in culture, race, knowledge, and ethnic background.

Our school knows that we live in a society where people from all over the world arrive to seek a better future. Realizing this truth, CHS runs a successful Welcome Center, where new students from foreign countries learn the complicated pathway through the American school system. They learn about the ordinary aspects of a high school day such as schedules, lunch periods, academic expectations, and they meet people, who like themselves seek a better future.

Our diverse school body consists of students from many different countries around the world such as Mexico, Colombia, India, Vietnam, and many other countries. Making up more than 40 percent of the student body, Hispanics constitute the largest portion of our student population.

We-Go's bilingual program is run by Norman Kane and consists of 25 teachers and 250 students. The bilingual program is designed to help the transition of second language students from classes in their native language to classes in English. The three steps to the transitioning process involve teaching students English, content, and proper terminology needed for each content. "Bilingual students are kids I like to teach, because I know we make a difference in their lives," stated Mr. Arndt, bilingual program staff teacher.

Staff members are always trying to improve the program to meet the needs of their students. Staff members, Ms. Daneels and Mr. Vega, teach the Sheltered Government class. Sheltered Government is a class equivalent to Government. It is taught in modified English for the purpose of allowing better comprehension so that the bilingual students become more familiar with our government system and the way it works.

La Diversidad de We-Go Lleva Los Estudiantes al Exito!

Agradecimiento.

Un grupo de niños del el grado sexto, septimo y octavo cantan canciones navideñas a estudiantes de la high school para dar gracias por las donaciones.

Community High es un ambiente muy diverso. Los estudiantes y los miembros del personal que atienden We-Go han descendido de muchas partes del mundo. Esta diversidad enriquece de la escuela en cultura, raza, conocimiento, y fondo étnico.

Nuestra escuela sabe que vivimos en una sociedad donde la gente de todas partes del mundo llega para buscar un futuro mejor. Realizando esta verdad, CHS funciona un centro agradable acertado, Welcome Center, donde los nuevos estudiantes de países extranjeros aprenden del camino complicado a través del sistema escolar americano. Aprenden de los aspectos ordinarios de un día de escuela tales como: el horario, los períodos del almuerzo, y las expectativas académicas, y conocen a nuevos estudiantes, que como ellos mismos buscan un futuro mejor.

La diversidad de la escuela consiste en estudiantes de muchos diversos países alrededor del mundo como México, Colombia, India, Vietnam, y muchos otros países. Los hispanos constituyen la porción más grande de nuestra escuela con más de 40 por ciento de estudiantes extranjeros.

El programa bilingüe está funcionado por Norman Kane y consiste en 25 profesores y 250 estudiantes. El programa bilingüe está diseñado para ayudar a la transición de los estudiantes de clases en español a las clases en inglés.

Los tres pasos para ayudar a la transición son enseñar el idioma de inglés, el contenido, y la terminología apropiada necesitada para cada contenido. «Los estudiantes bilingües son niños al cual tengo gusto de enseñar, porque sé que hacemos una diferencia en sus vidas,» dijo el Sr. Arndt, profesor bilingüe.

Los miembros del programa están intentando siempre mejorar el programa para resolver las necesidades de sus estudiantes.

Los miembros, Ms. Daneels y Mr. Vega, enseña Sheltered Government. Sheltered Government es una clase equivalente a la clase de gobierno. Se enseña en inglés modificado con el fin de permitir una comprensión mejor de modo que los estudiantes bilingües hagan más familiares con nuestro sistema del gobierno y la manera que trabaja.

Math Team Bows To The Left Brain

Mrs. Mallon, one of the math team advisors, types questions for the next meet.

Math team differs from other clubs because they focus on academics rather than athletics. Although there are no team captains, meets and practices run smoothly. The night before a competition the whole team, all forty members, go to a ritual dinner at Portillos to clear their minds off the next day's events. On the day of the meet, they gather to prepare themselves for the grueling competition. At the actual competition they take individual tests, where they are judged. The points for all the math team members combined, which results in the score for the school. The school that has the most points wins the competition and moves on to the next level.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, the math team meets to practice with the topic of the next meet. They have to study questions about different areas in math from algebra to calculus. It is part of the process of readying for the next meet. During the school year, the We-Go Math team competed in the North Suburban Math League regionals, state and DVC. "I think that math team allows kids to use academic skills competitively," Mr. Hayes, another math team advisor said. To be a good member of math team student has to prove his or her dedication, academic skill, and willingness to learn outside of school.

Chess Team Conquers the Opposition

They work hard to do their role. They meet together after school every Tuesday to practice moving their pieces. Silence fills the air as students quietly try to conquer their opponents. The coach, Joe Splinter, observes the students and teaches them better skills. They have gone to the state championship. Who are they?

They are the Chess Team, coached by Mr. Splinter. "I started teaching for individual small groups, and then I went to Benjamin Franklin School and coached. I enjoy teaching chess to kids and watching them improve," said Splinter. He teaches the chess players how to master taking their opponents' kings and chess pieces away. "The object of the game is to checkmate, improve, and win 100% of the games," Splinter said.

James Burke, ('06), has been playing chess since he was eight and enjoys playing it as a hobby. "I started playing chess with my dad, he taught me," Burke said. Another chess player, Matt Bolen, attends every chess practice and participates in every tournament. "It's fun! I saw it on TV a year ago and it looked cool, so I tried it," he said. The members of the Chess Team work very hard to keep up their championship title every year. The Community High School Chess Team Players have become Chess Masters.

Friends Forever

Best Buddies Club Unites Strangers and Makes Them Friends

Since 1989, Best Buddies has been an organization that reaches out to a variety of students from all different walks of life. For the third year in a row Community High School's Best Buddies members have been lighting up the faces of everyone with their spirit and bright smiles. Best Buddies is a club that matches up special needs students at our school with other students. Best Buddies participate in many exciting activities. During the Holiday season the club creates arts and crafts and has Boys and Girls day, which is filled with fingernail painting for girls and a game of cards for boys. "My buddy is Tilia and it's fun to hang out. We go shopping and to see the movies. I think it's super good to have a best buddy." said Paige Boudreau ('07)

Mr. Petmezas is the advisor and has dedicated his time to helping the Best Buddies club. He encourages his students to be members of Best Buddies. "This gives them an opportunity to experience what all other high school students do on a day to day basis." Fifteen of Mr. Petmezas' students belong to Best Buddies, and he hopes that more will join. Best Buddies is a national organization that has been making thousands of students just like Mr. P's enjoy high school around the world. By 2010 they hope to be operating in all 50 states, establish programs in 50 countries, and have 500,000 participants worldwide.

Skills USA Members Earn Record Number of Medals

Jenna Bonie ('07)

With skills in vocational areas ranging from photography to interior design, students in Skills USA traveled to Springfield in April 2005 in hopes of being recognized for their talents, and recognized they were.

More than 50 students participated in Skills USA this year, and 39 went to Springfield to compete. Of these 39 students who competed, 12 students earned medals for their accomplishments at the annual state competition.

"The fact being that we won more awards than ever before was such an accomplishment for not just the students but for the teachers and for the club. We are so very proud," said Mr. Junkroski.

Students said that they would have never been able to succeed if it hadn't been for teachers like Mrs. Kozlowski, Mr. Junkroski, Mr. Molina, Mr. Bardey and Mrs. Clifford who led them in the right direction. Members Use Their Skills To Succeed In Business

The Future Business Leaders of America begin students on a journey towards successful careers in business. With the hard work of the 50 FBLA members, they were able to organize a variety of community service projects, including Adopt A Family, Frosty Fest and The Variety Show. The organization throughout the years has helped students connect with students from other schools and learn skills necessary to be successful in a business environment. "What we have learned is how to speak in front of large groups of people, as well as networking with other adults and high schoolers," said President of FBLA Heidi Colliander ('05).

With these business skills, the FBLA members felt prepared and excited to go to the Northern Area Conference in February. Those who qualified from Northern Area then headed to the state conference in Decatur, Illinois. The FBLA members enjoyed going to state and were excited about going to nationals. Nationals took place during the summer in Orlando, Florida. With help from advisors Mrs. Wirth and Ms. Blume, these students have gone far in accomplishing their goals. "I expect that the members of FBLA take this organization seriously, show pride and have fun," said Mrs. Wirth. Now business will be on their list of careers!

Helping Hands

Students Create Camaraderie When They Help Other Students

Lending a hand is more than just a cliché for We-Go's Peer Helpers. The Peer Helpers are a group of dedicated students that help and mentor incoming freshmen become more comfortable in their new surroundings at Community High School. As a result, the freshmen speak their minds about problems and concerns that arise due to high school life. The trusting connection between the freshmen and Peer Helpers lead to a more successful transition for the ninth graders involved in the program.

As a special treat, the Peer Helpers set up group sessions every Friday. During the meetings, the students are encouraged to talk about classes, friends, clubs, and personal issues. The Peer Helpers usually surprise the freshmen with food and candy during each group session. After talking about various topics, the Peer Helpers create games for the students. These games give students a chance to have fun, relax, and get their mind off the stressful high school day.

"My favorite part about the Peer Helping program is the freedom of being able to plan what we want to talk about with the group. It's fun for me to meet new people, and I enjoy knowing that I have helped make these students' first year of high school a more pleasant one," said Peer Helper Lauren Buscemi (06).

Key Club Opens the Door to the Community

Key Club is not a club where students sit and make keys like many believe. It is a community service organization affiliated with the adult community service association, the Kiwanas Club. The two help one another to give back to the community by collecting toys for needy children and organizing blood drives. The only requirement for students to join is that they must be interested in giving back and want to participate in various activities that involve working with others. According to Mr. Rau, "People need the experience of doing something for someone else because it's good to do."

Ambassadors Lead By Example

Ambassadors are not your ordinary students; they are a group of exceptional scholars selected by teachers who believe they are great leaders in their classes. These high schoolers generally are involved in many activities and shine with leadership qualities. Throughout the year, ambassadors are present for almost all events involving alumni, new students and parents. Sponsor Mr. McCarthy said, "They represent our school in a positive manner. We feel it [creates] a good student perception in the community." With 30 exceptional students, there is hardly enough time to hold a meeting.

Snowball Helps Students Make the Right Decisions

Snowball 2004

Giving Clown Activity

Operation Snowball is an organization that helps teens in our school make the right decisions. Members involved in Snowball pledge to seek out youth willing to join together in the struggle for maturity. In this program, teens share the job of caring for others as individuals and as friends. Snowball mainly helps teens make the right choice when it comes to drugs and drinking alcohol. George Petmezas, a Snowball advisor, said, "Everyone has a different story to tell. Their lives revolve around their experiences and no one should be quick to judge. Snowball is an opportunity to get to know people for who they truly are, not what others make them out to be."

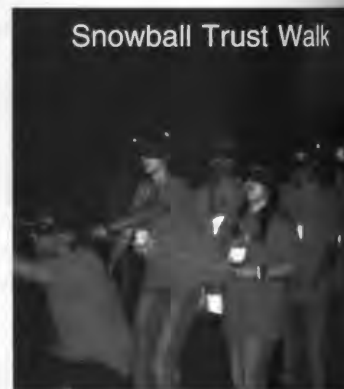

Snowball Directors Cat Thielberg and Kim Chambers helped all five student directors finalize their overall plans for the weekend event, the culminating activity for Snowball. Lauren Buscemi ('06), Bernie Dimas ('05), Gerardo Serriteno ('06), Kim Wanous ('07), and Katie Wood ('07) all worked together many times before the actual event with much enthusiasm. With schedules to revise and activities to create, these five directors had their hands full. Chambers said, "Our teen directors provided excellent ideas as well as contribute their fabulous leadership and organizational skills to the program."

In past years, Operation Snowball has been held at Community High School, but this year Snowball hit the road and participants stayed for one-night and two days at the Lorado Taft Campsite in Oregon, Illinois.

SADD Members Reach Out to Students in Need

Ms. Sloba-Jeski

Cecilia Benitez ('05)

With an organization such as SADD, students around We-Go are definitely hearing the truth about the dangers of making destructive decisions. Students Against Destructive Decisions works and helps to prevent students around We-Go from drinking and driving and overall shows students that drugs and alcohol are not answers to problems.

Some activities in which SADD has contributed during the school year included the annual pre-prom assembly. During this assembly, a speaker visited our high school and talked about the dangers of drinking and driving. Dianna Photopoulos ('06) said, "The Pre-Prom Assembly was a real eye opener, it's really touching, and it helps students recognize the consequences when you make bad choices." Towards the end of the year, SADD promoted D-Day Activities. During this time, SADD members picked students around We-Go to portray a death of a person involved in a drunk driving accident. This day has remained a time in which students not involved with the SADD organization start to understand and realize the effects that drinking can have.

The members involved emphasize the idea of being able to have fun at parties even when not drinking. A common slogan that has been used is "party sober." Advisor Mrs. Mallon said, "SADD is a good program for students to get involved in because it helps promote healthy lifestyles and decisions."

Art Club Colors the Pages of a Perfect World

Every year a group of talented students join Mr. Exner and Mrs. Maniego after school in the art room for Art Club. Mr. Exner, a quick-thinking and compassionate Art Teacher, and Assistant Advisor Mrs. Maniego, help students enjoy all forms of art. Students join Art Club in hopes of making their art perfect and contributing to the school. Whether painting faces in Commons on Valentines Day or creating banners for the Spring Fling, the artists share their talents all year long. President Jason LaGear ('05) and Vice President Bianca Speer ('07), along with Secretary Michelle DelValle ('06) served as the selected student officials to help students improve their artwork at each club meeting. "Before I left the high school I wanted to leave my mark. I wanted to be the first Art Club president doing something spectacular to the high school. That is why we tried the whole year to paint a mural that was different to the other ones around the school, one that connected us all," said Jason LaGear ('05).

"What I expected from the ten members that joined Photo Club was for them to stay in it, not just to come and go as they want, but for them to be dedicated. What I really want from them is to set personal goals and have a passion for photography," said Mr. Bardey. Students with that passion came every Monday afternoon and stayed long hours working in order to become more comfortable with the camera and the dark room. In February, members took pictures in Commons for two weeks before Valentine's Day. They took pictures of singles, couples, or groups of friends for the fundraiser, and the proceeds went to the club to help buy supplies.

Birthday Bash

FBLA Showcases the Voices and Rhythms of the Wildcats

Every Birthday Bash includes cheering, celebrating, and blowing out the candles on a birthday cake. It's a reason to dance, laugh, sing, play a musical instrument, and celebrate. And the 2004 Variety Show, themed Birthday Bash, provided the perfect 100th birthday party for the high school.

On December 2nd, FBLA hosted the annual show, an event which highlights the talents of students and provides a welcome break from the stresses of schoolwork. Performers who thrilled the audience with their musical talents and comedy included Jessica Stentz ('05), Alex Breinig ('06), Angelina Panozzo ('06), Lindsey Haines ('07), Liz Goodin ('05) and many others. Diamonds in the Rough, a talented group of five seniors, danced and sang to "Calculus." The audience roared with applause as Brandon Kutilek ('05), Erik Hernandez ('05), Greg Callahan ('05), Doug Sieder ('05) and Ryan Morris ('05) entertained the crowd with their imitation of "Together." According to Callahan, performing for such an enthusiastic audience is "a huge rush, and I just feel like I belong on the stage in the spotlight."

The efforts of Ms. Blume and Ms. Wirth, FBLA advisers, certainly paid off with another impressive display of talents and energy. Bravo.

Should we convict this criminal or not? This question plagued the cast of Twelve Angry Jurors as they put on an outstanding performance on consecutive November nights. When the curtain opened, silence enveloped the audience as the actors assumed their places on the stage. Soon anger emerged on the face of each member of the jury as he or she began the struggle to decide the guilt or innocence of a man accused of murder.

Director Mary Hafertepe led the cast which included Kaitlyn McAvoy ('05), Ian Rewers ('05), Kevin Roloff ('05), Mallory Russo ('05), Jessica Stentz ('05), Julie Evans ('05), Bridget Geraghty ('05), Abby Gerwin ('05), Jonathan Hall ('05), Summer Hassan ('05), C.J. Bring it On!

Cheerleaders Give It All They've Got On Game Day

Not just anyone can cheer on a crowd of Wildcat Fans through victory and defeat. It takes a special kind of student. It takes a cheerleader. With their positive attitudes and enthusiasm, cheerleaders pumped up the crowds and showed their school spirit at games and pep rallies throughout the 2004-2005 year.

The girls practiced two to three times a week, and after the captains created the routine, it took a week to teach the rest of the girls on the squad. The girls performed halftime routines at home games and supported our Wildcat players on the sidelines during the games. Junior Brittney Peters said, "During a performance, I want to throw up and I think of how I might mess up, but I am still confident in the squad." Other than the games at our school, the Wildcat Cheerleaders participated in several other activities such as competitions, showcases, pep assemblies and the Mr. Wildcat competition. The cheerleaders spent a great amount of time together and became great friends. "The girls are really close and we have a great time together," said Carolyn Blackman ('06). Being close, bringing spirit to the floor, and always supporting the mighty Wildcats are what the cheerleaders are all about.

Bring On the Poms

With Style and Rhythm, Dancers Exceed Expectations

The beat of music, stomping of feet, and the shimmer of pom pons can only mean one thing, Bring on the Poms! Pepping up the crowd before every home football and basketball game, this select group of girls showed the true meaning of Wildcat pride. They worked hard at practice to present a new routine each and every week. With so much talent, the poms girls danced to any beat and showed their rhythm. Their shiny blue and white uniforms shimmered under the lights as they danced. As their arms interlocked and their legs kicked high, their formations fell into place. Many of the dancers commented that they will miss the times they shared and their opportunities to entertain the fans. "As a member of Poms for three years, I'm sad that it's over because expressing different dance styles and techniques is what I will miss most," said Emily Doll ('05).

Along with stylistic maturity and a little bit of modern dance, the poms proved to be the admiration of many. That's why our award winning poms can bring in the rhythm and move to the beat.

Step Up To The Pep

Pep Club Members Stir Up School Spirit Within the Community

Pep Club, one of the most enthusiastic clubs throughout West Chicago, consists of a variety of students willing to work hard and contribute their energy and time in trying to pep up our school. With Pep Club making the pep assemblies mandatory, more students are enjoying the festivities. Ryan Roman ('08) said, "The school spirit is great at pep assemblies because everyone is so enthusiastic about our school."

Pep Club advisors Ms. Kairys and Mr. Kosek drew in fifty members who strove to get other students excited about team, spirit and victory. With enthusiastic board members such as President Mandi Fischer, Vice President Emily Gehrke, Secretary Sam Kleczewski and Treasurer Jackie Gola, Pep Club is making an impact on students and staff throughout Community High School.

The Pep Club is in charge of working behind the scenes to make the school events and assemblies incredible. In the end, all pep assemblies proved to be a mighty success. Without Pep Club decorating lockers for the sports teams and brainstorming creative concepts for all the amazing pep assemblies, our students and staff would not be as proud to be West Chicago Wildcats as they are now.

Colors Accumulate On the Field

Flags Fly as the Color Guard Performs A Spectacular Routine

Change is Good.

Members of the Color Guard lead the way during the 2004 Homecoming Parade and show what they can do. "It was a season of changes, but we had such an awesome time. Change makes room for improvement, and improvement leads to good things," said Co- Captain Jenny Linsenmeyer ('06)

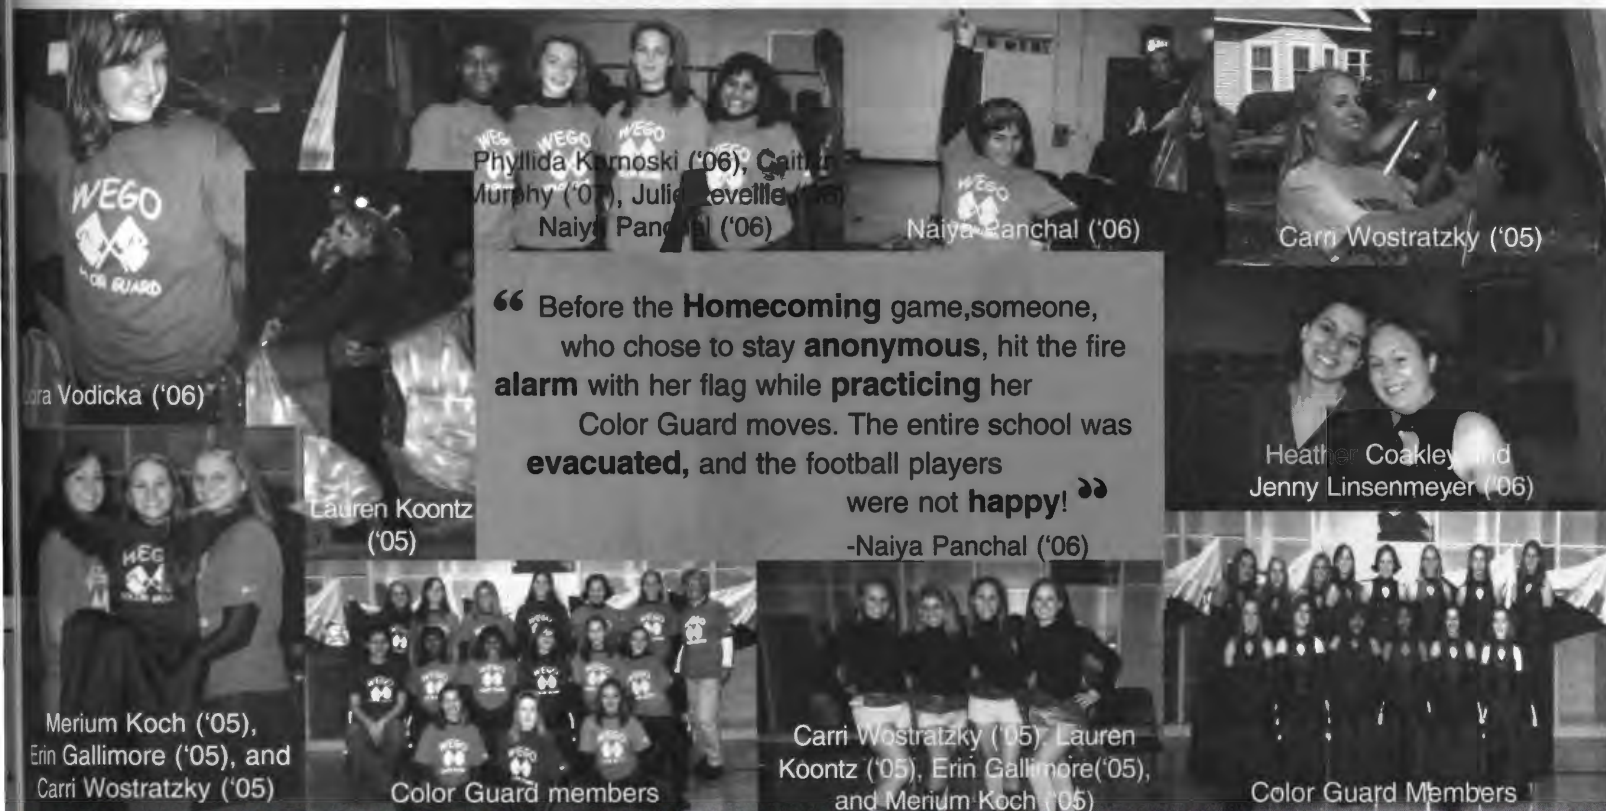

We-Go Guard is loud and proud. The girls of Color Guard had a spectacular season which started before school began. The members attended a Guard Camp where they learned their routines for the upcoming year. They also had to attend a Band Camp with the band members to learn their positioning on the field. As usual the Color Guard performed every home football game of the season in the rainy fall weather.

During the Homecoming football game, the Color Guard had to make-do with the rainy weather and put on a show for the crowd. "It was one of the hardest times I've had to perform. The rain got our flags wet and it was very difficult to twirl them," says Erin Gallimore ('05).

During the football season, the Color Guard participated in several parades, the Good Old Days held on September 11 and the Mexican Independence Parade on September 12. During these parades, the Color Guard was able to show off their wonderful talent and school pride to the community members in the area.

In October, the Color Guard also performed during the Marching Band Showcase. The Showcase was held in the small gym and people were able to come in and see all their accomplishments of the season.

Band Members March One By One

The new band director, Mr. Govertson, arrived just in time to celebrate We-Go's 100th year. Replacing Mr. Guter in this position was no easy task, but Mr. Govertson proved that he was up for the job of leading the marching, concert, jazz, and, pep bands.

"The most memorable moment of this year was pre-game at the Homecoming football game with all fireworks and parachuters," said Mr. Govertson. Mr. Govertson and the band celebrated this monumental occasion with the theme of Latin Jazz. Along with Drum Majors Bethany Inch ('06), Brad Rathe ('07) and Erika Kane ('05), the band stuck up the tunes of Latin music with a combination of band instrumentals and choreographed moves.

Band is different from most clubs at the high school. It combines a class with an after-school activity. The students take time out of their busy schedule to learn more about subjects like musical composition. The band is composed of a group of kids who love music and plan to use what they learn now in college and even after school.

Choir Sings their Way from West Chicago to New York City

Bringing many different influences into their singing, the Wildcat choir truly had something to be proud of. They performed regularly in the community, while giving four different concerts. Teachers enjoyed a holiday concert in December, while Veterans in the community enjoyed a concert on Veterans Day. The choir has great plans for the future, "I want them to continue to develop their music skills and the quality of music making," said choir teacher Mr. Fantozzi. With the Mixed Choir, Women's Choral, Concert Choir, and Chamber Choir, anyone can be a part of making their own music.

The choir also made a six-day trip to New York City to perform and sightsee. They visited the Statue of Liberty, Radio City Music Hall, Ground Zero, and Carnegie Hall. While in New York, the choir sang at South Street Seaport and the Cathedral Church of Saint John the Divine. After almost one week of non-stop singing and sightseeing, the choir sang their way home to West Chicago.

Musicians Orchestrate Their Talents To Manufacture Melodies

Working As A Team.

The ensemble of violinists along with Owen Kerschner ('07) play their violins during the fall concert.

Most adolescents shy away from classical music, but members of the orchestra embrace the emotion of playing these challenging pieces. With new director Steve Govertsen at the helm, these violinists, cellists, and other musicians treated the West Chicago community with the talents and harmony at events ranging from the annual holiday concert to Senior Honors Night to Commencement.

When the orchestra traveled to the University of Illinois in February to attend a clinic, the students were given the opportunity to perform and listen to other high school orchestras. Through this bonding experience, the musicians expanded their repertoire and learned to remember that even the orchestra is a team. "It was really helpful for the students," said Violinist Jill Musick ('05).

The orchestra teaches people to appreciate music, have better patience, leadership cooperation, and responsibility. The average orchestra member puts in about five hours of practice time each week to make the concerts the best that they can be. Bravo!

Boarding School Girls Scheme In Daisy Pulls It Off

The 2004-2005 winter play, Daisy Pulls It Off, was full of giggles and drama. With the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday night performances, approximately 450 people attended this exceptional display. Mr. Vega, assistant director, said the play was chosen because, "in the winter it's usually dreary so we thought a comedy would lighten things up."

To prepare the actors for their parts, the cast practiced their British accents for two weeks prior to the play. For weeks, the cast stayed after school everyday to learn their lines and practice their accents. "My favorite moment this year was the Friday night performance. I was really proud of the cast and they did a really good job," said Mr. Vega.

The story begins when Daisy, Jazmine Martinez ('06), earns a scholarship to an elite boarding school. When she arrives at the school, not everyone is pleased. The girls conspire against Daisy because they think she does not belong at the boarding school. They plan to get Daisy in so much trouble that she is forced to leave, but instead Daisy pulls it off and becomes everyone's hero.

Shake that groove thing! Members of Dance Production found their rhythm and showed off their skills and talent in the 2005 Groove performance. Mrs. Zmrhal, dance director, made sure the girls put on an impressive show. The wide variety of dancers, including freshmen through seniors, gave the show a great deal of creativity and excitement. “Being a sophomore and getting to work with the upperclassmen and putting all our ideas together, and most importantly becoming friends was a very special experience,” said Tiffany Kirschke ('07). The girls choreographed all the dances with their friends and classmates. All the dances involved hard work and made the night of grooveology a great night. Girls who participated showed their excitement and effort while performing popular songs like “Work it,” “Daughters,” and “Look at Me.” The girls thanked their parents and credited Mrs. Zmrhal with all the success. “Mrs. Zmrhal taught us that nothing is impossible,” said Caitlin Riermaier ('05), adding that the dancers felt extremely proud of their accomplishments.

Thespians Put Together Curtain Raising Performances

With the plays Daisy Pulls It Off and Twelve Angry Jurors, and the musical Brigadoon, Thespians kept the high school on their feet and even the cast and crew were entertained by the backstage antics. "It was really funny watching the boys put on their own makeup or pretend not to know how. It's not something you see everyday," said crew member Kellie Virnich('06).

Thanks to the help of the directors and the skills of the many actors and actresses, Thespians raised enough money to help with the different activities in which they participate. Thespians attended Vincent, a one-man production about Vincent Van Gogh. To be involved in Thespians, students must have been involved in two or more productions. Love Is Magic in the Town of Brigadoon

The Spring Musical, Brigadoon, entertained more than 1200 people on three different nights in the Weyrauch Auditorium. With bagpipes and Scottish brogues, the cast of more than 60 students sang and danced their way through the town of Brigadoon.

The musical focuses on two hunters and their escapades in the Scottish highlands. "Two hunters get lost and find what they are looking for. For one it was a dream, for the other it was a nightmare," said Brittany Rose ('06). Brigadoon is a mysterious tale of a lost town that joins true love. Two hunters set out on their quest from New York and get lost in the fog of Scotland. They hear singing coming from the distance and decide to follow the sound. They stumble upon Brigadoon, a town unmarked on maps. They learn that Brigadoon is a magical town where one day on their calendar is equivalent to 100 years in regular time.

During the play, one of the hunters, Tommy Albright, played by Jon Hall ('05), falls in the love with the lovely Fiona MacLaren, played by Julie Evans ('05). Meanwhile, Fiona's sister, Jean MacLaren, played by Lora Vodicka ('06), is planning her marriage to Jeff Douglas, played by David Thomas ('07). Students Enjoy Cross-Cultural Experiences through Different Languages

For those interested in making friends and sharing experiences related to foreign cultures, other countries and cultures International Club is the place to be.

Throughout all the fun field trips and activities, Advisors Marjorie Appel and Sarah Bellis made sure each was also a learning experience. Every Tuesday morning, the students gathered to learn about different cultures and ethnic groups around the world. "Learning about other countries and getting a chance to see what goes on in the world was a great experience," said Senior Liz Goodin. They celebrated different traditions from all around the world like the Chinese New Year and the Day of the Dead.

An activity the club sponsored was International Week. The week gave students a good idea about different cultures and customs from all over the world besides our everyday life style. Throughout the week, activities such as folk dancing, flamingo dancing and artistic dancing took place and interesting facts from different countries were posted all over the school. The club also explored different customs by going on field trips throughout the school year to places like the German Market and the Mexican Museum of Fine Arts. This experiences gave the students a chance to see what else is out in the world.

Making a Difference

Student Council Helps Make We-Go the Best It Can Be

Student Council, a dedicated group of student leaders, has created some of the best memories for students by planning events like the Homecoming Dance and the key costume contest. Student Council met a few times a week, where they planned and created new ways to improve our school and social gatherings. Mrs. Maloney and Mr. Lukas served as advisors to the group, but insisted that the true leadership came from the students. The students that participated were extremely hard working and committed a great amount of time to the school. Around Homecoming, it felt like I was living at the school," said Executive Board Treasurer Tracy Opel ('06). Student Council also raised money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation and organized a coat drive for the needy around the holidays. Community High School has always been about the students, and the people on Student Council made sure that their voices were heard.

Cats Fight to the Finish In Search of Victory

Hit Hard

Bryan Loosli ('05), Rollin Hawco ('06), and Brad Murison ('05) stare at the offense as they prepare to put their bodies to the test.

Despite several heart-breaking games, the Varsity football team finished the 2004 season with the knowledge that victory does not determine the value of a team. These brothers on the field showed the West Chicago community the meaning of competition and good sportsmanship.

The return of starters Brad Murison ('05), Travis Saville ('06), and Jeff Gilbert ('05) allowed the team to begin with an extraordinary start. A three day trip to Loreda Taft, a camp focused on team building, allowed the football players to gain a head start on the 2004 season and encouraged them to focus on teamwork. Each player survived three grueling practices during each of the three days at the camp. The team, who started as a group of independent players, returned to West Chicago as a family.

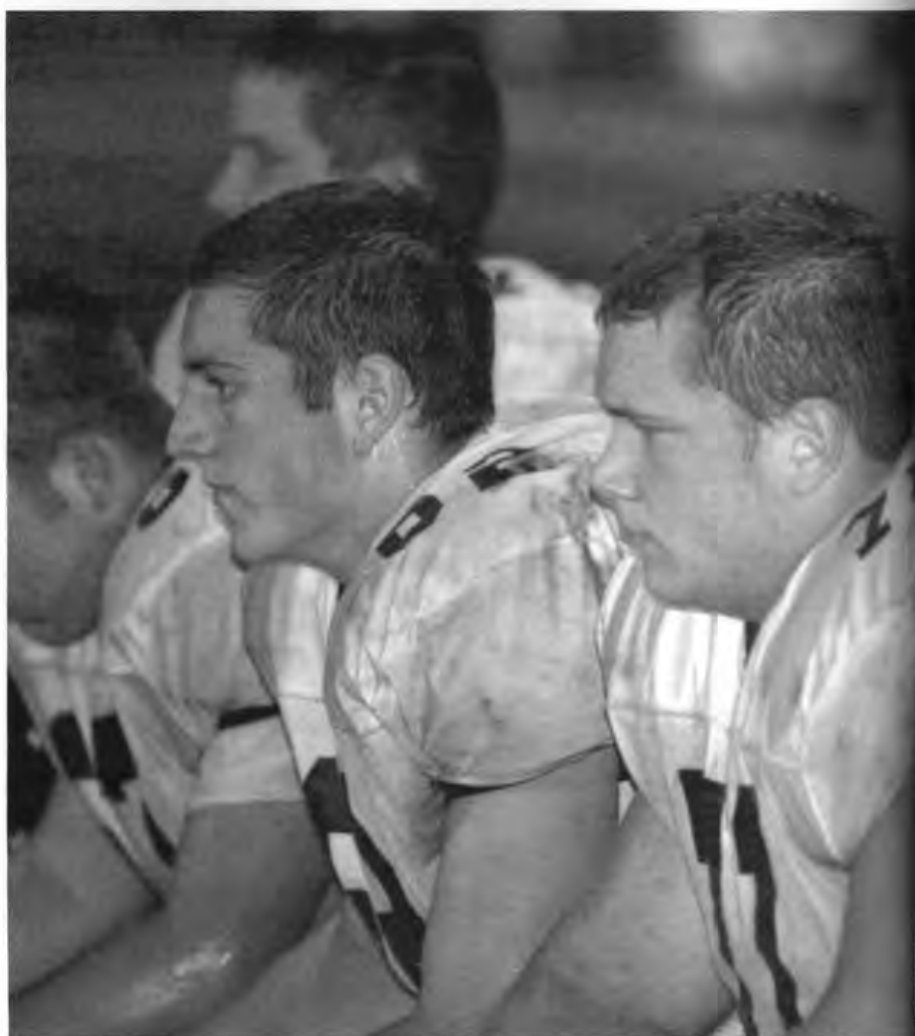

The season began as We-Go's Varsity Football team controlled Plainfield's offense and defense, leaving We-Go the winner 34-7. They carried on the season with a competitive edge, constantly hoping to earn the respect of the other teams in DVC. Led by team captains Brad Murison ('05), Mike Hanrahan ('05), Erik Hernandez ('05), and David Frommert ('05), the players showed teams like Naperville North, Glenbard North and Glenbard East that the Wildcats could play competitively and potentially win.

In each game the Wildcats played, the players put their bodies to the test to see how much punishment and pain they could give and receive. By the end of this challenging season, this band of brothers transformed into men on the field

Golfers Focus on Their Game

Golf is a sport that involves more mental ability than physical ability. It takes math, confidence, and hand-eye coordination to play the game right. According to Head Coach Eric Lasky, players need to practice regularly to perfect their skills, and they need a great deal of determination because the game of golf requires non-stop work. Throughout the season, the players practiced at St. Andrews Golf and Country Club, either on the course or on the range with a bucket of balls.

Although the golf team did not advance past regionals, the team still showed consistency and a dedication to their sport, and each golfer contributed to the team's success. Joey Staiton ('05) earned the title of the most valuable player. Senior Evan Skarin, who achieved the best overall score throughout the whole season, said, "We all know each other pretty well and were able to combine our strengths to form a better team." And with hard work and a great deal of determination, Frank Giliberto ('07) received the title of Most Improved Player.

Golfers Tee Up for Victory

With hard work and determination, the West Fargo girls' golf team made the record books in 2004. Achieving the best record since Coach Michael Cain started coaching the golf team, the golfers proved that hard work pays off.

The team consisted of eight experienced players, including Jamie Klingberg ('05), Dana Yormark ('05), and Natalie Pacelli ('08). Consistently showing grace and talent on the golf course, Kristin Grimm ('07) and Michele Walters ('05) earned the title of most improved players.

According to Coach Cain, the golfers' commitment to practice contributed to their victories, even how that surprised the girls. "The most shocking experience that we've had was that we beat Wheaton High. Because our football team didn't win, I thought it would be difficult," he said.

Practicing five days a week at St. Andrews Golf Course helped the golfers improve their skills and stamina, especially when it came to match time. It's not simply the thought of victory that motivated these golfers. Golf is a sport they feel passionately about and that is what always makes the season special.

Runners Stride for the Finish

The adrenaline rushed through every cross-country runner each time he or she finished a race. With this enthusiasm and desire for success, We-Go runners surpassed the expectations for the 2004 season, representing Community High School to their best abilities.

Boys' Cross-Country consisted of 16 runners, and although they are a small team, they proved themselves by having an above average season. The boys practiced everyday after school and occasionally ran in the morning. On average they covered between six and eight miles a day. Coach McLeland explained that "Cross-Country is about an individual's personal best." Some outstanding runners included George Visser ('06) and Brenden Sullivan ('07).

With 21 runners, the Girls' Cross-Country team practiced every day after school with Coach Katerina Claiborne. In order to improve every week, the runners had a strenuous work-out of approximately 25-30 miles a week. According to Coach Claiborne, anyone willing to commit can accomplish his or her goal. "Anyone can do it," she said. "It's not that scary if you want to get in shape." With several newcomers, the players concentrated on rebuilding the team structure. Newcomer Mallory Sanzeri ('06) juggled both Cross-Country and Cheerleading, but still became one of the top runners of the season.

Soccer Players Triumph for the First Time in 22 Years

For the first time in 22 years, the boys' soccer team emerged as champions in the Dupage Valley Conference. After weeks of hard work and dedication to their sport, the boys finished the season 7-0 and showed the entire community what it means to be a winning West Chicago Wildcat.

The 2004 soccer team was one of the best, if not the best, team We-Go has ever had. Lead by Coach Steve Brugmann, soccer athletes Ignacio Correa ('06), Miguel Tapia ('05), Victor Lopez ('05), Jose Correa ('06) and Jose Villa ('06) contributed great efforts each and every game. They accomplished three huge achievements once thought impossible.

One achievement involved defeating Naperville Central High School at the Redhawks' Stadium after 12 years in which We-Go consistently lost to opponents. Secondly, the team won each conference game they played, a winning streak rare in the DVC for West Chicago teams. And finally the team earned the title, DVC champions.

"For some of us playing together for four years has really improved our game performance as a team and as individuals," said Paul Reyes ('06). Keep up the good work, guys!

Swimmers Motivate Each Other To Succeed

With vision and dedication, the boys' swimming team proved that Cats really can swim. With only 16 swimmers and two divers on the team, the Cats put forth their toughest efforts at practice and made their coaches proud. The team competed in a total of 14 meets, including sectionals. With all of the time they dedicated to their workouts, they all brought their personal achievements to reality and added to previous scores. "The most valuable player of the season was Jeff Lesniak ('05) because of his dedication," said Coach Herrin.

The swimmers all shared the responsibility and acknowledgement of being captain. During practices and meets, they all took on the leadership role and accomplished what needed to be done. The Cats had quality time to bond at pasta parties, bicycle rides and Saturday morning breakfasts. The extra activities in which the swimmers took part allowed them to come closer as a team. The boys endured the tough warm-ups, kick sets, main sets and cool downs as a team at practices every day and strived to succeed. "I was very proud of the hard work and motivation of the swimmers," said Herrin, adding that their hard work benefited them at conference, sectionals and state.

The girls' swim team started the 2004 season with a splash. The girls put forth their best effort at practice and emerged successful. Training at 5:15a.m. to 6:45a.m, and at 3:30p.m. to 4:30p.m. the girls worked the pool. With only 23 swimmers and 7 divers, our team showed what it was to be a Wildcat swimmer. The team competed in a total of 15 meets, including sectionals and state meet. With all of the time consumed in their workouts, they all dropped time and added to their season scores from the beginning of the season.

Kristina Sedjo ('05) worked her hardest throughout the season and tried her best to be there for her teammates when they needed it the most. She was at the most practices and truly showed the improvement from the start of the season. She led the rest of the team continue their rituals at team meets by singing a wildcat cheer.

The new girls' coach, Coach Curt Herrin, wanted to make the season go by without a hitch. Even though they faced difficult moments during the season, they accomplished their goals. They outlasted their competition with their power and strength in the air and water.

Confident Coaching
Coach Kristi Hasty looks upon her team to bring home another victory.

After seven years of hard work and defeat, the 2004 girls' volleyball team closed the doat. After a season of grueling practices and competitive matches, the girls finished third in the DuPage Valley Conference and proved that hard work does pay off.

Team unity contributed to the main success of the players. "It's all about the Team," said Varsity Coach Kristi Hasty, emphasizing the team slogan, a statement that she never forgot to repeat to her players. At each practice, team members sported shirts with the slogan, and Hasty reminded her players that volleyball is a team sport. With the team's success, Hasty certainly proved to be right. Starting with hard practices, and pushing themselves to their limit, the twelve girls started strong with a victory against Wheaton North.

According to Team Captain Dana Hernan (05), "We played well at times and came together as a team when needed to. We still have our differences, but we were able make it fun." Every player on the team contributed with spirit and perseverance.

As word got out about the team's continuing success, the team gained more admiration from other teams, peers and parents. "I am pleased with our season. Being in the top four in DVC is amazing. Our team stepped up and played with the best. We proved that when we are at the top of our game, we can play with anyone," said Hasty.

Tennis Talent Creates a Commotion on the Court

Rain, snow and subzero temperatures challenged members of the Boys' Tennis team throughout the 2005 season, but the players survived these nearly impossible practicing conditions and emerged with a respectable record. With a large amount of seniors having graduated the Spring before, the boys needed to adjust to new players and the lack of experience. However, with the help of coaches Sione Moeaki, Fred Toms, and Tim Martin, the singles and doubles players stepped onto the court each day and demonstrated their talents.

According to team captain Eric Gotkowski ('05), the team's commitment to their sport made a difference in their matches. "Our team showed a strong sense of dedication and an overall remarkable attitude, and that is what truly makes this season memorable," said Eric Gotkowski ('05).

Hard work, dedication, and skill are what the Go tennis players are all about. With their agility and fast moving feet, they stand prepared for the next volley or overhead shot to come their way. The 2004-05 girls' tennis team fought extremely hard in their season, and even sent two of their players to state. They played as a team and won as a team. They even had team bonding nights.

"Team bonding nights were one of the best parts of being part of the team," said Justine Egert ('06). Team bonding nights consisted of staying up all-night, laughing, spending time with one another, and growing as a team. Great players with great attitudes equal a great team. As evidence of their hard work, Mary Hesterman ('06) and Jen Green ('07) qualified for state and made all conference. All in all, the girls' tennis team had loads of fun and played their hearts out. Badminton Players Take On The Court

Being a member of the Badminton team does not simply mean playing a sport. It is also an opportunity to make great friends and have good times on and off the court. During the 2005 season, players enjoyed practices that challenged their skills. Though the badminton team did not win most of its meets, they came in second place out of eight teams at the Dekalb Tournament on April 23, a huge improvement after the previous year's seventh place.

While at matches, the team members constantly supported each other as they competed. Raquel Brummel ('07) said that her favorite memory about being on the badminton team was, "watching the number one varsity member win a match and cheering her on with the rest of the team." Throughout the season, the team grew together and made the coaches proud.

"The best part about badminton is actually being part of a team, making new friends and working together to become better players," says Kelsey Chillemi ('08). The players worked hard in attempt to make their coaches proud by showing their dedication to really become a team and have a great year.

The Marketing Class Does It Again

The fourth annual Midnight Madness kicked off the 2004-05 basketball season with an eye on success. Once again, Mr. Farthy's marketing class spearheaded the event and scheduled activities intended to please every member of the crowd. The highlight of the evening was the dodgeball game between the students and staff. The staff team consisted of players including Mr. Marino, Mr. Garcia, Mr. Zeitler, and Mrs. Mallon. The student team included Erik Hernandez ('05), Mike Brzeczek ('05), Ryan Morris ('05), and Alyssa Claude ('05). Thanks to Joe Cotton Ford, a basketball shoot-out competition gave students the chance to leave with a hundred more dollars in their pocket. Midnight Madness ended with the talented Circus Boy doing his outrageous acts of juggling knives and burning objects all while riding a unicycle.

The 2004-05 basketball players, both boys and girls, were introduced at Midnight Madness. Last year's starters Doug Sieder ('05) and Greg Callahan ('05) returned to show their immense movement. For the ladies team, Dana Hernan ('05) and Jessica Crawford ('06) come back to help the basketball team succeed. They displayed glimpses of talent during a quick basketball game, by an example of their season ahead. For every event, hand-picked contestants were given a special prize for their efforts. Wide Open.

Even though the game gets intense, Greg Callahan('05) keeps his cool, finds an open shot, and takes it.

Timothy Christian was up by two points with one second left. Nick George ('05) waited for the whistle while he stood on the opposite side of the court ready to inbound the ball. He found Greg Callahan ('05) on the far right side of the court and threw down court to him. Greg caught the ball and immediately put up a shot from beyond the three-point arch. As the buzzer rang, the ball swished through the hoop. The crowd rushed the court and celebrated with the team on the victory. This amazing shot extended the boys' basketball team record to a twelve-game winning streak. The team broke the school record for going undefeated for the first eight games, set during the '96-'97 season. And that was just the beginning. In a year of basketball that West Chicago fans will long remember, the 2005 Cats earned the title of Regional Champions and made basketball history.

Principal John Highland applauded the team and coaching staff for showing the world what it means to be a West Chicago athlete. "Not only was it a great year, but it was the greatest year in our 100 years of existence," he said, recognizing the boys' extraordinary efforts.

The basketball team included captains Doug Sieder ('05) and Greg Callahan ('05). They recieved help underneath the basket from Seniors Luke Martin, Chris Jones, and Austin Monroe. The outside shooting of John Doeseckle ('05) helped open up the opponents' defense. This team consisted of nine seniors and two sophomores who found a way to play together and share the opportunity of success with one another. "We play together as a team and don't worry about who gets the fame," said Nick Lelito ('05). They continued the season by putting the fame and glory behind them and giving each other the equal opportunity to score points. Their winning season proved that teamwork was their key to their success.

No defense can stop Kelsey Monroe ('07) as she snatches a rebound and pushes the ball up the floor.

For 51 straight conference games, Naperville Central's girls' basketball team never lost a game. But then they met the 2005 West Chicago Wildcats. "Everything went well. We all contributed, we were taking on defense, finishing shots, boxing out. It wasn't some fluke win; we deserved the win," said Point Guard Jessica Crawford ('06). In addition to this memorable game, comeback wins and triumphs at the buzzer occurred on numerous occasions. The Wildcats entertained spectators and exhausted their coach. "I learn more about being a coach every year, and this group taught me a lot. We had some tough losses and some incredible highs, but mostly I knew each game wasn't over until the buzzer sounded," said Coach Wallner.

With a mix of the young and old, the Cats found ways to succeed. Captains Dana Hernan ('05) and Peggy Saul ('05) along with fellow seniors Sam Corriero ('05) and Megan Forbrook ('05) joined younger returning players Jessica Crawford ('06), Kelsey Monroe ('07) and Melissa Olsen ('07) to exhibit their excellence.

A favorite memory off the court that the girls shared involved going to see Notre Dame play Purdue. Despite the wiper fluid failing to clean the windshield of the school van and players getting ice cream-to-go for the bus ride home, the Wildcats still found basketball to be a highlight. "Watching a college basketball game brought out not only the obvious talent difference, but the fact that these girls started out like us. Like any team sport, their coach encourages them, they sweat, they win, they lose and they love basketball," said Senior Sam Corriero. Certainly the 2005 Ladycats also proved that they loved their sport.

Wrestlers Take On The Competition

With an impressive line up, the Wrestling team made the other teams think twice before stepping onto the mat with the Cats. Wrestling had a great start to their season by winning their first duel meet against St. Edwards High School with a team score of 64 to 9 and continued strong all season.

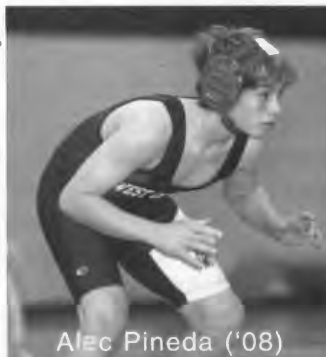

The Varsity team consisted of newcomers including James Shallcross ('08), Tu Le ('07), and Alec Pineda ('08). Returning Wrestlers Brandon Klekamp ('07), Stephany Vasquez ('05), Adam Pineda ('05), John Britton ('06), Hugo Conde ('05), and Tim Kirincic ('07) rounded out a strong Varsity line up. "We have gained a great amount of respect as a competitive team," said Coach Martin Molina.

Led by team captains John Britton ('06) and Adam Pineda ('05), the team continued to put up heroic fights against top schools like Wheaton North, Glenbard North, and others in the DuPage Valley Conference. "As a team we have progressed greatly. We have had a lot of individuals at all levels do well," said Coach Jamie Philips. Wildcats End the Season with New Skills and Fond Memories

With ten returning players and several college-bound athletes on the field, Wildcat Baseball proved that no team was out of their reach. Captains Luke Martin ('05), Dan Eckler ('05) and Chris Jones ('05) led the group with experience under their belt and Senior status to show the way. From diving catches and errorless innings, to homeruns and happy fans, the guys consistently challenged even the toughest opponents.

Anyone who knows anything about We-Go Athletics knows how competitive the DuPage Valley Conference is. Napervillians and Wheatonites give the Cats a reason to work hard not only during the season but long before games begin. "It's never fun feeling stuck in the field house instead of on the field. The guys know what it takes to finish at the top, and even when balls were taking bad hops on the floor or bouncing off the walls, they were working hard," said Head Coach John Walters. Every year, as soon as the winter blizzards cease, the baseball players can be seen playing catch anywhere there is a patch of grass.

The 2005 season began quite well. Obtaining a winning record of 7-3 early on, they sent the message that they were not easily beaten. Wheaton Warrenville South got the message after being destroyed by We-Go in the season opener. "We hit the ball hard time after time. It's nice when you have a team that's as coachable as our team is and to be able to perform a variety of skills," said Coach Walters.

Softball Players Overcome Obstacles in a Rebuilding Year

Hitting, running, bunting, fly balls, and grounders are everyday ordeals for the Lady Wildcat softball team. With six seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and two freshmen, the Varsity team was young but strong. "We had a nice mix of senior leadership and though we were young in many ways, all of the girls were loyal to the game," said Varsity Coach Jim Schaudt. The coaches hit a homerun when deciding who would represent the Ladycats in the DVC. The girls caught on fast as to how Varsity softball was played, "We expect 100% effort at all times and the girls to pull for their other team members," said Schaudt. With such a beautiful spring season, the 13 girls and three coaches hit the field.

The coaches considered 2005 as a year of change with the slogan, "Restoring the Pride in 2005." The more experienced players helped their younger counterparts learn the fundamentals of the sport. Christine Williams ('07) said of her fellow senior teammates, "The seniors were such good role models for us all. They were so inspirational and fun to be with." Whether the softball players were winning or losing, the program well known for its success held its head high.

Girls' Soccer Takes Control of the Field

With their commitment to endure early practices and doubles, the Girls' soccer team proved these Wildcats were no underdogs. "We have so much pride for our school. Our team may not be the fastest or the smartest, but we have the most heart," said Senior Sammi Kufta. Coached by Julio DelReal, the players learned all season long from their knowledgeable instructor. "Our coaches always believe in us, even when it seems like the rest of the world thinks we can't. They are very good at explaining and are always motivating and positive," said Gina Adduci ('07).

The girls had very exciting moments during their season. They scored header goals off corner kicks to gain the lead during the first home game and tied Naperville Central in double overtime. The girls never gave up or failed to put up a fight. With experienced seniors and talented underclassmen, the combination of players on the team proved successful. Players like Mary Harms ('05) and Jessica Crawford ('06) use their years of Varsity familiarity to light the way for new and able competitors like Jessica Jones ('08), Sarah Scardamaglia ('07), and Gina Adduci ('07). Kayla Radloff, an aggressive freshman, even earned the position of goalie. Such a diverse and capable ensemble gave We-Go Soccer an edge above the rest.

Track and Field is not just a sport; it's a test of true strength. Both the boys' and the girls' track teams proved that hard work and dedication lead to success. With three returning state qualifiers, the boys' track and field team scored points at the indoor state meet for the first time in five years. Coach Zeitler led Team Captain Erik Hernandez ('05) to place 2nd in shot put, only one foot away from 1st. Guided by Coach McClelland, George Visser ('06), also a team captain, placed 7th in the mile, and Greg Callahan ('05) qualified for the 300m hurdles. Anthony McNerney ('05), the third team captain, encouraged the team to push harder. In order to improve, Coaches Christina and Whitman asked the boys to focus on weight training. Building muscle helped give the athletes that extra boost to cut down times. It worked for Sophomore Ken Klein ('07), as he broke the Indoor DVC Record for the 55 hurdles. During outdoor season both Callahan ('05) and Hernandez ('05) qualified for state in the hurdles and shotput respectively.

With help from Coaches Claiborne, Cortinas, and Petmezas, the girls' track team focused on becoming more of a team. While each girl had her own special talent, the girls came together this season and pushed to better their times and reach their goals. April Bennett ('07) said, "Track wasn't just a sport for me, it was a chance to form friendships with girls I wouldn't have talked to otherwise." Abby Cole ('06) led the team by breaking the Varisty triple jump record twice, and Kelly Murphy ('08) broke the Fresh-Soph record in the 300m hurdles. Wildcats Work to Control the Competition Wearing practice shirts that sported the slogan "You get out of it what you put into it," members of the boys' volleyball team proved the value of their words. They put in all they had in practice and played aggressively and with confidence. The new group of players stepped up to the Varsity level and played like volleyball veterans. Their hard work inspired the team and improved their overall performance. Led by Head Coach Hasty and team captains Derek Jensen ('05) and Matt Van Gorkom ('05), the team put up some good matches against some tough schools such as Wheaton North and Naperville Central. They also pulled out some great finishes in Varsity tournaments.

At the St. Charles East boys' tournament, they started as a favored team to win, and the Wildcats prevailed over teams such as Oswego, Plainfield South, and Zion-Bennett until the championship game. With the boys scoring some big kills and blocks, they breezed through the competition and won most of their matches in only two games. However, in the final game against St. Charles East, bad luck and poor calls by the referees plagued the Wildcats. Still they returned home with the second place plaque to add to the collection in the trophy case.

The team faired well despite the tough competition in the DuPage Valley Conference. As a whole, the season was one of success, competition, and learning. They fought hard and showed what it means to be a Wildcat volleyball player.

In their First Season, Cats Compete With the Best

The Lacrosse team started their first season at Community High School hoping for conference and state championships. The team had only a few kids who could pass, catch, and shoot, and others had never even picked up a lacrosse stick before in their lives. They practiced everyday after school, and they took a team trip together to Finish Strong, an indoor lacrosse facility to learn how to play as a team and become closer like a family.

As they started their season, they wanted to come out intimidating their opponents and showing other teams that they could compete with anyone as a first year team in the DuPage Eight Conference. The Varsity team was made up of mostly seniors such as Matt Belding, Matt Mahoney, and Austin Curran who controlled the offense during each game. The defense lacked experience with up-and-coming athletes Mike Klein ('07), Don Koltz ('06), and Ray Braunshausen ('06). They played teams all over the Midwest including Clayton, Missouri, Waunakee, Wisconsin, and South Bend, Indiana. They took fourth out of twelve in the "Rocks on the Fox" tournament, which was an extremely good finish for a first year varsity team. "Although the season didn't go as well as I thought it would have, I had fun for my first year and it allowed me to meet new people," said Jon Crotty ('05).

White Sox All the Way!

Mr. Healy supports the White Sox and introduces the next Mr. Wildcat contestant.

From rappers and prom invitations to Napoleon Dynamite in the flesh, the Class of 2005 contestants entertained the audience members. The nine marvelous young men were judged in categories ranging from talents to evening wear, but all aspects of their personality were considered. Only one could win the crown and honor. That young man, Miguel Tapia, won the 2005 Mr. Wildcat contest and took the crown home with pride.

Spectators first saw the contestants during the introduction, which Nick Lelito described as his favorite part. However, most audience members preferred the talent performances. "Nick was amazing, probably more amazing than the real Napoleon Dynamite from the movie," said Laura Tan ('05). Meanwhile Miguel Tapia wowed viewers and won the judges' hearts before the night ended.

Explaining his ideal date as including "giving the girl's mother a flower and thanking the parents for letting him borrow their daughter," Tapia earned the crown. He beat out the phenomenal voice of Jon Hall, the hysterical comedy skit from Jeff Cisowski, and the rapping skills displayed by Austin Monroe. As Jessica Boyd ('05) strolled past the candidates teasing their heads with the crown, loud cheers filled the auditorium when Miguel was honored.

These are the Moments

Prom Guests Will Remember For a Lifetime

On April 29, students glided across the red carpet into the Carlisle to celebrate West Chicago's annual prom, We-Go to Hollywood. Dressed in evening gowns and tuxedos, the stars of the evening danced the night away and dubbed the event one of the best in the history of the school. "Prom 2005 was unquestionably a night to remember," said Principal John Highland. "The students and faculty will never forget this magical evening, a night in which each person feels proud to be a Wildcat."

As almost 600 prom-goers entered the Carlisle, they were greeted by members of the faculty and administration, including Mr Lasky, the Junior Class adviser who helped organize the event. After dining in the ballroom decorated with thousands of balloons, couples watched in anticipation as the King and Queen were announced. Juniors Joffrey Benter and Marilyn Jacques received the crowns and danced to the Prom's theme song "These are the Moments" by Edwin McCain. After only a few short moments, prom-goers crowded the dance floor. With tuxedo jackets and high-heeled shoes long forgotten, students celebrated this special evening until the music finally ended at 11 o'clock.

"The Prom may have ended," said Activities Director Dan McCarthy. "But the memories of this prom will last a lifetime."

NHS Members are Rewarded for Their Success in Academics

On May 5, 47 Juniors and Seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society. Veteran members watched as the inductees walked across the stage to receive their certificates. Students received this honor for earning a 3.0 average or higher in their academics. The nominees pledged to uphold the values of NHS, including scholarship, leadership, community service and character. Ms. Jones and Ms. Jaeger served as advisors for the National Honor Society.

The National Honor Society has many benefits to offer a nominee for future academic success. The inductees not only helped with community service, but also found time to participate in school functions. They contributed by selling tickets for choir and band concerts and helping out in convalescent homes. NHS members participated in the Turkey Give Away by delivering turkeys to people who are less fortunate. At the annual Frosty Fest, volunteers dressed up as Santa and his elves and sold items to little kids of West Chicago. These gifts were wrapped and the family members received them on Christmas morning. When the Spring Fundraiser came along, seniors volunteered to carry the books of a lucky raffle winner to all their classes. All the money they raised from this fundraiser went to United Nation Children's Fund (UNICEF).

Students Receive Accolades For Success In Foreign Language Studies

Listening for Initiation.

Initiating FLHS students listen to a welcoming speech given by guest speaker, Mercedes Koch, a CHS graduate of 2000.

In March of 2005, 59 students were initiated into the Foreign Language Honor Society. To receive this honor, students need to have an average 3.0 GPA and must have a commitment to learning the language and culture. FLHS is a chance given to honor and recognize students who have excelled in the study of a foreign language. The students help tutor others who may be having a difficult time in studying the language.

There are many great aspects that contribute to being in the FLHS but according to Mrs. Appel, the best part is "The cake! No, just kidding. Actually the best part is the chance for students to be rewarded for academic achievement." This club gives students a chance to receive appreciation from teachers and fellow classmates for their academic skills. "The best part about FLHS is belonging to a group of excellence," said Ms. Malinsky.

Pomp and Circumstance

With Smiles and Tears, the Class of 2005 Bids Farewell

With "Pomp and Circumstance" echoing in the background, almost 500 members of the Class of 2005 marched across the stage in Bishop Gymnasium and received their diplomas during Commencement on a hot Sunday afternoon in early June. Not even rumors of storm clouds on the horizon could squelch the excitement in the air as the graduating seniors finally earned the right to call themselves alumni of Community High School.

"At moments during the past four years, I thought this day would never come," said Alyssa Claude, adding, "But now I can't believe that I'm finally a graduate. And I know I will never forget my friends and the special times we've shared as Wildcats."

As her fellow graduates listened intently, Bridget Geraghty delivered the Senior Farewell and encouraged her classmates to remember all those who contributed to their success. Commencement Speaker Brian Turnbaugh, a member of the English Department, encouraged the graduates to move beyond believing that a senior prank would be the biggest risk in their lives. "What worries me is not that someone would pull a prank during Graduation, but that this would be the most risk any of you do for the rest of your lives," said Turnbaugh. "Risk is knowing your strengths and forging your own path whatever that may be."

Principal John Highland congratulated the students who filled the gymnasium and reminded them that they were now part of Community High School's proud tradition of alumni. In the final moments of the ceremony, students tossed their hats in the air, hugged their friends, and marched out of the school, knowing that their journey toward the future had only just begun.

Dear Jacob,
 ...As far as possible, without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even to the dull and ignorant; they too have their story...If you compare yourself with others, you may become than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans...

 Be yourself... Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with dark imaginings.
 Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a

Dear Megan,
Your name comes from the Greek and means "great."
We are very proud of you and your accomplishments and our lives are greatly enriched by your beautiful

whatever you do, be careful, have fun, and be assured of our unconditional love.

Precious Ryan,
As you leave WCCHS to continue this journey called "life," may your faith in Christ Jesus continue to be your anchor.
We congratulate and celebrate you,
for the joy that you bring us
is ever unfolding;
your presence in our life is a rare
and fine and wonderful gift.
We bless you and wish you the joy that each day
you have given us.
Congratulations to you!

Love,

Kristin Borsodi

Dear Kristin,
You've come a long way from "Green Eggs and Ham," but now you're on to bigger and better things.
With that same
determination, wisdom,
and sense of humor,
not to mention your great smile,
you will be successful!
We're proud of you...
and always will be!
Love,
Mom & Dad

Goodbye

By Becca Zuppann

I never thought

I would face this day,
but now I know fate has its way.

It seemed it would continue,
and go on and on,

this strong friendship,
this tight true bond.

It is not broken,
just stretched far apart,

the same feeling
as my own heart.

It may not be as close
as in the past,
but I know forever it will last.

In memory of Tony Stern and Joey Stout.
